Court Refuses To Halt Amchitka Blast Despite Threat Of Quakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-judge federal appeals court Wednesday refused for a second time to halt a massive nuclear explosion scheduled for Saturday on Amchitka Island off the Alaskan coast.

The court turned back environmentalist opponents of the test a few hours after it was disclosed that President Nixon's top environmental adviser had warned that the five-megaton blast could set off a chain of earthquakes and perhaps send a tidal wave across the Pacific Ocean.

The U.S. Court of Appeals decision virtually closed out any possibility that the underground blast will be stopped.

Opponents of the blast said they would study the possibility of an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Environmentalists had claimed that even government experts believe the explosion could trigger earthquakes or tidal waves, kill wildlife or release radioactive waste into the air.

Lawyers for those seeking the injunction argued that the Atomic Energy Commission not only belittled such hazards but deliberately omitted such adverse views in its public environmental-impact statement.

The AEC announced meanwhile it has tentatively scheduled the blast for Saturday, Nov. 6, at 5 p.m. EST—11 a.m. on Amchitka, an island in the remote Aleutians.

At the same time, the AEC made public four government documents previously made available only to attorneys for the seven environment groups headed by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility.

Four other documents had been made public earlier, by court order, and opponents of the atomic test have appealed also for the release of 10 more documents which were kept secret.

One of the key documents released Wednesday is an environmental assessment by Russell E. Train, chairman of the President's Council on Environmental Quality.

Train told an undersecretaries' committee of the National Security Council that the huge blast, code-named "Cannikin," could trigger an earthquake by its direct impact on earth faults, or by forcing water into faults and lubricating them.

Train said that earlier, smaller atomic blasts had caused quakes whose force was always less than the blast itself. If that pattern were dependable, he said, "then there would be no apprehension with regard to the Cannikin event."

"Unfortunately, this is not the case," Train said.

He said recent scientific findings indicate a large earthquake may be made up of each one setting off the next.

In this theory, Train said, "Once one lock point is broken, sufficient energy may be released to break other lock points. If the stored strain energy is large then the triggered earthquake could be of much greater magnitude than the triggering event.

"The underground explosion could serve as the first domino of the row of dominos leading to a major earthquake."

Train said a big quake in the sparsely populated Aleutians might not cause much direct damage.

"The real danger from the triggering of a large earthquake by the nuclear explosion is in a tidal wave or tsunami ... It is not possible at this time to assess quantitatively the probablity of a tsunami following the explosion," he said.

Rehnquist Testifies Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — William H. Rehnquist implied strongly Wednesday that he would disqualify himself from wiretap cases if he is confirmed to a seat on the Supreme Court.

Testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee the nominee defended the Nixon administration's wiretap policies. But he said surveillance should be used only to solve or prevent crime—and not to stifle dissent. And he said the primary purpose of the Bill of Rights is to "put restraints on the government."

Rehnquist said that as an assistant attorney general he acted as an adviser on wiretapping and that "if the Justice Department position was indefensible or personally obnoxious to me I would have resigned."

Rehnquist was reluctant at times to give his views of wiretapping, citing an "attorney-client relationship" with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and with President Nixon.

But drawn out by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., he made some general observations including that he does not think government bugging, with and without judicial warrants, is "pervasive."

The Nixon administration's policies are up for decision in the Supreme Court, particularly Mitchell's stand that a warrant is not required in order to wiretap groups or individuals he concludes may pose a security threat to the government.

Rehnquist did not say specifically that he would not sit in such cases. But he said he thinks a justice would be disqualified if he "personally participated in litigation" or played the role of "advising." He then described his job on wiretapping as "advisory."

Again with some reluctance Rehnquist gave the committee his general view that wiretapping "is not an appealing type of thing and it is justified only by exigent circumstances."

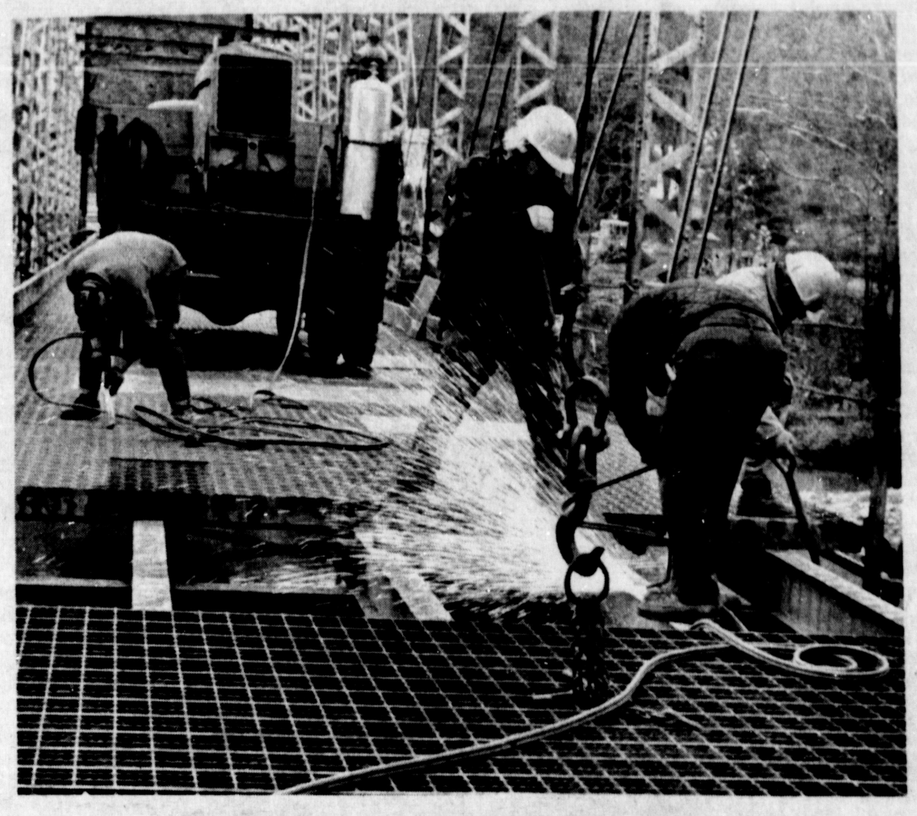

Rehnquist said he has changed his mind since 1964 when he wrote a letter to a Phoenix newspaper opposing a local ordinance to assure blacks equal public accommodations.

He told Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who raised the question, that he found the ordinance readily accepted by the people in Phoenix and, more important, he had become aware of "the strong concern minorities have for recognition of their rights."

Asked about a 1967 letter and his views on school integration, Rehnquist said his own son had profited from playing basketball and football on integrated teams in a Virginia suburban school.

But, the nominee stressed, the Negroes who attended the school live in the neighborhood.

Opponents Of School Prayer Amendment Get A Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the school-prayer amendment received a boost Wednesday from a Catholic organization and appeared to be within striking distance of victory in next Monday's showdown House vote.

The United States Catholic Conference announced its opposition to the proposal. Several Protestant and Jewish religious groups have been opposing the amendment for some time but major Catholic organizations had remained silent until Wednesday.

Spokesmen for both sides said Wednesday opponents of the amendment are picking up strength from congressmen who previously supported it or were undecided.

And House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., announced his opposition and said he thinks it will fail.

"In the past week the mail to some offices has reversed itself and congressmen who once supported it are joining our side," said Stuart Johnson, a Washington attorney who is helping lead the anti-amendment forces.

"There is some vacillation," conceded an aide to Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., a supporter of the proposal.

A two-thirds majority of "yes" votes among those present and voting is necessary to approve the amendment and send it to the Senate, where its opponents say they are not sure it can be stopped.

If all current members of the House were present and voting, 143 nays would be required to prevent the required two-thirds majority.

"We've got over a hundred we can count on now," Johnson said. "It will be decided by those who are now undecided and the no-shows."

Mrs. Ben Ruhlin of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and an ardent supporter of the amendment, said Wednesday she thinks passage is certain, declaring there are only about 88 sure opponents.

She said some of those congressmen have been fooled by church officials who oppose the prayer amendment and claim to be speaking for large groups of rank-and-file churchgoers.

Jim Hamilton, executive director of the National Council of Churches, which is working against the amendment, said "It's a very tough political issue and it's an awfully tight contest. At this point we have made more progress interpreting" the significance of the amendment "than I had thought we would. I'm cautiously optimistic."

Hamilton and other apponents say the amendment — which would also have to be approved by the Senate and three-fourths of the 50 states legislatures—say organized prayer has no place in public schools.

"Prayer is an intimate and personal voluntary kind of expression of faith," Hamilton said. "No one can define 'non-denominational' prayer which the amendment seeks to allow.

Both Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a leading opponent of the proposal, and Hamilton said Supreme Court decisions of 1962 and 1963 outlawing organized and required prayer do not prohibit a student from saying his own prayer "so long as he doesn't bother anyone," Ervin said.

Consumers Can't Sue If They're Overcharged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Banking Committee refused Wednesday to write into Phase 2 legislation provision for consumers to sue for damages if they are charged more than approved prices.

Defeat of this and several other amendments proposed to the draft of President Nixon's legislation increased indications that it will be approved in essentially the form he favors.

However, key votes on interest controls and duration of the wage-price regulating authority were put off until Thursday.

Some members are pressing for a shorter extension of control powers than Nixon seeks to give Congress a chance to review the operation of the controls some time during the next year. Otherwise, the committee appeared inclined to give the President essentially what he asked.

The administration is asking for extension of wage-price-rent control powers for a full year, until April 30, 1973.

The legislation also would add standby authority to control interest rates and dividends, strengthen enforcement provisions and provisions and provide a special review court. It would ratify decisions already made on wage and price matters.

As the committee concluded public hearings on the legislation Tuesday, consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged it to rewrite the legislation completely.

He called it "the most radical proposal made by any president in the 20th century," involving a massive grant of power to presidentially-created bodies—the Wage Board and Price Commission.

But there were no indications a majority of the committee favors a complete overhaul.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said that, honoring a pledge for speedy handling, he hopes to complete the committee's reworking of the bill in a day and have it ready for a House vote about Nov. 11.

Synod Of Bishops Upholds Ban Against Marriage

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The World Synod of Bishops has overwhelmingly upheld the ban against marriage by Latin-rite priests and forbidden them to hold political office without permission from their bishops.

One Roman Catholic priest holds major political office in U.S. government—Rep. Robert F. Drinan, a Massachusetts Democrat and a Jesuit.

Father Drinan was elected to Congress last year. During the campaign Father Drinan, on leave of absence as dean of the law school at Boston College, said, "I asked and received permission from by Jesuit superiors just the way I would if I wanted to change assignments."

The section banning priests from holding political office or assuming leadership roles for political factions—except in rare cases with their bishops' approval—was approved 149 to 1, with 5 abstentions and 47 qualified approvals.

It said all priests should keep "a certain distance from political activities," adding that the specific priestly mission must pervade priests' lives and take priority over all else.

"Assuming leadership or militantly active function must be ruled out for every priest," the approved proposition said," unless in concrete and exceptional circumstances it is required for the good of the community and with the consent of the bishop in consultation with a council of priests, and if need be, with the whole episcopal conference."

The strong vote for priestly celibacy was a blow to liberals who maintain that lifting the ban is the only way to attract more young men to the priesthood. But the synod also left room for a broad recommendation that already-married men be ordained, to discourage defections.

These were the key decisions in voting on the synod's priesthood document. The results were announced Wednesday by the Vatican.

The biennial meeting of bishops also learned that a conservative oriented "constitution" for the Roman Catholic Church has been defeated by votes mailed in by bishops. The vote was an unprecedented rejection by bishops of a major Vatican document.

The chances for advising Pope Paul VI to allow ordination of married men appeared to have gained strength. A proposition meant to discourage all married priesthood got only 95 "yes" votes —far short of the 134 needed for passage.

Ten voted against that proposition, six abstained and 91 submitted "reservations" or "modi."

The Wednesday session started with a report by Pericle Cardinal Felici, head of the Vatican Commission to Revise Canon Law, on rejection by bishops of the proposed "constitution" or "fundamental law."

The law, meant as a preamble to a revised church law, underscored papal authority and appeared to make Bishops' synods take a back seat to the Roman Curia. Critics also said it left priests and laymen too little voice in shaping church reforms.

Cardinal Felici's commission eked out a narrow victory in a mail referendum on whether such a law should even exist.

Snow Kiddin'

Routine checks of state police substations in surrounding counties and lower New York State last night revealed that winter is here.

Of the eight stations checked, five reported snow with rain following. An additional snow report came from Youngsville. Snow was reported at Corry, Erie, Falconer, Mayville and Jamestown. Stations east of Warren did not report snow at the time of our check.

Thousands Of GIs May Be Home For Christmas

SAIGON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird met the top U.S. officials in Saigon Wednesday night to discuss plans to send thousands of GIs home for Christmas.

Laird said American battlefield casualties for the seven-day period ended last Saturday were the lowest at any time since March 1965, when U.S. forces expanded their mission from an advisory role to include combat operations.

Although Laird declined to say how many U.S. soldiers were killed in action during the period, informants put the toll at two.

Laird's mission here, which he said President Nixon had directed, started with talks which began immediately after his 8:30 p.m. arrival from Washington.

"Our consultations will start this evening with Ambassador (Ellsworth) Bunker and Gen. (Creighton) Abrams," he told newsmen after landing at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Other strategists on hand included Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who traveled with Laird from Washington, and Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander of U.S forces in the Pacific, who flew in from his Honolulu headquarters. Abrams is commander of all U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Laird said he also planned to confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu, the South Vietnamese defense minister, the Joint General Staff and other Saigon officials during his three-day visit.

Nixon has ordered the authorized U.S. troop ceiling in Vietnam cut to 184,000 by the end of this month, but actual strength is expected to drop to 175,000 by then. Current strength is 196,700.

Nixon will make a major announcement on about Nov. 15 on his 10th troop cutback, scheduled to begin Dec. 1.

Sources said thousands of troops would be sent home in time for Christmas. They said many men not scheduled for rotation home until early next year would have their departure dates moved ahead to get them back for Christmas.

Under the Vietnamization program, the Pentagon has envisaged that U.S. strength will be cut to a residual force of between 20,000 and 40,000 by mid 1972.

Oath Of Allegiance Mandatory For Passport Applicants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has ordered that every person applying for a passport be required to take an oath of allegiance, ending for the time being at least a dispute dating to the 1950s.

State Department officials acknowledged Wednesday that Rogers had decided on a mandatory oath even though recent Supreme Court decisions have eased restrictions on passport applications. "There didn't seem to be any real reason why an oath shouldn't be required," one official said.

The secretary's action followed a July directive by a federal District Court that the department decide by Oct. 31 to either make the oath mandatory or drop it altogether.

Until recent years any American citizen applying for a passport had to either swear or affirm his allegiance to the United States. However, the passport oath came under attack in the 1960s by the American Civil Liberties Union and others who said it was irrelevant. According to the ACLU a passport is a right guaranteed by the Constitution to every citizen and cannot be restricted.

After several years of dispute the State Department ruled in 1967 it had no authority to force an oath-taking, but passport applications would continue to carry the oath for those wanting to take it.

This did not satisfy the ACLU, which sued to force deletion of the oath altogether. This suit led to the July ruling by District of Columbia federal District Judge June Green ordering the State Department to decide one way or the other.

According to department officials the White House and several members of congress joined with the Passport Office in urging retention of the oath.

Solid Waste Collection Plan Complicated By Boro Ordinance

By BOB CLEVER

Members of District II of the solid waste authority learned last night that their problems of establishing collection procedures are becoming increasingly more complex, even with the alleviation of the general problems of garbage collection which resulted from the recent extension of time granted for landfill operations locally. Valentine and Ray's Disposal had been ordered closed on November 1, but the Dept. of Justice has granted an extension to March 1, 1972.

At their meeting in the borough building in Warren, the five supervisors from Glade, Mead and Pleasant Townships continued their discussion of a cooperative effort for the collection of solid waste from the entire district, which includes Warren and Clarendon Boroughs.

Warren Borough, it was learned, is a complicating factor because its ordinance requires collection of garbage at the rear of a residence in plastic bags, in cans, tied off for collection.

The other areas require collection at the curb in plastic bags.

Warren Borough, therefore, may have to go it alone, because of the increased costs that will result for this service, some of the supervisors said. The borough was not represented at the meeting.

A Mead Township supervisor indicated a reluctance to consider a cooperative effort because of the possibility that costs for its residents might be increased due to such complications as are presented by the Warren Borough ordinance.

George Atkins, the district's consultant, suggested that he remain for the discussion before making this decision. At the end of the two-hour session, he indicated that he had been convinced that his township should continue to investigate a cooperative effort.

Although it had previously been ruled that municipalities could not negotiate franchises for collection services, and that sealed bids would be required, it was indicated last night that

Burglars Loot Behrend Campus

ERIE—Between $1,500 and $2,000 was taken from a safe Monday night in the administration building of Behrend Campus, Pennsylvania State University.

Irvin H. Kochel, Behrend administrator, said the safe-cracking effort was described by investigating state police as the work of professionals. A drill was used to open the safe.

A bar of some kind was used to pry open a back door to the administration building to gain entrance.

Murder Charge

ERIE—Norris Jones, 19, of 3514 Burton st., Monday was ordered held for court on a murder charge, following a preliminary hearing before District Justice Samuel U. Rossiter Jr.

Jones is accused of fatally stabbing Dennis Stanko, 22, of 127 E. 37th on Oct. 8.

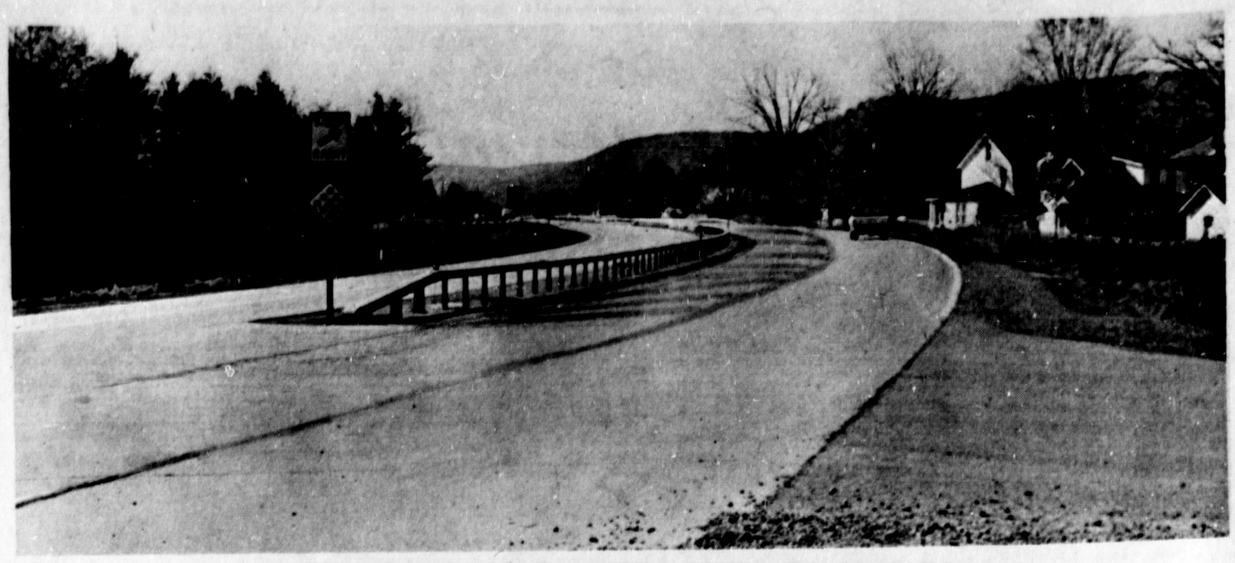

Craig Stanko, 15, the victim's brother, said Jones and another man beat him near Burton Plaza and that he had gone home and told his brother and a friend. Dennis was stabbed in a scuffle at Jones' house.

Rehnquist

He said he believes in the "concept of neighborhood schools" and "has some reservations about transporting students great distances" to accomplish desegregation.

The assistant attorney general in the Nixon administration criticized the firing on student demonstrators at Kent State in Ohio, calling it a "misguided and unwarranted misuse of force."

YOUNGSVILLE BARRICADES REMOVED

The highway barricades that regulated traffic flow on the U.S. 6 bypass at Youngsville were removed recently. Officials from the Franklin district office said the median strip would be extended across the Ford st. and Railroad st. crossings and that traffic lights would be installed at the Main st. intersection. Also, a holding lane for left-turn traffic onto the bypass would be added to Main st. at the junction. No information was available as to when the projected work would be completed. New Priorities May Force County Road Project Changes

By BOB ROGGE

Members of the Warren County Planning Commission met Wednesday morning with two representatives of the Franklin district highway office and learned that some of the county highway projects that had been included in the state's six-year plan would have to be dropped because of financial difficulties.

Don Dolecki and Al Fiscus of the Franklin office informed the local planning group that in May of 1971 the state transportation commission had informed the state department of finance it would have to update the six-year highway program as increased costs and other previously unforeseen expenses had resulted in about one-third of the overall project being cancelled.

Dolecki told the group that the program, originally cost estimated at $4.9 billion, had been reduced to $3.2 billion, a figure that includes federal participation as well as state expenditures. He said that approximately $1.7 billion in highway projects would have to be dropped; although not all of them would necessarily be completely cancelled. Some would be transferred into the regular road maintenance program, and several such projects in Warren County, each costing less than $100,000, are to be so handled.

Dolecki and Fiscus asked the county planning commission to create a list of priorities for the remaining projects and added that, if they so desired, they could add new projects to the list provided the added projects were of equal dollar value to projects displaced. An additional requirement, said Dolecki, was that each such added project was to have a completed corridor study.

One project that was dropped from the six-year program by the highway department is that of placing stone rip-rap in the Allegheny River in Pleasant Twp. to prevent further bank erosion. The project also included removal of a sand bar in the river. Dolecki said this project would be transferred to the maintenance budget.

Other county road projects to be dropped from the six-year plan, all costing under $100,000, and to be included in future maintenance planning, are: (1) L.R. 61018, ½ mile near Coffee Creek near Columbus; (2) L.R. 88, rehabilitation of a bridge two miles east of Youngsville in Brokenstraw Twp.; (3) rehabilitation of the bridge leading to the Buckaloons turnoff; (4) L.R. 93, rehabilitation of a bridge over Dale Run in Limestone Twp., and (5) L.R. 279, reconstruction of 1.2 miles of road from Sugar Grove to the New York line.

Dolecki listed seven projects in the priority in which his office saw them, but said the planning commission was not bound by the order listed and could make any changes it desired. His list was as follows: the three phases of the Warren bypass; the addition of two lanes of road from Rogertown to Kinzua Dam; replacement of a bridge over Brokenstraw Creek near Columbus; rehabilitation of the intersection of Conewango ave. and Pennsylvania ave. east in Warren, (where a traffic study showed 19,000 vehicles a day passing through), and the continuation of the steel medial strip at the Ford st. and Railroad st. intersections with the U.S. bypass at Youngsville and the installation of traffic lights and the addition of a holding lane for left-turning traffic onto the bypass at the Main st. intersection.

With regard to highway financing, Dolecki clarified several points. He said that with state highway construction, the federal government contributes 50 per cent of the actual construction cost with the state financing the balance as well as providing right-of-way acquisition and engineering studies. On the Interstate Highway program, Dolecki said federal and state costs are split fifty-fifty on an all-inclusive basis.

The local planning commission is to provide the Franklin district office with its list of job priorities by the third week in November. Dolecki said the final, revised highway program should be ready for distribution by July 1972.

HIGHWAY PRIORITY DISCUSSED

Don Dolecki, left, and Al Fiscus, engineers from the highway district office at Franklin are shown as they discuss revisions to the state's six-year highway program. They told members of the Warren County Planning Commission how that body should establish priorities for highway work within the county. They also discussed planned road projects that would have to be dropped from the six-year program and phased into the regular maintenance scheduling. (Photo by Mansfield)

Bypass Phase I Waits Paperwork Completion

Members of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce transportation committee met Wednesday afternoon with Don Dolecki and Al Fiscus of the district highway office, Franklin, in the Chamber's committee room and were brought up to date on the paperwork associated with the various phases of the Warren bypass.

Dolecki reviewed the status of the application for a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Pittsburgh, to make the embankment fill in the Allegheny River as required for Phase I of the project. He said that the engineers had replied to the effect that they had granted an extension of time to the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife until Friday, Nov. 5, to file any objections they might have. If no reply is received by Friday, the Corps of Engineers said they would process the application for the permit.

If, however, the bureau should object, Dolecki said the entire process would have to be re-run. He said the environmental statement had been forwarded for the Federal Highway Administration last month and that his office was expecting a reply within the 45-day time limit.

With regard to Phase II of the bypass, Dolecki told the group that his office had received the studies for the two alternate alignments; studies that are required for the proposed public hearing now tentatively scheduled for next February. He also said his office was preparing the environmental studies and other reports required for the public hearing and would be forwarding them to Harrisburg in the near future.

A field view, conducted by engineers of the FHA, is also required before the public hearing. Additionally, a time lag of 40 days for public advertising before the public hearing will add to the overall delay in scheduling the hearing, Dolecki said.

Harold Beach, transportation committee member, inquired of Dolecki as to whether or not plans for Rt. 62 North in front of Jamesway could be altered to include a cross over for northbound traffic wanting to turn into the shopping center. He said present plans show a solid 16-foot wide medial strip along the shopping center frontage. Dolecki said that as long as the medial strip has not been installed, he did not see why the change couldn't be made.

5% Guideline Proposed For Pay Hikes

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON— The public and business members of the Pay Board proposed Wednesday a 5 per cent guideline for wage increases during Phase Two of the Nixon administration's new economic program.

Qualified sources said that statements developed during separate caucuses by members of the two groups also agreed that workers should not be allowed to recover pay raises blocked during the wage-price freeze, that expires Nov. 13.

No action was taken on the proposals during the three-hour session, but the public and business representatives make up a two-thirds majority of the 15-member board.

There was no immediate reaction from labor, which holds the remaining five seats. But the trade union members have insisted that existing contracts must be honored and retroactive and deferred increases paid.

Scout Roundtable

The monthly Cub and Boy Scout Roundtable meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the First Lutheran Church at Third st. and East st. Theme for the program will be "Goodwill" and will be put on by the following leaders: Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Pack 14; Webelos leader Daniel Lewis, Pack 26, and Mrs. Chris Thompson of Pac 33.

The baby sitting program has been cancelled because of lack of response.

Cub and Boy Scout commissioners meeting will also be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the church. All leaders are urged to attend all Roundtable meetings.

Waste

recent legal opinions have been to the contrary.

With further word from their solicitor, the supervisors indicated that they would prefer to follow the franchise route.

The supervisors generally agreed that they did not want to subject their constituents to the sad experiences of Jamestown's residents with a collection contract awarded on sealed bids. Not only is the cost considerably higher than anticipated, they said, but the service has been very poor.

Atkin, of Northwest Engineering Inc. in Tidioute, also the authority's consultant, explained a bid form which he was preparing which the supervisors would use in their negotiations, whether by sealed bid or franchise.

It was agreed that negotiations would be for a three-year contract with a renegotiation clause at the end of one year based on increased labor costs only.

Atkin pointed out how the authority's enforcement officer would assist in the districts in enforcing collection requirements.

No One Injured In Two-Car Mishap

State police investigated a two-car accident at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Village of Enterprise.

According to police, a car driven by Everett W. Barger, of RD 2, Tidioute, traveling on the Tidioute-Enterprise rd., pulled into the path of an auto operated by Gale M. Ruth, of RD 1, Grand Valley, which was traveling south on Route 27.

Damage to the Barger vehicle was estimated at $150; $1,400 to the Ruth auto.

Trooper Kenneth E. Corle of the Warren substation investigated.

Local Airstrip Saves Gasless Light Plane

A brand-new 1972 single engine Bellanca airplane was saved Wednesday by Warren County's only airstrip, Scandia Airpark.

The plane, enroute from Texas to Albany, N.Y., was prevented from landing at Erie International Airport because of weather and the pilot tried for Bradford Regional Airport.

With all tank gauges registering empty, he was preparing to ditch the plane in Conewango Creek when the pilot saw the wind T at Scandia Airpark and hastened to land. Harold Beach, owner of the air strip, flew to Jamestown to get 10 gallons of 100 octane gas for the Bellanca and it left at about 1 p.m. for Bradford—and more fuel, before going on to Albany.

Burglary Of Corry Store Investigated

CORRY—While the inventory of missing guns is not yet complete, city police are investigating the burglary over the weekend of the A.M. Litz Shoe Repair and Sports Store at 112 North Center st. in which six guns are missing.

Litz reported the burglary Monday and identified two missing hand guns, but is still checking his inventory to come up with the make, model and registration numbers of four rifles.

Total loss in the burglary is $650, Litz said.

The burglars climbed a wooden fence at the south side of the building, between the Litz Shop and Charger Service Station. They then broke a window in an enclosed porch to enter the building. Also broken was a window on the porch leading to the store and gained entrance to the area where the guns were kept.

The missing guns are described as a .22 caliber Colt Frontier revolver and a chrome German-made Arminius eight-shot revolver, also a .22 caliber.

Lundine Wins Landslide Victory

JAMESTOWN, N.Y.—Mayor Stanley N. Lundine won every district Tuesday night on his way to a landslide victory over Republican challenger Warren T. Erickson. Unofficial totals credited Lundine with 9,144 votes and Erickson with 5,388.

Lundine claimed his administration's victory showed the people of Jamestown have confidence in the future of the city.

Reiterating his campaign slogan, "Together we can," Jamestown's young mayor urged every city resident to work for a better community and "make Jamestown a truely great American city."

Erickson conceded defeat at 9:45 p.m. amid a crowd which had little to smile about all evening. He then made the trek to Democratic campaign headquarters to offer his personal congratulations to the victor. He urged his supporters to "Get behind and work for Mayor Lundine."

Housing Authority Meets Monday

The consultant to the Warren County Housing Authority will meet with its members at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Nov. 8 in the commissioner's conference room.

Flanders O'Neal will discuss project developers and will make recommendations.

Trailer Fire

There was a house trailer fire at about 12:15 a.m. today at the junction of Rt. 6 and Rt. 27 in Pittsfield. Youngsville Fire Department answered the call. No details were available at press time.

CUT 1971 TAXES-IV

Income Averaging

By Sylvia Porter

You may be able to cut your 1971 income tax burden unexpectedly and fairly substantially via the use of "income averaging" if you are among the millions who this year have received fat pay hikes; or earned a hefty bonus, fee or commission; or taken a big capital gain; or won a whopping lottery prize.

The income-averaging rules now cover long-term capital gains and gambling winnings (including lotteries) as well as other income. And you are eligible to use income averaging to get a lower tax for yourself IF your 1971 taxable income for the four years of 1967 through 1970 and this excess is more than $3,000.

These are the weeks to find out whether income averaging is feasible for you—and if possible, to try to adjust your income so that it is subject to the most favorable tax treatment.

To find out whether you qualify for this tax break—or how close you are to qualifying—check your income tax returns for the four years 1967-1970. Add up your taxable incomes for those four years. Divide by four. This is your base period average taxable income.

Now match your average against the following table prepared by Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America. It will tell you whether income averaging will save at least $100 in taxes for you, filing as a married person, on your 1971 tax return.

Say your average base period income is $4,000 or $6,000, you will save at least $100 in taxes if your 1971 income is $11,333. Or if your average base period income is $8,000, you save at least $100 in taxes if your 1971 income is $15,333.

Similarly, you will save at least $100 in taxes if, on an average base period income of $10,000 or $12,000, your 1971 income is $19,333. You will save at least $100 if, on an average of $14,000 or $16,000, your 1971 income is $22,500.

In the higher brackets, you will save at least $100 in taxes on an average base period income of $18,000 if your 1971 income is $26,500; or on an average of $20,000 if your 1971 income is $31,333; or on an average of $25,000 if your 1971 income is $35,333; or on an average of $30,000 if your 1971 income is $43,333.

You will also save at least $100 in taxes on an average base period income of $36,000 if your 1971 income is $49,000; on an average of $40,000 if your 1971 income is $55,333; on an average of $50,000 if your 1971 income is $69,000.

You will even save a minimal $100 in taxes on an average base period income of $60,000 if your 1971 income is $79,333; on an average of $90,000 if your 1971 income is $125,000; and on an average of $100,000 if your 1971 income is $145,000. But if your average base period income is $200,000 or over, no savings are possible.

You could start to save taxes via income averaging at lower totals than this. If your average base period income is $10,000, for instance, you could save taxes starting with a '71 income of $16,000 rather than $19,333. Or you could save on an average base income of $20,000 starting at $28,000 rather than $31,333 and so it would go. But the savings might be small. The figures given above are for a minimum savings of $100.

Here is one more illustration of how this works. Suppose you add up your taxable income in each of the four years, 1967-70, divide by four and come to an average base period income of $8,000. And suppose that your pay hike this past spring plus your lottery winnings will boost your 1971 taxable income to about $16,000.

Look across from $8,000 to $15,333. You clearly can save more than $100 in taxes by income averaging.

Council Extends Deadline For Sellers' Price List

The Cost of Living Council has reaffirmed its requirements for sellers to provide ceiling price information to their customers, but is extending the November 1, 1971, deadline for businessmen to have available lists of ceiling prices for the products and services they sell. Robert C. Stevens, Philadelphia Regional Director for the Office of Emergency Preparedness, announced today.

Stevens said that the council was extending the deadline until the price commission approves its post-freeze pricing policies and any requirements for ceiling price lists, which may prove to be different from those currently in effect.

He emphasized that present requirements on providing ceiling price information continue in effect. Each seller either must have ceiling price lists available or provide, on request, ceiling price information to customers by mail within 48 hours. In the latter case, sellers also must post large signs on each selling floor to announce the availability of ceiling price information.

To ensure full compliance with the regulation by retailers and other businessmen, internal revenue service employees will conduct a special survey of the availability of ceiling price information in stores throughout the nation.

SYDNEY (AP) — An aborigine, David Edward Wotherspoon, has been granted a liquor license at a hotel 70 miles north of Sydney.

Only a few years ago, over most of Australia, aborigines were not permitted in hotel bars and it was an offense to supply them with liquor.

The Voters Spoke

A Wednesday story in this newspaper noted that there was strong evidence of voter dissatisfaction in Warren County with the Warren County School District board's personnel, policies, or both.

We feel that an analysis of the voting in the two contested school director races bears this out; the closeness of the races, both decided by less than a 200-vote margin, cannot be attributed to political party strength alone, since the races were much closer than any others in the county. And the relative youth and political obscurity of the two defeated challengers seems to rule out personalities as the major explanation for the closeness of the vote.

So, what's left? The issues. And of the issues, taxes was undoubtedly the most crucial. The board did not raise taxes last year, but it is no secret that many voters feel the taxes are unbearably high right now.

Is it completely fair, though, to hold our county school board completely responsible for the high taxes? Not quite. Approximately half the $10.5 million annual budget for the district is made up of state funds; to qualify for these state funds, the district must maintain programs that meet state standards.

Therein lies the rub; for federal or state-mandated programs often require (as in the case of the cafeteria program) an expenditure of local funds, raised primarily by property and wage taxes, that is far higher than would be needed if the program were handled on a strictly local level. But—if we want that $5 million plus—we seem to be stuck. The local directors, in effect, often have no choice on voting to fund a particular program, for if they refuse to ante up the required cash—the state (or federal) government withholds its share.

We are now paying the price for state aid—essentially, we have lost control, to a large extent, over what is supposed to be our own school district.

To blame our local directors is partially correct; as directors, they must shoulder the responsibility for the district, whether the situation they face is their fault or not.

But to blame them alone is short-sighted. We can blame the state, we can blame the federal government—but most of all, we can blame ourselves for not seeing this impasse coming about soon enough.

At any rate, the voters have shouted one message loud and clear in Tuesday's election: they don't like the present situation one bit.

We hope that they bear the dissatisfaction in mind when talking to—and voting for—state and federal officials in future elections.

A Welcome Change

To the Republicans go the offices; to the losers go the laurels.

Without judging the qualifications of the victors, this is our post-election view of Tuesday's municipal election.

A better than 50 per cent turnout of voters in the off-year election is an encouraging factor in itself. But the renewed show of strength on the part of the minority Democratic party is something else to think about.

We like to believe that Warren County is entering a political era "unheard" of in recent decades—a strong two-party system of government.

We like to believe too that the voter is not just pulling the party lever in the polling booth.

While the Republicans hold over a 62 per cent majority of the registered voters in Warren County, the margins in Tuesday's contests failed to reflect this trend.

We have been critized in the past for stating the local Democratic party lacked unity. It now appears many differences have been washed away. And a new and younger element has provided fresh blood by joining the team.

We look forward to future elections with the hope both parties will be required to come up with their strongest and most qualified slates of candidates for a truly competitive election.

ON THE RIGHT . . .

Knapp

By William F. Buckley Jr.

In New York City there is an ongoing scandal as the Knapp Commission reveals, day after day, evidence of widespread corruption in the Police Department. Testimony varies from Hot Dog Joints that offer the cop on the beat a free cup of coffee, which relationship between entrepreneur and policeman scandalizes only the particularly sensitive, on over to the truly horrendous, for instance the official who on learning the identity of a Federal Narcotics Agent, allegedly turned his name over to the syndicate, which promptly murdered him.

In between is the body of the charges against New York policemen. As leveled by one witness, whose evidence was dismayingly concrete, the charge is that there is arising a culture among the police, the conventions of which call for accepting as a matter of course substantial payments in return for substantial protection.

Mr. Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute reminds us that there is a difference between graft and corruption. The difference is best explained by illustrations. If you desire to take a driving test quickly, but you know that your application will take six months before coming to the top of the pile and you slip the clerk a $20 bill to advance your priority, you have encouraged, and the clerk has acquiesced in, an act of graft. If you are unqualified to take a driver's test and you bribe the clerk into issuing you a license under a false name, you have encouraged, and he has committed, corruption.

It is much graft, and a great deal of corruption, that the Knapp witnesses are talking about. Mostly, the purpose appears to be to protect gamblers and prostitutes from any interruption in their activities. Occasionally, if we are to believe the evidence, it is worse: the protection is bought and sold for narcotics peddlers. And, as noted, occasionally it goes all the way: complicity in murder.

Concerning all of this, a few observations:

1. Graft among clerks and policemen in other countries is altogether routine—and altogether undesirable. In Mexico City, 20 years ago, the compensation for a clerk who handles applications for driving licenses was fixed at a rate which was somewhere below starvation. The understanding was that customers would augment his salary. They did.

In New York City, the pay of clerks and policemen is not fixed at a level which excuses the taking of graft as a matter of natural necessity. Accordingly, higher standards than are pressed elsewhere are applicable.

2. The mind turns, inevitably, to the why of it all. Granted that we are all corruptible. Still, there is pride; and, until the evidence is overwhelmingly to the contrary, one must assume that the majority of New York policemen are not, as they put it, on the pad.

Even so there are enough of them who demonstrably are, to raise the question: why? Are they, as a breed, singularly liable to corruption? Only in the sense that their duties as law enforcers put them constantly in contact with those whose interests are in circumnavigating the law. All right, granted that the temptations are more ubiquitous than, say, would face a post office mail carrier. But people do resist temptation.

What then is the explanation for the apparent susceptibility of so many of them? Clearly it is something other than the lackadaisical monitoring of the Lindsay Administration. It must have something to do with the growth of cynicism which is everywhere apparent. Nowhere more obviously than among the lawyers into whose hands the policemen turn over the criminals who are so often apprehended at risk of life and limb, only to see them ushered into that paradise which the legal community and the Supreme Court have prepared for them. An inconspicuous little news story, during the Knapp hearings, tells of a New York attorney who asked for mandatory two to five year sentences for drug pushers, having observed that more often than not they are back in a matter of months, practising their trade.

The lawyers have developed wonderful constitutional justifications for what amounts to transmuting crimes into peccadillos.

The policemen lose their moorings. Do not mistake me, they shouldn't be permitted to do so. But in an age in which we are asked to understand why people murder people, we should also seek to understand why some policemen engage in graft and corruption.

The Enemy Gap

By Russell Baker
(c) N.Y. Times News Service

The congressmen and generals who protect us here in the United States from our foreign enemies are having great difficulty these days because nobody can agree who our foreign enemies are.

This is because we are now undergoing another change of enemies such as we had in the late 1940's, when our old enemies Germany and Japan were suddenly declared friends and our friends Russia and China just as suddenly became enemies.

Now that President Nixon is trying to make it up with Peking and Moscow, we're suddenly faced with the possibility of an enemy gap. This is intolerable because if there is no enemy, congressmen and generals will not have anybody to protect us from except ourselves, and most of us wouldn't wish that kind of protection on anybody who has to live in the same country with it.

The betting about who the new enemy will be centers upon three countries—Japan, Canada and Denmark. Each country has its supporters in Washington, and a good case can be made for any of the three, although there is a good bit of personal prejudice inside the White House against making Japan the enemy.

This flows from the President's close adviser, H. R. Haldeman, who is an ardent amateur photographer and does not want to be cut off from Japanese cameras.

The military also opposes Japan. The Joint Chiefs of Staff have sent the White House a position paper noting that the United States has already beaten Japan in one war, pointing out that it would be boring to have to fight the same country again and stating that they would like to try someplace new.

Arguments for and against Canada are also spirited. There is a faction in the White House that is tired of hearing Canadians accuse the United States of never thinking about Canada. "They are perfectly right" one White House man conceded the other day. "Try as hard as I may, I can never seem to remember to think about Canada. If Canada were our most deadly enemy, however, we would think about it constantly. It would have nothing more to complain about, and U.S.-Canadian relations would be wonderfully improved."

Opposition to Canada is led by J. Edgar Hoover. Canada's population, Hoover argues, is so small that it would be unable to support an espionage system big enough to keep the F.B.I.'s full resources employed. Many F.B.I. agents would be put out of work. The American economy would suffer further setbacks in an already difficult period. Hoover was suggested that government enemy-seeking task forces take a look at India.

The case for Denmark is, in some ways, the most persuasive of all. For one thing, Washington is distinctly irritated with Denmark. When the United States put a 10 per cent surcharge on imports to keep foreign goods out of America, Denmark responded by putting on a 10 per cent surcharge of her own.

Washington regards this as a provocation. For one thing, it could keep American products out of Denmark; for another, it could hurt world trade if every country in the world went around doing what we do. The menace of Denmark's action has not been lost on the Pentagon, which has been re-examining satellite pictures of the streets of Copenhagen for a second look at what were once idly dismissed as mere manhole covers.

Recent photos show that new "manhole covers" being installed in Copenhagen are nearly three inches bigger in diameter than those observed in the past. This leads intelligence sources to wonder whether the Danes are installing the new SS15 missile. This device, with a range of up to 5,500 miles, is capable of delivering 15 pounds of smoked eel, aquavit and pumpernickel wrapped in a pornographic magazine on American cities as far west as Chicago.

The pentagon is divided on Denmark. The missilemen favor it, because they like the professional challenge of having to hit Denmark with an intercontinental ballistic missile without splashing any on Germany, Sweden or Norway.

The Army, on the other hand, is opposed. Having seen its soldiers demoralized by the vices of Saigon, it has no desire to expose American fighting men to Copenhagen's notorious pornography dens and the Tivoli Amusement Park.

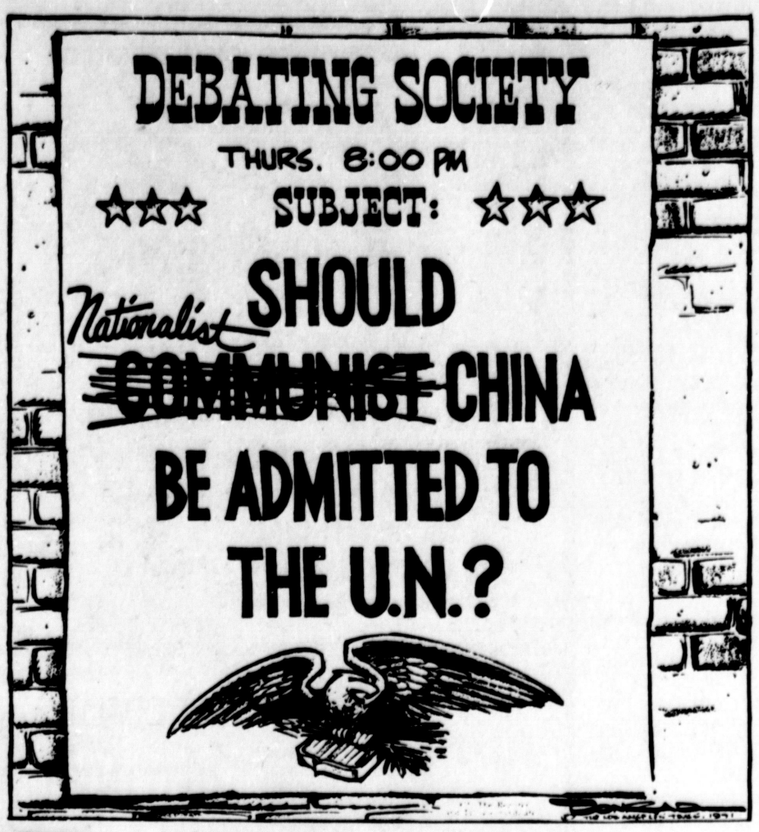

Highly active among those working to establish Denmark as foreign enemy No. 1 are a number of distinguished old Senate Red hunters, who have had few headlines since the juice went out of anti-Communist subversion investigations.

"When we consider the millions of American tourists who have traipsed through Denmark and shamelessly enjoyed themselves," Senator Merle Survine says, "we must realize that this country is probably swarming with people who are soft on Danes."

A PAPER BOY'S PLEA

I like my job, and think it's fun.
But sometimes it seems, like
I'm never done.
You like your paper there safe and sound,
But often when I collect, you're not to be found.
Sometimes you're too busy,
sometimes you're not home.
And sometimes I find, you're as dry as a bone.
It isn't much fun, going back
several times,
Trying to collect all the nickels and dimes.
I do appreciate those who are ready,
To pay me the money even though it seems petty.
My bill is due at the end of each week.
So please have it ready, don't play hide and seek.

PENNSYLVANIA STORY

It Hasn't Worked

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG—Curiously perhaps, the 1971 Legislature which is now in its eleventh month of sessioning, should have meant the start of something approaching a new era for the Keystone State—but it hasn't exactly worked out that way.

Reason it should have been something approaching a new era in the Keystone State is simply that Governor Shapp as a Democratic chief executive hustled into office back in January blessed with a completely Democratic Legislature—both the House of Representatives and the Senate—for the first donkey rider to do so since the 1930's when Democratic Governor George H. Earle managed the same feat.

It is true that in rather recent years there have been Democratic chief executives—Governor Leader and Lawrence, circa 1955-63—but these Excellencies did not enjoy dominance of the legislative branch by the same political party.

In other words, you have to waddle back to the Earle era to recall a parallel to what may be in store for Pennsylvania after tomorrow's inaugural festivities.

Many, many major changes were made during the sojourn of Governor Earle and his legislative colleagues—changes which flipped the pattern for the Keystone State even to the present day.

The significant point however is that Mr. Earle could not have made the changes without the wholehearted support of the legislative branch—which he enjoyed the last two years of his sojourn in 1937 and 1938. (His first two years he had a Democratic House—but not the Senate.)

On the other hand, there is a difference between the Democratic Legislature enjoyed by Mr. Earle nearly 40 years ago and that which Mr. Shapp will face during the current two year span.

In the first place, Governor Earle was an out-and-out organization Democrat and his colleagues in the Legislature were equally organization-oriented.

During his occupancy of the Executive Mansion there was much eye-to-eye seeing in goals, programs and strategy between himself and Democratic lawmakers lording it over their Republican colleagues.

Governor Shapp is not in quite the same posture.

It is true he is a Democrat and it is equally true Democrats rule the legislative roost—but that is just about where the similarity ends.

It will be recalled that Mr. Shapp "fought" the Democratic state organization when he entered the gubernatorial primary last year—and four years earlier.

In other words, Mr. Shapp won the gubernatorial rowboat in spite of—not in consort with—Pennsylvania's Democratic hierarchy.

Additionally, and this point already has proven most critical, while fellow Democrats do indeed have sufficient seats in both House and Senate to control those two chambers, most Democratic lawmakers feel they won their legislative spurs in spite of—not in consort with—Pennsylvania's Democratic Governor.

Thus the obligatory rapport that existed more than 30 years ago when Mr. Earle enjoyed a Democratic Legislature doesn't exactly exist in the present circumstance.

This is not to say the Legislature is on a continual bend determined to slap Mr. Shapp at his every move throughout the remainder of this year and next year (a Legislature holds its political complexion for two-year spans) but it is to say that the current theoretically "pro-administration" gathering has been and will be anything of a Shapp rubber stamp.

This has been demonstrated repeatedly during the current ten-month session—a decided contrast to the Democratic reign of Mr. Earle some three decades ago!

The Readers Speak

Dear Sir,

Two short years ago a small group of persons concerned about the future of medical and dental needs in the Sheffield area decided to do something about it. With the Sheffield Rotary Club acting as sponsoring agent, committees were formed and before long over 30 clubs and organizations were helping formulate plans for a dental, doctor and community center.

A house to house canvass was set up, business places were contacted, clubs and organizations were solicited. Donations came in from the surrounding areas. Cash and pledges came in from Brookston, Barnes, Henry Mills, Blue Jay, Roystone, Ludlow, Sheffield, Saybrook, Tiona, Weldbank, Cherry Grove, Clarendon and Warren. Business and local factories responded to the plea.

Most everyone knows the end result, it is now history, not news. Sheffield now has one of the finest, up to date dental and doctor accommodations in Western Penna. The community center in the lower level is a thing of beauty as well as a home for our senior citizens to meet. The lower level is now open to any civic or non-profit organization that wishes to use it.

We are still in need of a medical doctor to fill the one vacant suite in the center. The doctor procurement committee is contacting all available names to get another doctor to serve our area.

The fund drive came up with approximately $140,000 in cash and pledges. We will have a mortgage to pay off, but we are confident this can be accomplished in the near future. The $140,000 was sufficient to build the center. The cost of blacktopping, land fill, furniture, equipment, rugs, file cabinets, etc. is yet to be paid off. We will probably have to have more public support to attain this goal.

The main reason I am writing to you is to thank the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer for the publicity we received in your paper. We could not have achieved these results without your help. When we needed your help to get information to the public, your paper responded beautifully. Many thousand words were printed and hundreds of pictures were published, and I know, because I have kept a scrap-book and saved them.

We received help from all of your staff, but a special thanks must go to Bob Clever who seemed to always be there when we needed him.

Many thanks to the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer.

Dear Sir:

Could you please tell me what kind of justice exists at the Municipal Building? The reason I ask this is because of the unfair tactics given to me and some other unknowledgable motorists.

The problem stems from the sign that used to hang below the light at the intersection of Market and Third St., for years that stated "No left turn from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m." At one time not long ago, the sign did not appear there, so I and other motorists had proceeded to turn left on Third going north on Market. The very next day, I made the same turn and was stopped on Market St., by a city policeman who had already stopped 3 or 4 motorists for the same violation. I asked him why, and he informed me of the "No left turn" sign. Upon my bewilderment, I asked him to show me where the sign was. I went across the street to Third and there, halfway hidden under the branches of a tree, was the sign. I asked him how long it had been there, and he informed me it had just been put up.

Later on in the week, I went to the Municipal Building to pay my fine, but before I entered the Justice of the Peace room I was talking to the chief who was in the building and telling him that I would pay the fine, but I didn't think it was fair, because it was so hard to see the sign. He didn't have too much to say about it. I then went to see Martha Lawson, and told her about it, and paid my fine.

The following week I found out the sign was illegal, because it was one inch too small by county, city or state standards. Since then a new and larger sign was put up in a different location, plus an additional sign was erected across the street on Market.

Now here is my gripe. Before I paid my fine, the policemen that I had talked to knew that sign was illegal but did not tell me that. Martha Lawson knew the sign was illegal but didn't tell me either.

And so I made another trip to the Municipal Building to ask Miss Lawson why she had accepted my fine, knowing full well that the old sign was illegal. She informed me that if I had told her before I paid the fine that I knew the sign was illegal, she would not have accepted the money.

Now I know for a fact that some motorists who were stopped for this certain violation did not have to pay the fine because they knew or were informed about the legality of the sign. And I also know of some motorists, who like me were ignorant about the size of the sign, who were suckered in to pay the fine.

Now, I ask you, is this fair? Is this what they call justice?

Sincerely yours,
-s- Frank C. Russo

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—A top State Department official, frustrated in his attempts to break through the White House guard with urgent warnings, has turned to us to sound the alarm. We have agreed not to disclose his identity at this time.

Washington has affronted and antagonized and alienated other nations, he says, until U.S. influence is on the wane around the world. There was a nasty, anti-American undercurrent to the resounding United Nations vote to oust Nationalist China. In most countries, it has become a popular political sport to make Uncle Sam a whipping boy. Even our Canadian cousins could scarcely refrain from thumbing their noses at the U.S. as they escorted Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin on a coup de theatre.

Unless the trend is reversed, the alarmed official makes these predictions:

+President Nixon has delivered a series of stunning blows to Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, whose government has been our staunchest ally in Asia. These buffetings will bring Sato's downfall. Sato's successor, seeking to avoid the same political pitfall, will take pains to demonstrate his independence of the U.S.

+The Nixon Administration, in its global maneuvers, has viturally ignored Latin America. Among the resentful Latin Americans, hostility toward the U.S. is on the rise. The first manifestation will be a resumption of diplomatic, economic and political ties between our Latin American allies and Communist Cuba. This will be followed by closer contacts with China and Russia. By the end of the decade, Latin America will be Washington's biggest headache.

+U.S. pressure upon Israel will result in the reopening of the Suez Canal. But most of all, this will benefit the Soviets by linking up their Mediterranean and Indian Ocean fleets. Meanwhile, they will move into the vacuum created by the British departure from the Persian Gulf. This will give the Soviets a firm hand on the world oil faucet.

—TRADE WAR?—

+President Nixon's new protectionist policies have already caused angry rumblings in Western Europe. Trade battles reminiscent of the early 1930s can be expected. This will lead, as it did in the 1930s, to a worldwide economic slump. The Kremlin will take full advantage of the resulting hostility between Western Europe and the United States. This will bring a dramatic increase in the Soviet role in European affairs.

+Although Canadian-American ties are too strong to be broken, they are sure to be loosened. The Canadians are thoroughly soured over what they believe to be President Nixon's high-handed treatment of them. The 10 per cent surcharge on imports is hurting the Canadian economy, and the Amchitka Island nuclear tests were scheduled in complete disregard of Canadian protests. Hereafter, Ottawa will no longer take its diplomatic signals from Washington.

It isn't President Nixon's policies, so much as his methods, which alarm this official. He agrees the White House should set the nation's course—without consulting the professional diplomats, if the President wishes. But the professionals should be used to implement the policies once they're set.

The official fiercely believes that urgent steps must be taken to halt the worldwide recession of U.S. power and prestige. For one, he suggests the U.S. should strive to put Japan, the world's third industrial power, on the Security Council. He thinks Latin American countries should also be invited to join the U.S. in a Common Market geared to increase hemispheric prosperity.

It will take dramatic moves, he warns, to stop the diplomatic deterioration. The old diplomacy no longer is good enough.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney's brave attempt to set an example of sacrifice has quietly fizzled. He urged his fellow cabinet officers in 1969 to turn back part of their salaries as an example to the nation. Instead, they accepted a salary increase from $35,000 to $60,000. For several months, Romney returned one-fourth of his salary to the Treasury. But he has quietly abandoned the gesture and is now collecting his full salary....Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., is now serving on the House Internal Security Committee, formerly the House Un-American Activities Committee, which helped circulate those smears about "Red Pepper" back in the 1950s. Man, 71, Killed In 2-Car Mishap

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A 71-year-old Ebensburg man has been killed in a two-car accident on U.S. 22 near this Cambria County town.

The victim, Isadore Trinkey, died several hours after the accident Tuesday at Johnstown Memorial Hospital.

Police said he was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Daniel Weiss, 49, of McKeesport. Mrs. Sylvia Weiss was admitted to the hospital in fair condition while Weiss and three children were treated and released.

LEARNED BY CONTACT

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — History says the Navajo tribe, the nation's largest, "climbed up onto the earth's flat disc from the dark womb underground."

The Navajos have been influenced by almost every other tribe or race with whom they came into contact.

Navajos learned weaving from Indian Pueblos. From the Spaniards, they learned sheep and cattle raising and from the white soldiers, metal working.

HEALTHY SITUATION

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Raw materials found on the huge Navajo Reservation include coal, oil, gold, silver, copper, vanadium, uranium, cement, limestone, clay and gypsum.

The Navajo Forest Products Industries produces about 40 million board feet of lumber annually for commercial use. There are 472,716 acres of commercial timber on the reservation.

VO-TECH GETS NEW EQUIPMENT

Midtown Motors Inc. and the Buffalo Ford District Sales Office have presented a new car – at least most of one – to the vo-tech school. The official presentation was made Wednesday of a new Ford chassis complete with engine, transmission and other assemblies as part of Ford Motor Company's national automotive equipment donation program. The program provides deserving schools with modern equipment to train student automotive technicians. Left to right are W. R. Smith, instructor, Warren Johnson, president, Midtown, W. B. Barry Tingley

Paul Harrington

Two new employes are part of a reorganization announced today by Try-M Finance of 210 Liberty st. in Warren.

Paul Harrington, formerly of Ithaca, N.Y., has been named office manager of the Warren office, and Milton Murray has joined the staff of the local office. Barry Tingley, gneral manager, will continue in that capacity with Try-M.

Harrington spent six years in Ithaca as a major consumer finance company manager. He and his wife Kathryn reside at 124 Callender st. in Warren with their two children. Murray has two years' experience with an Erie bank and several years service in the consumer credit field with a finance company in Erie. He resides in a bachelor's mobile home at Mason's Mobile City.

Try-M, based in Warren, also has offices open in Titusville and a new ultra-modern facility in Meadville. President Bill Dyke also said that offices in Greenville and Corry are in the planning stages.

STOCK MARKET ZOOMS AHEAD

Blue Chips Post Big Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market shot ahead Wednesday, with blue chips posting their largest gain in over two months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 14.60 points to 842.58. This was the sharpest single-day rise since Aug. 16, when the Dow soared a record-breaking 32.93 points in response to President Nixon's initial wage-price announcement.

Analysts said Wednesday's upturn was largely the result of technical factors. The market had been heavily oversold in recent sessions, they explained, and many issues had been pushed down to bargain levels.

Also, many seemed to feel that the market might have been overreacting to uncertainties surrounding Phase 2 of the Nixon economic paskage.

In the news background was a Federal Reserve Board report that consumer installment credit in September showed its largest monthly increase in history.

But brokers added it was too early to tell whether Wednesday's upswing marked the beginning of a major bull market rally or merely a short-term technical rebound.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 14.59 million shares, compared with 13.33 million shares Tuesday

Of the 1,703 stocks traded on the Big Board, 1,119 advanced and 343 declined. There were 3 new highs and 55 new lows for the year.

The Big Board index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.89 to 52.35.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 5.2 to 309.8, with industrials up 7.6, rails up 3.7, and utilities up 1.3.

Stocks were higher in virtually all categories, except mail order-retail, which were mixed.

There were 115 blocks of 10,000 shares or over traded on the Big Board, compared with a revised total of 80 Tuesday.

International Nickel was most active on the Big Board, gaining ⅞ to 26⅞. A block of 100,000 shares traded at 26½, up ½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index gained 0.20 to 24.60. Of the 1,147 stocks traded, 625 advanced, and 237 declined. Volume totaled 3.67 million shares, compared with 3.39 million shares Tuesday.

How profitable can

6% TAX-FREE

Municipal Bonds really be?

Since interest earned on municipal bonds is not subject to federal income tax, the net spendable income will be greater than the after-tax return from comparable, fully-taxable, securities and deposits.

How profitable can 6% tax-free municipal bonds really be to you? That depends on your tax bracket. The higher your bracket, the more attractive the tax-free feature of municipal bonds becomes.

This table shows the return investors in various tax brackets must get on taxable investments to equal 6% return on tax-free municipal bonds.

KNITS MOVE!

PRINTZ'S knits give you consummate comfort & wrinkle-free wear

Men are making the move everyday—to knits. They're like nothing you've ever worn before and that's what makes them so special. Knits mean movement—a "liberation" movement where the cause is you, and comfort is what they believe in. They resist wrinkles and come out of a suitcase looking as good as when they went in. Tasteful styling is evident in every detail from the broader lapels to the scalloped flap pockets and higher center vent. Our variety of double knits in bold patterns, geometrics, and solids is the pick of the crop. Give knits a try — you'll be glad you did.

Unique Memorial Gift Honors YHS Alumnus Kenneth Russell, '27

YOUNGSVILLE BOOK BOX

By FRANCES RHODES

The proverbial long arm of coincidence played a major role in Youngsville high school's recent acquisition of a new book depository which stands in the auditorium entrance hall. The equipment, sturdy, boldly identifiable for what it is, and strategically placed near the doors used by most of the students as they enter and leave school, is a memorial gift.

It commemorates a YHS alumnus of 1927, Kenneth Russell, Ph. D., who died in 1967, after a notable career as a research chemist. His sister, Mrs. Marion Russell Hegerty of Oklahoma, and his brother, Gerald B. Russell of Washington, D.C., were the donors.

They both are Youngsville natives. Mrs. Hegerty is an accomplished pianist. Gerald Russell, a reserve officer with the rank of colonel, who was a member of the YHS Class of 1931, was awarded the Pennsylvania Distinguished Service Medal in July of this year, and he will be the Commencement Speaker next May 31, for the Class of 1972 graduation exercises.

The story of how their gift came about begins in September a year ago, when the YHS Student Council suggested that a book depository might help solve the problem of students forgetting to return school library books before they became overdue. The librarian, Miss Janet Henry, wrote letters of enquiry to several manufacturers, but the price quotations they returned were too high for the Student Council to afford. The matter was dropped.

Recently, Miss Henry received a letter whose writer said he was W. J. Hegerty, vice president and general manager of the Boardman Company, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma—one of those to whom Miss Henry had sent an enquiry in September 1970. Mr. Hegerty said he had been going through the firm's enquiry files and Miss Henry's letter caught his attention because Warren is his hometown and his wife a Youngsville girl.

If the school did not yet have a depository, the letter went on, Mr. Hegerty would like to present one of his company's products, in behalf of his wife and her brother Gerald, as a memorial to their deceased brother Kenneth.

The gift duly arrived. It bears an appropriate memorial plaque.

The Russells, children of the late Lyman Russell and of Norah Crippen Russell, grew up on Highland avenue, Youngsville. The family was active in the United Brethren church (now the Evangelical United Methodist church) on Second street, and are well remembered although they all moved away years ago.

G. Reid Pierce, retired YHS teacher, of Highland avenue, comments: "I have often said if I was ever successful as a teacher, it was because I had the opportunity of teaching Kenneth Russell and four or five other outstanding students."

Kenneth Russell was his class salutatorian. He was one of two students (the other was Carl E. "Perry" Linborg of North Main street, Youngsville) who in 1927 established a school track record of 10 seconds for the 100 yard dash, that still stands. According to Mr. Pierce, he was also a "tremendous" cornet player.

He won a one-semester scholarship to Lebanon Valley College, and successive scholarships thereafter that took him through that school and through New York University to his Ph. D. degree.

Joining the research staff of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, he became a pioneer in the quest for "soapless soaps." His work contributed significantly to the development of detergents which have revolutionized modern cleaning methods in home and industry.

The Distinguished Service citation given to his brother Gerald recently at the direction of Governor Shapp, was for "exceptionally meritorious service to the Commonwealth" while serving as Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Army. Specifically, he was in charge of all materiel going into the South East Asian conflict zone, "field of international logistics" in which his "exceptional contributions in time, talents and professional capabilities were of immeasurable value."

Colonel Russell is now serving in the Defense Department.

Mrs. Marion Russell Hegerty was well-known in Warren County as a pianist. She was associated with the Warren Conservatory and with a popular band. Her musical interests continue, and in Oklahoma City she has given a number of organ concerts.

The Russells are "double" cousins of Lewis Crippen, former Youngsville mayor and Warren county commissioner. Their father was the brother of Mrs. Armina Crippen of Youngsville; and their mother, who lives now in Oklahoma, is a sister of Mrs. Crippen's late husband.

Mr. Hegerty was a 1927 graduate of Warren High School, where he won track awards and played football. He became a draftsman at Struthers Wells, moved to a selling position in Cleveland, with an office in New York City, and then joined the Boardman Company, one of the largest manufacturers in the southwest.

He has two daughters, Connie and Sally, and a son, Richard Hegerty, deputy sheriff of Conewango township. His sister is Mrs. Mack J. (Mary) Foley of 209 Market street, Warren, and so is Mrs. Harold (Katherine) Gibson, formerly of Warren and now of Girard, Pa.

Today's Youngsville high school students may not be aware of the whole background story of their new library book depository—but they can hardly be unaware of the depository itself, standing so conspicuously in the hallway they pass through several times a day. Now, if somebody can figure out a way to make sure they USE it. . .!

Couple Shot While Trying To Aid Driver

CHARLEROI, Pa. (AP) — State police said Wednesday they were virtually clueless in a bizarre Good Samaritan shooting that left two young persons near death in a hospital here.

The shooting occurred Tuesday night when the young persons, a 16-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy, stopped on a seldom-used rural road about four miles west of here to aid the driver of what they thought was a disabled vehicle, troopers said.

The driver walked back to their auto, troopers said, stopped and shot both through the windshield of the car, and then left them for dead.

Troopers said they had no motive for the shooting. They added they did not know what kind of gun was used.

After the shooting, police said Mary Ann Lundy, though wounded in the stomach, managed to drive the four miles to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. Her companion, James W. Ramsey, had been shot in the head, troopers said.

Both victims, residents of this Washington County community, were listed in critical condition Wednesday.

Troopers said the shooting occurred on Township Road 515.

A former New York City antipoverty official recently was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment for armed robbery.

Foreign Aid Impasse Holds As High Level Talks Go On

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-hour discussion between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee failed Wednesday to resolve the foreign-aid impasse.

Rogers made clear following the session that the administration still wants an extension until next June of the program, defeated last week in the Senate, at about current levels. But Senate critics restated their determination to force sharp cuts and changes.

In the House, Chairman George H. Mahon of the Appropriations Committee said he would introduce a continuing resolution, due for action next week, to extend the aid program and provide funding of other federal programs until Congress adjourns—in about a month.

But the continuing resolution, a device used to keep programs operating when regular appropriations bills remain unpassed, faces stiff opposition in the Senate. It would, in effect, keep the defeated aid program in operation.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, reiterated he thinks his committee can come up with a new aid bill within a week.

Several members of the committee said they expect it to write a bill authorizing $2.5 billion or less for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972. And Sen. Gale McGee said he thinks Rogers would accept a "bare bones" bill pending further review next year.

"He doesn't like it," the Wyoming Democrat said. "But he is reasonable enough to have caught the tone."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., predicting a revised measure might total as little as $2.2 billion, was asked if he thinks the administration would accept it.

"I think they would," he said. "I think they'll have to."

Rogers himself said the administration wants the aid program to be extended until next June 30 "at about its present level."

That is about $3.1 billion, compared with $3.5 billion sought this year, $3.4 billion voted by the House and $2.9 billion in the rejected Senate measure.

Rogers did make at least one concession to the committee by agreeing to accept a $341-million spending limit and other restrictions on U.S. activities in Cambodia.

He indicated also willingness to discuss the limits of U.S. involvement in Indochina in light of the close Senate vote to remove from the aid bill an amendment cutting off funds for all U.S. actions except withdrawal, members said

Fergy Jenkins Wins Cy Young Award In NL

CHICAGO (AP) — Towering Fergy Jenkins, after five seasons as a 20-game winner, captured the National League Cy Young award Wednesday and appeared certain to become the Chicago Cubs' first $100,000 pitcher.

Jenkins was the first Cub honored with the Young award since if was originated in 1956. It is given to the outstanding pitcher in each major league.

"I was happy when the Associated Press voted me the best right-handed pitcher of 1971, and the Cy Young award for the National League puts the frosting on the cake," Jenkins said at a news conference at Wrigley Field.

The 6-foot-5 Jenkins, who turns 28 on Dec. 13, was voted the award by the Baseball Writers Association of America by a wide margin over Tom Seaver of the New York Mets.

Jenkins, whose 24-13 record last season was tops in NL victories, hurried to Chicago from a duck-hunting expedition near his Chatham, Ont., home.

He laughed off printed reports that he would seek a $150,000 salary for 1972. "I don't remember saying that," Jenkins grinned.

"I'm leaving negotiations up to my two lawyers, but I certainly think now my salary will be over $100,000." Jenkins last spring held out for $100,000 but settled for an estimated $90,000.

He was pleased, but not over-whelmed by becoming the pitching counterpart of Oakland's Vida Blue, recent AL winner of the honor.

"I would have liked being in a World Series, but I'm not saying I'm glad I won the Cy Young award. I'm glad I got it, because there were a lot of good pitchers who also could have won it," he said.

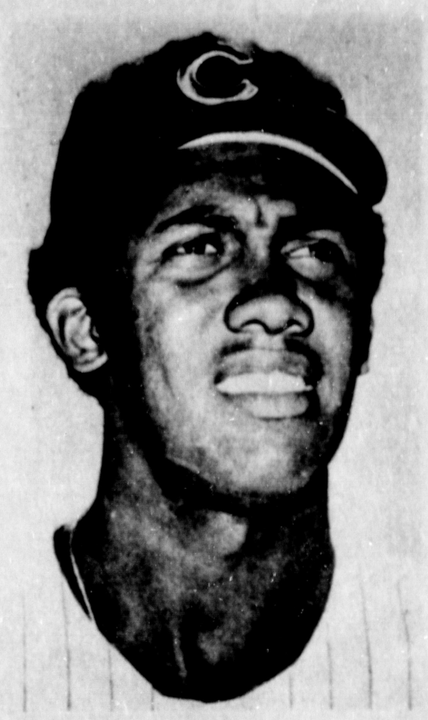

A control specialist, Jenkins, in five Cub seasons since 1967, won 20, 20, 21, 22 and 24 games and, during that span, averaged 40 starts and 309 innings pitched per season.

Jenkins wryly recalled that the Philadelphia Phils traded him to the Cubs in 1966 "because they said I didn't have a major league fast ball."

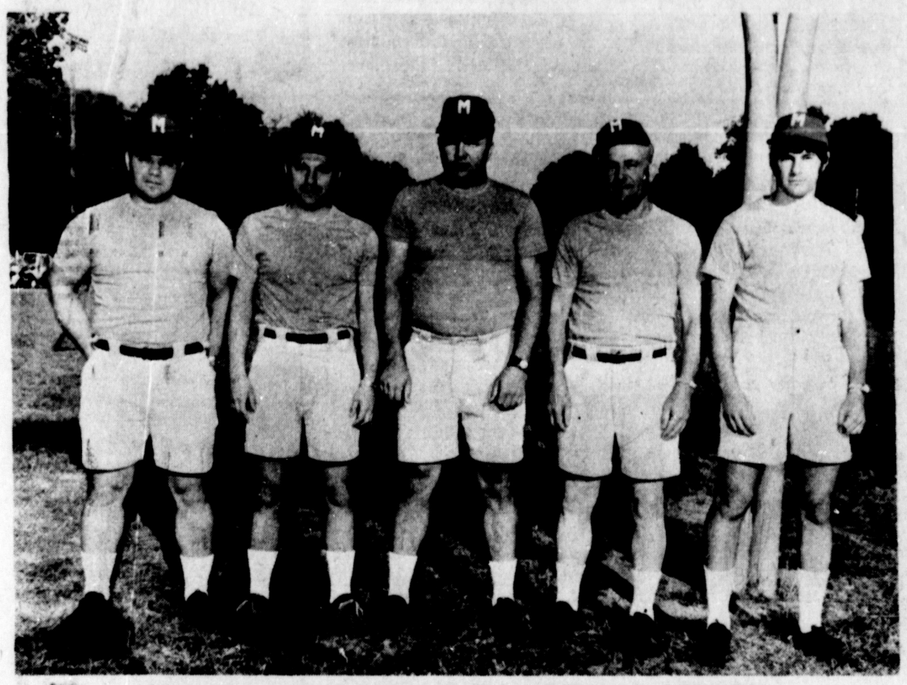

"I possibly throw a little harder against the Phils now than any other club."

Jenkins holds the Cub career-strikeout record of 1,466.

In the writers' poll, Jenkins got 17 first-place ballots and 61 points, followed by Al Downing of the Los Angeles Dodgers with 40 points and one first-place vote by the 24-man BBWA selection committee.

NEW MEADVILLE COACHING STAFF

Over the past decade, Meadville High School has probably changed coaching staffs as often as football uniforms. Winning has been a seldom used word in Meadville's recent grid history. This past season an overhauling of the grid staff took place with Barry Morrison (left) replacing Frank Stratiff at the helm. Morrison selected Dick Lumley (next to him in picture), Louis Beltz, and Jack Christy to assist him. The Bulldogs, 1-7 for 1971, place the welcome mat out for Warren this Friday evening. Undefeated Penn State Hosts Terps

Penn State, its perfect football record intact after a 35-7 win over West Virginia last week, hosts intersectional rival Maryland at Beaver Stadium Saturday.

A capacity crowd of approximately 48,500 is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff. No standing room tickets will be sold for the game, which is Penn State's fourth straight sellout at home this year.

"We had to play a great football game to beat West Virginia," Penn State coach Joe Paterno says. "I'm just hopeful that we can stick together and pay attention to first things first—and that of course means Maryland this week."

The win over the Mountaineers boosted Penn State's season record to 7-0 and their current winning streak to 12 over a two-year period. Maryland is 2-6 after its 38-0 romp over VMI last week.

"Maryland is a better team than the record indicates," says Penn State coaching assistant John Rosenberg, who scouted the Terps. "They have lost several close games, but they seemed to put everything together last week."

Maryland coach Roy Lester has been using a number of underclassmen all season and the experience the younger players have gained is beginning to pay off for the Terps.

Sophomore quarterback Al Neville is the key man in the Maryland attack. Neville has completed 64 of his 131 passing attempts for 841 yards and eight touchdowns. His favorite receiver has been split end Dan Bungori, who has 21 receptions for 309 yards and seven scores. Tight end Dennis O'Hara has 20 catches for 280 yards and two touchdowns.

Neville's passing is complemented by a strong running game, featuring tailback Art Seymore. The shifty, 175-pound Seymore was hampered by injuries earlier this season, but is healthy now. He has gained 289 yards on 90 rushing attempts.

The Maryland defense is built around Guy Roberts, who has played five different defensive positions this season. He will probably be the "rover" this week. Defensive back Larry Marshall is leading the team in interceptions, punt returns and kickoff returns.

The Terps will have to contend with a Penn State team that many opposing coaches have called better than the 1968 and 1969 Lion squads. This year's team is among the national leaders in rushing offense, total offense, scoring, total defense and scoring defense.

The Lions are averaging 457.1 yards and 41.4 points per game while limiting their first seven opponents to 240.1 yards and 7.1 points per contest.

Senior halfback Lydell Mitchell has been getting most of the attention as he threatens nearly all of the Penn State rushing and scoring records, but fullback Franco Harris and quarterback John Hufnagel are also having fine seasons.

Mitchell is the team rushing leader with 965 yards and has set a new Penn State record with 16 touchdowns. He needs 49 yards against Maryland to become Penn State's all-time rushing leader and 118 yards to establish a season rushing record. Both marks are held by Lenny Moore, the legendary halfback who gained 1,082 yards in one season and 2,380 yards in his career.

Harris is second to Mitchell in rushing with 462 yards. Hufnagel has a slim lead over Mitchell in total offense. The junior quarterback has completed 60 per cent of his passes (48 of 80) for 680 yards and has added 291 yards on the ground.

Hufnagel, Harris and Mitchell give most of the credit for their performances to an offensive line led by tackle Dave Joyner, an All-American candidate in his own right.

The defense is led by linebacker Charlie Zapiec and a strong front four that has allowed only one touchdown on the ground this season.

San Diego's John Hadl Doesn't Mind The Boos

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Two weeks ago quarterback John Hadl, workhorse of the San Diego offense, was getting the brunt of criticism from Charger fans angered by the team's fourth straight loss. However, nobody paid less attention to the boos than Hadl.

"We'll win—we've got a good team," he said before the Chargers rebounded to beat Buffalo, 20-3, and then the New York Jets, 49-21.

Hadl, 31, and playing his 10th year for the Chargers, was named the National Football League's Offensive Player of the Week Wednesday by The Associated Press, his second such honor in about a year.

Last Sunday he threw for 358 yards against the Jets, completing 19 of 27 passes for four touchdowns. He plunged across for another score.

The performance was barely shy of Hadl's all-time best of 369 yards against Oakland in 1969 and the San Diego team record of 369 yards which Tobin Rote set against the Jets in New York in 1963.

Hadl called seven running plays in a row in the final series Sunday and said later he wasn't aware how close he was to Rote's record.

"I've got five or six more years to get it," shrugged the unexciteable former University of Kansas star.

"This guy has been playing this kind of football all along," said Charley Waller, San Diego's offensive coordinator. "But always something has happened—tipped balls, balls slightly under thrown, missed assignments.

"He is just a real leader and a real winner, as great as any quarterback in footbali," Waller said.

The Chargers extended Hadl's estimated annual $75,000 salary by four years last May.

Grimsley's Conservative This Week

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Nebraska, Oklahoma, Alabama, Auburn and Michigan continue on their runaway collision course this weekend with the Crimson Tide facing the greatest danger of upset.

Johnny Musso should bring the Tide through in a tough one.

Upset fliers were costly last week, although we called the Mississippi win over LSU. Score: 43-20, .683. Season: 334-132, .714.

Alabama 17, Louisiana State 14: The Tigers' tough defense slows Alabama's triple options.

Nebraska 48, Iowa State 13: Red is the Cornhuskers' color—and now it's the color of the prognosticator who picked Colorado.

Washington 28, California 13: After a mid-season slump, Sonny Sixkiller is on the warpath again.

Ohio State 14, Michigan State 9: A rugged defensive duel with the Buckeyes throttling the Spartans' Eric Allen.

Georgia 31, Florida 7: Touchdowns come hard for foes of the Bulldogs, who find an answer for the Gators' Carlos Alvarez.

Northwestern 10, Minnesota 7: Clayton Scheurer, 252, Gopher guard, and Jim Anderson, 250, 'Cats tackle, outshine the backs.

Texas 25, Baylor 6: The gap between the Longhorns and their Southwest rivals is getting smaller. Notre Dame 20, Pittsburgh 17: Surprising Pitt always plays a good game against the Fighting Irish.

Air Force 24, Oregon 20: it's not hard for the Air Force to get high in Colorado Springs' altitude.

Princeton 23, Harvard 20: The Tigers have averaged more than 35 points in their last three games.

Stanford 31, UCLA 16: The Indians shouldn't have trouble until they play California in "The Game" Nov. 20.

Brrr! Scots To Play Polar Bears

Edinboro State, unbeaten in its last 19 regular season games, takes to the road this Saturday as the Scots travel to Ada, Ohio, to visit the Polar Bears of Ohio Northern University.

The Clansmen are still smarting from a 27-7 drubbing from the Bears two years ago and the Scots will be striving to regain some prestige in the Buckeye state.

Ohio Northern coach, Bob Middleton, has been patiently waiting to "put it all together" as the Bears have nailed down only one win during the 1971 campaign. Northern's rugged schedule against such teams as Capitol University, Hillsdale, Ashland and Anderson (Ind.) hasn't helped the Ohioans' cause.

Defensively the Bears have the size to challenge Edinboro's running game in the likes of end Bill Amstutz (210), tackle Bob Lance (235), middle guard Charles Deitrick (253), tackle Jim Lipinski (258) and end Jim West (203).

This unit has been grudgingly yielding ground and their real worth is not truly reflected in the statistics. "When you are playing defense most of the game, getting your back to the wall by a young and inexperienced offense, your defense has to suffer," summarized Middleton. "Our offensive errors have mostly accounted for the scoring against us."

Offensive mistakes have plagued the Bears who are trying to adjust to the newly-installed triple option. Prior to the ONU's last two games, the team had given up 18 touchdowns, 14 of which were directly set up by the offense.

On the other hand, Edinboro State has worked the triple option to perfection while leading the NAIA's national rushing stats for the past six weeks. The Scots are turning over the turf at the rate of 343 yards per game on the ground.

A glance at the offensive stats reveal some startling averages in the Edinboro backfield. Senior tailback Al Raines has netted 1,003 yards in 107 tries with the football to average 9.4 yards per carry. Fullback Bob Mengerink registers 6.9 yards per try, while quarterback Joe Sanford has a 5.4 mark and flankerback Jim Romaniszyn sports a brilliant 14.0 showing.

As a team, Scot ball carriers are averaging 6.9 yards per rush, far ahead of last year's 4.7 single season record. The Clansmen have proved just as successful in crossing the goal line with a potent offensive average of 39.3 points per game.

McDonald's concern over the defensive line might be somewhat eased as opponents are averaging only 111 yards an outing against the Scots' front four. The Clansmen have been equally stingy at the goal line by allowing opponents only two touchdowns per game.

Edinboro's secondary aces, led by Jack McCurry's record-breaking seven interceptions, continue to stop opponents' airway antics with 18 aerial thefts to their credit. That total also revised the previous season high of 16 established by last year's team.

With last week's impressive victory over Shippensburg, Edinboro State remained the Lambert Bowl leader in the sixth week of voting for the coveted award. The Lambert Bowl is awarded annually for the outstanding performance of the season by a small college football team in the East. The Scots garnered all the first place ballots to total 80 points in the voting.

Kickoff time for Saturday's Ohio Northern contest is scheduled for 2:00 p.m. in Ada, Ohio's, Memorial Stadium.

Cash, Downing Comeback Duo

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Left-handed pitcher Al Downing of the Los Angeles Dodgers and first baseman Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers have been named National and American League comeback players of the year by fellow players, the Sporting News announced Wednesday.

Downing, 30, reversed his combined 5-13 record with the Athletics and Brewers in 1970 and led the Dodgers last season with 20 victories and five shutouts. He had a 2.68 earned run average.

Cash had the poorest home run and RBI totals of his career with Detroit in 1970. But last season, Cash rebounded to lead his club in home runs with 32 and runs batted in with 91. He batted .283.

La. Superdome: A Mind Boggler

NEW YORK—The transportation bond issue failed at the polls. Rep. Edward Koch says 27 major companies are planning to move their headquarters out of Manhattan. Mayor Lindsay seeks a Canadian League Football franchise to help push the purchase plan of the Yankee Stadium through a reluctant city council. The $200 million sports complex for the Jersey Meadow lands faces several hurdles inside and outside of the courts.

In Louisiana things are different, construction is underway on the Louisiana Superdome in downtown New Orleans, a project that boggles the mind of even the most edifice minded politician like a Nelson Rockefeller. Its cost alone is staggering, $129.5 million. The debt service comes to $9.5 million annually with the state the guarantor of the 6 per cent bond.

The Superdome, which opens to Oakland late in 1973, is sports oriented but much of its income will derive from non-sports events such as conventions, trade shows and commercial parking. David F. Dixon, the executive director, has two years to think up what to put in the world's largest building which needs 170 event days to stay solvent. The imaginative Dixon is having no trouble.

There is football—10 dates for the Saints, the pro team that seldom wins but draws like crazy, and 10 more for Tulane and the New Orleans branch of Louisiana State. Capacity for football will be 84,777 seats, 55,000 on the sidelines.

There is baseball. The city lacks a franchise but no matter. The Indians, who do not draw in Cleveland, are seriously considering playing 30 games and 10 exhibitions in the Superdome. Move the stands around and there are 55,596 seats for baseball, 31,000 along the foul lines.

There is basketball. The city lacks a pro-franchise but no matter. Dixon prefers the high school and college brand.

"It's Christmas week," he said recently. "We invite 16 high school teams to come over from Houston and play 16 local teams. We run a tournament playing four doubleheaders at once. We'll go to New York and bring down 32 teams from New Jersey, Westchester and Long Island and play eight doubleheaders in the afternoon and follow with two college doubleheaders at night. We'll charge a dollar or a dollar and a half for the high school games. The point is to get volume."

There can also be hockey, track, tennis, rodeos, boxing and so on. The Superdome is so flexible, with seats moving around on artificial turf, that it can hold arenas within an arena—eight basketball courts around the perimeter, for example.

Despite its size the Superdome will offer intimacy by means of six huge television screens, 56 feet by 36, suspended from the roof. These screens are to provide close-ups and instant replays in addition to closed-circuit events from afar. Each screen is about 875 times larger than a home TV set.

"Giant screen TV will be the key to the Superdome, it will be fantastic," said Dixon, using one of his favorite adjectives.

He warmed to his subject. "We're going to have a summer festival that will give this city a complete new tourist industry. We'll have a daily Mardi Gras parade, a daily football game, a sports museum, one event right after another for almost anything that involves people. The Louisiana Superdome, the people place."

Dixon has been talking this way for five years with no one paying him much heed, especially the pro football establishment far more responsive to the economy stadium at Foxboro, Mass., that cost only $6.1 million for 62,000 seats.

Even in Louisiana, there was plenty of opposition and skepticism. But Dixon had from the start the support of the outgoing governor, John McKeithen, a rabid football fan. In Louisiana there is no greater clout than a pat on the back from the governor.

Stadium building has been an obsession in the country for a decade. The architectural problem has been to erect facilities that combine the two major sports, football and baseball with their incompatible playing fields.

In Kansas City, the $80 million Harry S. Truman complex will have two adjacent stadiums, one for football and one for baseball. They open next year.

The $60 million Veterans Stadium opened in Philadelphia this year. So did the $27 million Texas Stadium, for football only, outside Dallas and the modest but workable Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro. Last year brought forth Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati, $50 million, and Three Rivers in Pittsburgh, $53 million.

The Louisiana Superdome is going to make them all as obsolete as Rome's colosseum.

Congress Investigates Artificial Surfaces

NEW YORK (AP) — The era of grass, certainly for athletic fields and maybe even for your front lawn, seems past. Many sports events are gradually shifting from natural playing surfaces to artificial turf but many athletes, at first enthusiastic about the change, are having serious second thoughts about the stuff they call "mod sod."

Congress began this week to take a hard look at the three artificial sports surfaces now in wide use—AstroTurf manufactured by the Monsanto Company, Tartan Turf, manufactured by the 3M Company, and Poly-Turf, manufactured by American Biltrite Company.

A House subcommittee on commerce and finance held two days of hearings to determine whether the artificial surfaces should come under the scope of pending product safety legislation.

And after hearing testimony first from several pro football players, a noted Seattle physician and the National Football League Players Association, and then from the manufacturers themselves, the lawmakers might have thought the groups were discussing two entirely different subjects.

The Players Association, concerned about many player complaints of injuries and abrasions on the turf, wants the NFL to declare a halt on any further installations of the material. The players had requested cooperation by the league in a study conducted by Dr. James Garrick, an assistant professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Washington.

The Players Association asked each NFL team to file an individual report of each player injury incurred with Dr. Garrick, who made a year-long study of artificial turfs in the Seattle area. When the teams did not cooperate, the players declared a moratorium on the turfs.

"It is our view," said Edward Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, "that changing from regular grass to artificial turf is a change in working conditions. Under the collective bargaining agreement between the owners and the NFLPA, the owners have a legal duty to bargain any change in working conditions. It is our view that they must negotiate with us before they can place artificial turf on another field."

Right now, 11 of the 26 NFL teams play their games on artificial turf. According to the NFLPA, 42 per cent of all games played in pro football this season will be on either AstroTurf, Tartan Turf, or Poly-Turf.

Dr. Garrick and the Players Association both recognized the limited nature of his study, covering a single area. "We have not concluded that artificial turf definitely leads to increased injuries," Garvey continued. "We are saying that in the light of Dr. Garrick's finding, the club owners should stop installing these surfaces until we know the answer."

What Dr. Garrick found was a statistically higher incidence of injuries in games on artificial surfaces. The doctor illustrated his remarks with slides showing football players suffering second degree burns on legs, hips and arms after playing on the abrasive artificial coverings.

Of course, medical opinions vary. Another subcommittee witness, Dr. Donald Cooper, team physician for Oklahoma State and chairman of the NCAA medical committee, recognizes the injury factor of football but won't blame the surfaces.

"My personal feeling," said Dr. Cooper, "is that the turf has little to do with injuries. It is contact above the turf that causes the injuries."

The Players Association presented testimony from four of its members, wide receiver Roy Jefferson of the Washington Redskins, offensive lineman John Wilbur of the 'Skins, defensive back Gus Hollomon of the New York Jets and offensive lineman Ernie Wright of the Cincinnati Bengals. Only three of the players appeared. The fourth, Wright, was injured last Sunday at Houston, on an artificial surface, the players were careful to point out, and had to skip the hearings.

The manufacturers, who advertised fewer injuries when they first introduced their synthetic grass, have backed off that stand somewhat but still defend their products.

Monsanto prepared a 43-page presentation for the subcommittee, complete with films and charts and highlighted by one of the company's executives, F.E. Troy, pounding his fist into a sample of the turf and saying, "that doesn't hurt. On grass, it would."

AstroTurf, Monsanto's version of the artificial grass, is the most popular of the three products and the one in most widespread use. The company has made a total of 67 installations so far starting in 1964.

The make-believe grass first moved into professional sports in 1966 when Monsanto covered the Houston Astrodome with green and picked up the AstroTurf label for its product.

The 3M Company moved into the market later with Tartan Turf, which is quite different to the touch from the Monsanto product. Tartan Turf more closely resembles a rug than it does grass. AstroTurf and Poly-Turf both use synthetic blades of green to simulate grass on top of their product. Tartan Turf has a weaved hair-like topping, almost like a toupee.

James Higgins, manager of 3M's recreation and athletic products department, said that his company had originally advertised Tartan Turf as being designed to reduce knee and ankle injuries caused by cleats catching in natural sod.

"We made this statement because injury reduction was one of our original design criteria and still is," Higgins said. "We later withdrew this statement, not because we thought Tartan Turf would not reduce injuries, but because we realized that the statement implied that data was available by which a valid injury comparison between synthetic turf and natural turf could be made.

"This, of course, we do not believe to be true. Since that time, we have made no injury claims, statistical or otherwise."

There are 20 major Tartan Turf installations including the latest artificial pro surface, the Texas Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys.

Poly-Turf, like AstroTurf, uses a shock pad of heavy foam rubber over the compacted stone and asphalt foundation. But American Biltrite's product added a layer of vinyl giving it "a three-tier system," according to President Morton Broffman.

Big 33 Selections

HARRISBURG—One of the state's top running performances of last weekend was turned in by Denny Bowman, Homer City, who gained a spot on this week's Big 33 check list.

A consistent player all season, the 5-0, 170-pound speedy Bowman rushed for 250 yards on 32 carries and two touchdowns against Curwensville. He was scouted by John Phillips, Indiana Gazette sports editor, formerly of Warren.

Quarterback Mike Westerman, Freeport, 6-2, 160, passed for TD's of 35, 26, 14 yards and rushed for 68 against Leechburg to gain the list. Jeff Stees, Susquenita, 5-8, 140, scored twice, rushed for 106 yards, 15 carries and was in on 20 tackles, 12 solo against Biglerville in a standout effort.

BULLING THEIR WAY AROUND

Chet (left) Walker scored 16 of his 23 points in the third quarter last night for the Chicago Bulls and Bob Love pushed through 11 in that period as the Bulls came from behind in a 113-100 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in the National Basketball Association.

The N.B.A. Scene

Braves Nicked

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Van Arsdale got credit for a tie-breaking field goal with 24 seconds remaining on a goaltending violation by Buffalo's Elmore Smith, then sank two free throws with eight seconds left, giving the Phoenix Suns a 100-98 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves Wednesday night.

The game was deadlocked 96-96 when Van Arsdale, the game's high scorer with 31 points, drove in for a layup with 24 seconds to go. Smith, Buffalo's seven-foot rookie center, illegaly blocked it, and was called for goaltending.

Then, after the Braves' Mike Davis missed a foul shot, Phoenix got the ball and Van Arsdale was fouled. He made his two free throw attempts, putting the Suns ahead 100-96.

Buffalo's Jerry Chambers sank the final field goal with one second remaining.

Center Neal Walk chipped in with 21 points for Phoenix, now 4-5.

Pats Acquire Eric Crabtree

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots acquired two wide receivers on waivers Wednesday in an effort to build up a weak and depleted pass-catching corps.

The Patriots acquired six-year veteran Eric Crabtree from the Cincinnati Bengals and second-year man Reggie Rucker from the New York Giants.

Rucker, a Boston University graduate, was a reserve receiver for Dallas last year after he made the team as a free agent. He was acquired this year by the Giants on Waivers.

Crabtree broke in with Denver in 1966. He had his best pro season in 1967 when he had 46 receptions for 716 yards and five touchdowns.

To make room for Crabtree on the 40-man roster, the Patriots released Eric Stolberg, a wide receiver who was activated from the taxi squad last week after Ron Sellers was injured.

Coach John Mazur said another cut would be made Thursday to make room for Rucker.

Bob Kaufman, who fouled out with 4:47 left, led the Braves with 24 points. Smith collected 21.

The loss was the fifth in a row for the Braves at home and dropped their over-all record to 3-8.

76ers Hammered

CINCINNATI (AP) — Matt Goukas, making his first start at guard for Cincinnati, had 14 points and 14 assists in directing the Royals to their second victory of the season beating the Philadelphia 76ers 124-100.

Royals' Coach Bob Cousy, a scrapping his mini-guards Norm Van Lier and Nate Archibald, inserted the 6-foot-6 Goukas and 6-foot-5 Tom Van Arsdale who alternated from guard to forward for 32 points.

Van Arsdale had 13 rebounds and Sam Lacey had 15 as Cincinnati dominated the backboards out-rebounding Philadelphia 60-37.

The 76ers' Bill Cunningham, the team's leading scorer, was injured and did not play.

John Green had 28 and Lacey 18 for Cincinnati. Fred Foster led Philadelphia with 29 and Hal Greer was second with 16.

The victory broke a six-game losing streak for Cincinnati which is 2-6 on the season. Philadelphia, the Eastern Division leader, is 7-2.

Hawks Dropped

ATLANTA (AP) — Chet Walker and Bob Love fired in 27 points in the third quarter Wednesday as the Chicago Bulls came from behind to defeat Atlanta 113-100 in a National Basketball Association game.

The Bulls trailed at halftime 46-45 but Walker scored 16 of his 23 points in the third and Love chipped in with 11 of his 19 as Chicago grabbed the lead for good midway through the period.

A tight defensive blanket by the Hawks' Bill Bridges held Love to just four points in the first half and four more in the fourth quarter.

Bob Weiss finished as high scorer for the Bulls with 27 points.

Lou Hudson wound up with a game-high 32 for Atlanta, and Walt Bellamy got 17.

Rockets Walloped

HOUSTON (AP) — Walt Frazier streaked for 31 points Wednesday night as the New York Knicks walloped the hapless Houston Rockets 117-98 in a National Basketball Association game.

Jerry Lucas, who hit his first seven shots from the field, scored 21 points and Bill Bradley hit for 20 for New York.

Houston's star center, Elvin Hayes, who ended a dispute with Rocket management just several hours before game time, scored only four points, hitting one field goal in each half.

Hayes reportedly was suffering from a stomach ailment and did not return to the game after leaving mid-way in the third quarter.

Forward Rudy Tomjanovich scored 20 points in the second half and paced the Rocket attack with 26. Guards Stu Lantz and Mike Newlin added 18 points each and rookie Cliff Meely 13.

Cornhuskers Best Defenders

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten and untied Nebraska, the nation's top-ranked college football team, has taken over the lead in major college total defense.

The powerful Cornhuskers, who ranked sixth nationally in total defense over the last five years, currently are on top with an average yield of 172.0 yards a game, according to official statistics released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Y Basketball

Mike Farr pumped in 26 points last evening in the Y Industrial Basketball League as Team V pasted Team VI, 76-63. Paul Johnston's 27 tallies and Jim Tenney's 24 lifted Team II over Team III, 100-82. Both games were in round two of the exhibition season.

Blues Blasted

MONTREAL (AP) — Big Frank Mahovlich blasted his 13th goal of the season—tops in the National Hockey League—and Jacques Lemaire added a goal and two assists as the Montreal Canadiens rolled to a 5-1 triumph over the St. Louis Blues Wednesday night.

Mahovlich got the Canadiens off to a 1-0 lead in the opening period, beating St. Louis goalie Ernie Wakely at the 18-minute mark. Lemaire and Guy Lapointe assisted on the play.

The victory also spoiled the NHL coaching debut of Bill McCreary of the Blues.

Then Lemaire made it 2-0 midway in the second session with his fourth goal of the season on an unassisted effort. Lapointe then scored at 14:30 with Lemaire assisting before the Blues came back 20 seconds later to make it 3-1.

The St. Louis score came on Gene Carr's fourth goal as he beat Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden.

The Canadiens added third period goals by Claude Larose and Phil Roberto to wrap up the victory.

Stars Shine

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Lou Nanne blasted in a power-play goal early in the third period and the Minnesota North Stars, behind goalie Gump Worsley, squeezed by the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 Wednesday night in the national Hockey League game.

Nanne's shot from a difficult angle below a faceoff circle whizzed by goalie Bernie Parent at 3:51 of the final period after play-making passes from Dean Prentice and Doug Mohns.

The North Stars, leading the NHL in defense and fewest power play goals allowed, spotted Toronto a 1-0 lead at 8:22 of the second period on Jim Harrison's shot from 10 feet—20 seconds after a charging penalty against Minnesota's Jude Drouin.

Minnesota tied the game at 1-1 four minutes later when defenseman Ted Harris intercepted a pass and fed the puck to defenseman Barry Gibbs, gunned in the goal.

The North Stars, contending for the West Division lead with their seventh in their last nine starts, outshot the Leafs 35-26.

Flyers Grounded

CHICAGO (AP) — Goalie Gary Smith made 21 saves while recording his first shutout of the National Hockey League season as the Chicago Black Hawks blanked the Philadelphia Flyers 3-0 Wednesday night.

Chicago cracked the scoreless game in the second period on goals by defenseman Pat Stapleton and Doug Jarrett and right wing Jim Pappin.

The scores came in a span of five minutes. Philadelphia's starting goalie, Doug Favell, gave way to Bruce Gamble after Pappin's goal at 13:46 of the second period and blanked the Hawks the rest of the way with 16 saves.

Chicago, which leads the Western Division, has scored three shutouts in its four home games.

Cards Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday catcher Bob Stinson has been traded to the Houston Astros for an infielder Marty Martinez and infielder Ted Kubiak has been sent to Dallas-Fort Worth, formerly Washington for lefthand relief pitcher Joe Grzenda.

Martinez hit .258 in 32 games last season.

The 30-year-old switch-hitting utility man from Cuba, signed with the Minnesota Twins in 1959 and played for the club briefly in 1962, hitting .167 in 37 games.

In 1969, Martinez enjoyed his best year in the major leagues. He hit .308 for Houston.

Grzenda signed with the Detroit Tigers in 1955 and reached the big leagues in 1961, when he was 0-1 for Detroit in four games.

After returning to the minors and being released by Detroit in 1963, Grzenda went to Kansas City, Minnesota and the Senators.

Last season his 1.93 earned run average was the lowest on the Senators' pitching staff.

Kubiak was obtained by the Cardinals from Milwaukee last July. He hit .250 for the St.Louis in 32 games.

Stinson spent the greater part of last year with the Cardinals' Tulsa farm club, where he hit .324. In brief action with the parent club he hit .211 in 17 games.

Pistons Select Earl Lloyd

DETROIT (AP) — Earl Lloyd, 42, a defensive standout in the National Basketball Association for more than eight seasons, was given a two-year contract Wednesday to coach the Detroit Pistons.

Lloyd, a former assistant coach with the Pistons, will take over the team Monday. He replaces Bill Van Breda Kolff, who resigned Monday.

Anna Huber Wins Newspaper Contest

Anna Huber, R.D. 2, Summerville, Pa., emerged from a pile of nearly 1000 Warren Times-Mirror and Observer football contests as last week's winner. Anna handled all the picks with relative ease in a week that sent the best of amateur football experts for a loop. She missed three games: the Oakland-Kansas City tie, Greenville over Titusville, and Miami over Los Angeles.

Then the McClellan clan from Marienville, Pa., moved in and took second, third and fifth places. Hugh McClellan also missed three picks, but was farther from the tie-breaker than was Huber, but he does collect $15.00 for second place. Blanche McClellan missed four games in taking third place and $10.00.

Fourth place went to Theresa Massa, 41 Highland ave., Youngsville. She missed four, too, but was three points further away from the tie-breaker than was Blanche.

The final $10.00 went to Jane McClellan. As did the third and fourth place winners, Jane guessed incorrectly on four selections.

All the winning McClellans live at 131 Walnut st. in Marienville.

GOOD EARTH CRUSADE

Pond Building Has Advantages

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mel Ellis, whose byline appears this week in place of ailing Joe Wing's, is a widely known writer on the out-of-doors for magazines and newspapers, and the author of nine books, mostly in this field. Named Wisconsin's Conservationist of the Year and recipient of numerous other awards, he has created on his 15-acre place at Big Bend, Wis., a wildlife area of his own. There he has absorbed additional first hand knowledge of the environmental field that has been his since boyhood. Best of all, he knows how to pass his insights on to others.

Mel Ellis

By MEL ELLIS

Looking up at me, as I fly cross-country, are the sparkling diamond-like eyes of little man made lakes—millions of which dot the nation.

So, if the newspaper I hold in my lap is pessimistic about the progress of the good earth crusade, here at least is one reason for celebration.

Private pond building is no recent development paralleling a people's determination to clean up air, water and the land around. It was started years before the ecological revolution, and is continuing apace with little lakes appearing suddenly in the most unlikely back yards and sometimes in a park in the center of a city.

Pride of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, pond building was once a strictly rural adventure, and its primary purpose was to provide water for crops and cattle during arid summers. But it has burst such purely functional bounds to serve man in many esthetic ways.

Of course, there had to be some strong motivation, and there was, because who among us would not like to have his own private little lake in which to fish, swim or merely watch the birds and animals and plants which naturally gravitate to such an oases?

And the wonderful part of it all is, there are millions more suitable sites for little lakes, and you or your neighbor may own such an area. Chances are the state and-or federal government would be most happy to advise you on procedures, and maybe even (if the site qualifies) throw a few dollars into the kitty to help finance the project.

It's the "in thing," and a subdivider today thinks twice about creating a subdivision unless he can provide a little lake. And a factory site is not considered perfect if it cannot be buffered by a lagoon with flanking trees, and even shopping centers are likely to choose one location over another if there is water available for a pond.

So? Well, there are few such positive projects so environmentally, economically and esthetically sound. In addition to their beauty and dollar value, they pay a bonus by helping to stabilize water levels during alternate periods of flood and drought. (Milwaukee, Wis., saved $100,000 in additional storm sewers because of such flood control ponds. Whole watershed areas are spared damaging floods by retaining ponds.)

Nobody knows how many private ponds there are in the country, but it runs into the millions. Missouri alone has more than 300,000, and at least three states—Texas, Oklahoma and Kentucky—have more than that.

And all ponds are not luxury items. Many a family's livelihood comes from trout the ponds send to market. Ponds have made it possible to grow catfish in the South like farmers grow potatoes or corn. Dog trainers build ponds to train retrievers.

Ponds produce fish in federal and state hatcheries for planting in major waterways. Ponds help produce balanced aboretums for scientific research. Ponds make increasingly attractive the public and private camping grounds springing up across the country. Ponds produce ducks for the meat market and cattails for the nation's gift shops. In fact, the commercial potential of a pond is limited only by the imagination and ingenuity of its creator.

Cost, of course, is a factor. So, sometimes, friends pool their resources to see a dream come true. Our family decided to forego summer vacations. With the money saved, we built ponds. Now, 17 years later, we have four, and nobody wants to leave home—surely not to take a lake vacation.

Some ponds, of course, should not be built. They impede free flowing streams, become mosquito breeders, a health hazard, and dry up someone else's water supply. But there is small likelihood that a pond, unless it is beneficial, will get government approval, and in many states permission must be obtained from one or another unit of government before digging starts.

So next time you drive, see how many ponds you can count. Or next time you fly, look down. You'll feel a little better, because if we've been regressing in most areas of conservation, here is one area in which we've made great forward progress because the wealth of our millions of ponds is of more practical value than all the gemstone diamonds yet to be mined.

ON POND BUILDING

A pond in a subdivision may enhance property values by as much as 100 per cent.

A Wisconsin corporation saw its factory leveled by flames a few years ago because of a lack of water to fight the fire. Today it has a pond with a 2-million-gallon reserve next to its new factory.

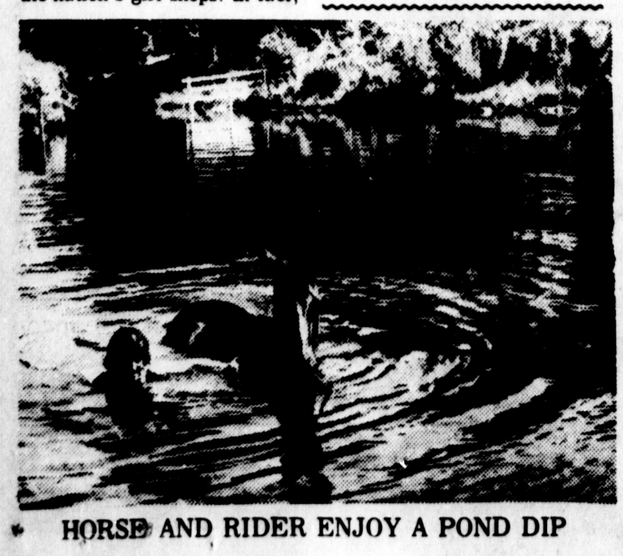

Before building a pond, contact your state department of natural resources, your county agricultural agent and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. In addition to valuable advice in planning, you may discover you are eligible for a grant to help finance the project.

Lakes too crowded? Scout the countryside. You may find a farmer with a fine pond in which you can fish and swim for a nominal fee.

Many states do not require that you have a fishing license on your own man made pond. What's more, there usually are no fishing seasons, nor are there any size limits to the fish you may keep.

Paul Johnson, Soil Conservation Service engineer station in Wisconsin, says that in 1962 only 20 per cent of his time involved urban pond planning. Today that has increased to 75 per cent.

Gene Gann, hydrologist for the U.S. States Geological Survey office in Rolla, Mo., says that the benefits of ponds far outweighs any drawbacks which might be caused by their large numbers.

Parents of Youngsville high school students are reminded of the open house to be held tonight from 7 until 9 p.m. Other interested area residents may also attend and see the school's facilities.

County JP Audits Released By State

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG -- Five Warren County Justices of the Peace have forwarded fines totaling $387 to the State Department of Revenue, according to audits of the fining officers by the State Auditor General's Department. Audits included:

Perry K. Mead, Justice of the Peace, Columbus Township, heard five cases with fines totaling $45 from June 1, 1970 to May 31, 1971, all involving vehicle code violations. A $2 balance due the State as of May 31, 1970 was also paid by the Justice.

Justice Lloyd R. Price, Freehold Township, heard one case between May 1, 1970 and May 31, 1971. The lone case was a vehicle code violation with a fine of $25.

Justice John S. Smith, Pittsfield Township, heard nine cases between June 1, 1970 and May 31, 1971, all vehicle code violations involving $105 in fines.

Justice Sophronia G. Tidrick, Sugar Grove Township, heard one vehicle code violation case with a $50 fine during the period June 1, 1970 to May 31, 1971.

Jerome S. Waxman, Justice in Glade Township, listed seven cases -- all vehicle code violations -- with fines totaling $160 from June 1, 1970 to May 31, 1971.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Do you have key trouble? If so, your troubles are over.

Picture me after being out shopping, coming home with packages in both arms, rummaging for my keys. They are either in my coat pocket or lurking in the bottom of my purse.

After much rummaging, and muttering to myself, I finally retrieve them. I unlock the door, then put them on a hallway desk, a living room table, or elsewhere . . .

Then when going out again a second search would be necessary. Finally overcome by this unnecessary daily frustration, I solved the problem, at least until something better has been devised.

I found a narrow bone bracelet at the Thrift Shop for ten cents. Then at a hardware store I purchased a key ring, priced at six cents. Placed the key ring on the bracelet. (It was somewhat difficult to get the keys and ring on the bracelet, but it can be done with a narrow bracelet.)

The bracelet is worn on the left wrist. When you approach the door, loaded with packages, take the bracelet off your wrist, unlock the door, then place the bracelet on the inside doorknob.

Next time you go out, take the bracelet off the doorknob and put it back on your wrist. When you open the door you will see the keys and not go out without them.

Keys are frequently mislaid or lost and a locksmith is costly. Purses are occasionally stolen, so this works pretty well.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

Every map should have "Utopia" on it!

When you locate Utopia on the map—go there and live.

My home is my Utopia. It is shown on the city map in my town. There are many women in the United States in Utopia and many, many, more who could be. How?

Make your own Utopia in your own home with your love, pride, joy and work.

Heloise, you have helped us so much whether we are millionaires or those of much lesser means. I let comfort and convenience be the first consideration and beauty the second.

Meagerness is not my forte, so often it's a plentitude of scrambled eggs instead of "Pikes Peak" roasts.

DEAR HELOISE:

Just got a bright idea that might be helpful to others.

Large business calendars (mine has Currier and Ives prints) make very good shelf linings.

When changing months (usually takes two to line a large kitchen shelf or linen shelf), save them and place on the shelves so the picture is at the front.

You have a clean shelf—an interesting picture and good, heavy, shelf lining.

DEAR HELOISE:

I broke my hip recently and am still on crutches.

To help carry small things around the house I took my plastic bread keeper with a wide rim (the type that holds one loaf and is available at those home parties for plastic ware) and literally pulled the panty portion of a pair of hose up over the bottom of the container all the way up to the rim.

Then pulled a leg up on each side of the container—tied the two legs together at the foot portion leaving enough length so that the legs when tied together could be put over my head and hung around my neck.

This plastic bread storage box is lightweight and certainly is serving my purpose well.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a tip for all jean-wearers out there.

I had an old pair of jeans. We went through a lot together and I didn't have the heart to call it quits.

So I took a felt-tipped marker to match the color of my jeans and zeroed in all the spots.

Nary a worn spot to be seen.

DEAR HELOISE:

My good neighbor saw how I hung my wash-and-wear clothes on the line and suggested I send my invention to you.

I have a washer and dryer, but I like to hang clothes outside, if possible. So I tied loops in my plastic clothesline every 18 to 20 inches, to dry blouses, shells, pants, etc.

My clothesline looks a little bumpy, but the clothes hanger never slips out of the loop and it's worth every knot I put in it.

Spiraling Hospital Costs Said Threat To Blue Cross Rates

HARRISBURG (AP) — The president of Capital Blue Cross said Wednesday spiraling hospital costs pose a serious threat to the average subscriber.

"We recognize that if this escalation were allowed to go unchecked, it might present the very real danger that health expense protection would have to be priced beyond the reach of many persons," Richard D. Rife warned.

Rife testified during a oneday hearing by the state Insurance Department on Capital Blue Cross' request for increases averaging 21.8 per cent for about 268,000 group and non-group subscribers.

If approved, the increases become effective Jan. 1. Subscribers under special group and student contracts and those with 65-Special coverage would not be affected by the increases.

Capital Blue Cross has nearly 900,000 subscribers in 19 central Pennsylvania counties—Adams, Berks, Centre, Columbia, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Juniata, Lancaster, Lebanon, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Schuylkill, Snyder, Union and York.

Rife said one of the major factors prompting the rate increase was a survey of member hospitals which suggested that hospital costs in the area will increase some 13 per cent next year. Another factor cited was a $2.9 million loss by the nonprofit organization since 1968.

Rife said hospital administrators and board members in his area are showing "a high level of interest" in reducing costs but added: "There is still a long way to go."

Insurance Commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg, who has been pushing for more subscriber control of Blue Cross, urged Capital Blue Cross to unload hospital administrators and doctors from its board.

"We think Capital Blue Cross is going in the wrong direction," Denenberg said. "We call on Capital to put the consumer first for a change. We call on Capital to recognize that it is supposed to be a consumer organization — not a hospital or a doctor's organization.

"Hospital administrators, doctors and others have no business on a Blue Cross board."

He turned to hospital reform, one of his favorite subjects:

"Unnecessary and unsafe hospital facilities are already being closed as a result of the new contract between Blue Cross of Greater Philadelphia and 100 area hospitals. Stetson Hospital, a totally obsolete and unnecessary facility is being closed. A renal dialysis unit at Bryn Mawr and an underutilized obstetrical unit at Paoli Memorial are also being closed.

"We expect the same kind of reforms to be adopted here in the Capital Blue Cross area," he said, adding:

"One important matter we will look at is the proposed 165-bed expansion of the Holy Spirit Hospital in Camp Hill. The Pennsylvania State Plan for Hospital and Medical Facilities indicates quite clearly that only 28 additional beds are required in the Cumberland-Perry County planning area in which Holy Spirit is located."

He said that "we have already ordered Capital Blue Cross to disallow any costs related to the construction or use of these beds. But we think this issue should be aired publicly."

AOC Plans Thanksgiving Hike Nov. 21

The Allegheny Outdoor Club's annual Thanksgiving hike and dinner will be held, rain or shine (even snow!) at 2 p.m. Nov. 21 at St. Michaels Pavilion, Sheffield. The hike will be about four miles in length and Margie Taylor will be the leader. Dinner will commence at 5 p.m. and each family is to bring two different casseroles and table service. Single persons will bring one casserole and table service. Ruth Samuelson has offered to bake the hams again and a group of Sheffield citizens have offered to set up tables, etc. They are: Ruth and Norm Samuelson, Larry Stotz, Mae and Virginia Swanson and Margie Taylor.

Bob Foster is in charge of the program which will be preceded by a business meeting at which time the new officers will take their positions. A collection will be made to cover the cost of pavilion use and for the hams. Make reservations with Jan Palmer at 723-4040 by Monday, Nov. 15.

Other events for the fall and winter season planned by the club include: Nov. 7, hike, approx. 3 miles in Morrison Run area leaving 1:30 p.m. from Court House. Nov. 14, hike in area between Fifth st. and Hatch Run rd. Dec. 12, winter stroll at Olmsted Manor, Ludlow and, perhaps, a tour of the mansion. Supper at Olmsted Bungalow. Meet at Olmsted manor at 3 p.m. Jan. 6, 1972, general meeting at home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stricker, 119 Redwood st., Warren. Jan. 9, hike, approx. 4½ miles down Irvine rd. or Keller rd.

Forest County Sheriff Loses In Close Race

Incumbent Forest County Sheriff Steven Banks was upset by Democrat Lee Lehman in a close race and two other Democrats won county commissioner posts as close to 75 per cent of the county's registered voters went to the polls Tuesday.

Lehman took an early 200 vote lead in the Sheriff's race and even though Banks scored big in Jenks Township and Tionesta Borough returns he could not overcome the challenger. Final totals showed Lehman with 894 votes and Banks with 869.

Top vote-getter in the commissioners' race was Republican Alan Roberts, who pulled 993 tallies. He was followed by incumbent Herbert Moritz with 896 and Democratic newcomer Russell Wagner with 772. Waldo W. Killmer, the other Republican hopeful, lost a chance at taking the third seat by only 69 votes. He finished with 703.

Republican Betty Mealy beat Democrat Pauline Carter 478 to 301 to win the treasurer's race in the only other contest.

Incumbent Register and Recorder Virginia Felton and District Attorney C. Dick Cable were unopposed, as was Coroner James Hazlett.

Russell Smith and Betty Zimmerman won the two auditor's jobs without competition and Ann Kincaid and Chester Zindall were elected jury commissioners—also unopposed.

License Revoked: Hasn't Been Used

HARRISBURG (AP) — The liquor license of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 509 in Johnstown has been revoked, effective Nov. 16, because it hasn't been used since May 1969, the state Liquor Control Board announced Wednesday.

State Chamber President Named

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Victor C. Diehm, president and chief executive officer of the Mutual Broadcasting System Inc., was elected president of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce during an annual meeting here, it was announced today.

Diehm succeeds William E. Schiller, who served two one-year terms. Schiller is board chairman of Hershey Foods Corp. in Hershey.

Three Sought After Blaze In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police were searching charred ruins on the fourth floor of a Northeast Philadelphia apartment building Wednesday for three persons missing from a Tuesday night fire which claimed four lives.

Hampered by the evacuation of residents of the Carver Hall Apartments in the city's Frankford section, police were checking leases to determine who is still missing. At least 90 persons were placed in temporary lodgings in private homes or motels.

The city's medical examiner identified the dead as: A. Daniel Stenger, 87; Stenger's wife, Mae, 80; and Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, 72. A tentative identification was given on Mrs. Alice Mahan, 65.

All of the dead lived on the fourth floor where police said the fire started in Mrs. Mahan's apartment. The city fire marshal's office said they had no clues on how the blaze started.

Fifteen persons, including a policeman and three firemen, suffered minor injuries.

More than 100 firemen battled the blaze for about two hours before bringing it under control at 1:30 a.m.

Child Killed

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP)—Brian Myers, 7, of Rouseville, an Oil City suburb, was killed when struck by a car at the intersection of Pa. 8 and Pa. 227 near his home, police reported.

State police said the boy was dead on arrival at Oil City Hospital Tuesday night. They said the driver of the car, Floyd Harkless, 35, of Titusville, told them the boy darted out in front of his car.

23 Area Business Firms Honored By County Chamber

Twenty-three Warren area business firms were honored Wednesday with the presentation of "Plus Awards" from the Warren County Chamber of Commerce.

Merle B. Mitcham, Chamber president, said the awards were made by the Chamber for "exemplary achievement by improving the economic climate of the business community through far-sightedness and deliberate action in enhancing the appearance of our commercial establishments."

Recipient company businesses ranged from automotive to banks, household appliances and food and pets.

The following companies received "Plus Awards" with the recipient's name immediately thereafter: Clinton Discount, Gary Waples; Dairy Queen of Warren, George Biehls; Dianna's Fabric Shop, Dianna and Julieann Grant; Faulk Volkswagen, Inc., Wayne H. Moore; Four Seas Restaurant, Dr. and Mrs. Cyrus Lee; Jones Chevrolet, Inc., William Jones; Means Company, Herbert and Archie Means; Mister Donut Shop, Jon Nevius; Mostert's Bakery, Mr. McCan; Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Co., Sugar Grove office, John Lyon; Rich Made Kitchens, Ray Rich.

Also, Sheffield Medical Center, Fr. Carter; The Style Shop, William Lundahl; Tomassoni and Sons Nursery, Tony Tomassoni; Turner TV and Appliance, Charles Frazier; Warren City Lines, Clyde and Samuel Loomis; Warren Kitchen Builders, Donald Zinger; Warren National Bank, North Warren office, Ralph Tencate; Warren Water Company, Dick Marchione, and West Penn Oil Company, Ernest Miller.

Three companies were unable to be represented at the affair and will receive their awards by mail. They are: Beyer Construction Company, Cady's Card and Gift Shop and Wen's Tropical Fish.

Yablonski Prosecutor Seeks Death Penalty For Defendant

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The prosecution said Wednesday it would seek the death penalty for the first defendant in the Yablonski murder case, Aubran W. "Buddy" Martin.

"The Commonwealth will attempt to show that the crime committed was murder in the first degree," special prosecutor Richard Sprague told a group of prospective jurors in his opening remarks, as jury selection began under tight security.

"If this defendant is convicted of murder in the first degree, the Commonwealth will seek the death penalty," he said.

Martin, 23, is the youngest of five defendants in the December, 1969, slayings of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Martin sat passively in Washington County Court before Judge Charles Sweet throughout the prosecution's statement and later during the screening of prospective jurors.

By midafternoon, only one jury member had been selected out of 16 persons screened by the judge and attorneys for both sides.

When the session adjourned for the day, only three jurors—two women and a man— had been selected from the 37 persons screened by the judge and attorneys for both sides.

Defense attorney Mark Goldberg challenged four of the prospective jurors and the prosecution scratched three. Others were dismissed by mutual agreement for various reasons.

"I have three sons and I would not be able to use my head. I would use my heart," said one woman.

"I knew Jock personally. I worked with him in the mines," said a gray-haired retired miner.

"I am against capital punishment," another woman said. "I could not support the death penalty."

In all, 12 prospects were excused by mutual agreement of both sides. And another three were dismissed at the request of chief defense counsel Mark Goldberg.

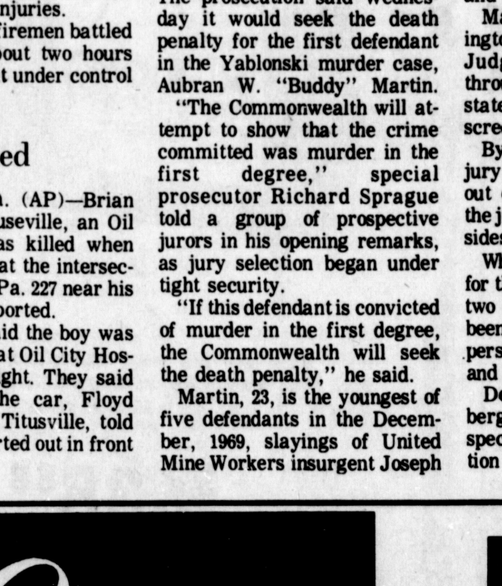

The lone acceptance came just before an afternoon recess.

Reflections On A Bag Of Halloween Candy

My six-year-old son asked me a very sad question the other night.

"Mommy," he said, "will you check and see if there's any razor blades in my Halloween candy?"

Razor blades in Halloween candy! And a six-year-old worrying about it.

The age of innocence is truly lost.

There is a gap of 30 years between my youngest son and me – yet I can remember going out on "Beggars Night" and coming home with my loot. The only worry I had then was hiding it safely enough to keep my two brothers from raiding my cache.

"There was a kid around here who found a razor blade in his candy," my child said. "I don't want to get hurt."

My baby said this, and I experienced a sinking feeling in the pit of my stomach.

I wondered -- what will he remember of his "golden" early years?

Will he remember carefree days of neighborly love and people caring for one another? Or will he remember worrying about locking doors, and trusting only those who are in his close family group?

I tried to reassure him as best I could. "People in our neighborhood would never do a mean thing like that," I told him. "People around here are nice."

But I wonder -- and I worry. What about next year? Will my beautiful towhead, who innately loves and trusts everyone, receive the final disillusionment that will change his view of the world?

I hope not. A seven-year-old should have a little more time before he begins to view the world with a cynical eye.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: Several weeks ago I printed a letter from a woman who said her life was ruined because of an offensive odor she couldn't get rid of. She made the rounds of nose specialists, endocrynologists, dermatologists, gynecologists -- and no one could explain it. In fact, no one could smell it. She said no friend or relative had ever mentioned the odor, but it was driving her crazy

I suggested one more doctor – a psychiatrist. I told her that over the years I have received hundreds of letters from readers with the same complaint. My consultants agree that when no physical problem exists the problem is psychological. These tortured people have a deep-seated feeling of worthlessness. The "odor" which no one else can smell is an ego-saving excuse to keep them away from people. It also explains (to them, at least) why no one wants to be around THEM.

When the letter appeared I received over 500 "solutions." Here's a sampling:

From Wheeling, W. Va.: The woman with the "odor" is not sick -- she is gifted. I, too, have the ability to smell things that no one else can smell. I can smell animals in the woods and birds flying overhead. I can also smell friends and acquaintances before they enter a room. I first realized I had this gift when I was four years old. I said to my mother, "Grandpa will be here soon." She asked, "How do you know?" I answered, "I can smell him." Sure enough, in five minutes Grandpa arrived. Please tell the woman who wrote not to worry. She's exceptional.

From Marshalltown, Ia.: Tell the lady with the strange odor to cheer up and she will smell better. Scientists have proved that happy people give off a fragrant scent. Negative brain waves (worry, anger, fear, anxiety) give off unpleasant odors. Animals can smell emotions but most people can't.

From La Porte, Ind.: The woman who "Nose It All" should stop drinking coffee. The odor that is bothering her is the result of caffein poisoning.

From Jackson, Mich.: Tell "Stinky" to put a cup of salt in her bath water.

From Juneau, Alaska: Tell the lady with the odor to sleep with a raw oyster over each eye at night. It's a sure cure.

From London, Ontario: Her trouble is not in her mind, Ann, it's in her nose. She should line her nostrils with vaseline every night when she goes to sleep.

Dear Ann: The lady with the mysterious odor problem probably has idiopathic hypogeusia. It is a mental disorder of unknown origin. Zinc, taken by mouth, sometimes helps. -- Dr. J.H.O., Chicago

From Flint, Mich.: The lady with the odor problem should change toothpaste and soap. She has an allergy that is throwing her chemistry out of balance.

From Des Moines: If the woman will stop wearing synthetic fabrics (nylon, acetate, etc.) her odor will disappear. Synthetics stimulate glandular secretions which create odors.

From Knoxville: The woman who smells things should be aware that she has a rare talent. Her highly developed olfactory sense should be put to use. She should rent herself out to church groups who have picnics. Every year at least a dozen people die from food poisoning at these affairs. If you'll give me her name I'll see to it that she is put to work at once.

DEAR KNOX: Sorry, as a matter of policy I can't put one reader in touch with another, but thanks to you and to all who wrote.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Warren County Medical Society, with the encouragement of Family Service and Visiting Nurse Association, is sponsoring a "Health Fair," for Warren County, to be held in September of 1972.

The object of the "Health Fair" is to acquaint the population of Warren County with the many health procedures and services available within the county.

A luncheon is to be held Wednesday, Nov. 10 at Warren General Hospital Conference Room. The steering committee for the noon luncheon agenda includes Mrs. John Harrington, Mrs. John Robertson, Mrs. Raymond Lowe and Mrs. Daniel Lareau.

Women's Club Drama Department Hears Dr. Wendell Monday

Dr. John Wendell was guest speaker at the open meeting of the Art Department of the Woman's Club, held Monday, Nov. 1.

Dr. Wendell is a graduate of Princeton University, where he majored in humanities and received his PhD in English Literature. The title of his talk was "The Art of Saint and Sinners."

He discussed the history of the Vatican, and the way in which its art treasures were acquired. He also described its museum collections, which include galleries of paintings, sculpture and tapestry, Etruscan and Egyptian museums, collections of Christian objects, geographhical charts and coins. The Vatican Library, with its precious manuscripts, and the Secret Archives, which contains the records of the workings of the church, its dogmas and sacred objects was also discussed.

He described the decoration of the rooms and apartments of the Vatican and the beauty of the Sistine Chapel.

In conclusion, he stated he found the close relationship between religion and art appropriate, as they are both expressions of man's search for meaning in life.

Mrs. Lloyd Smith was hostess for the tea which followed the talk, with Mrs. John Koedel and Mrs. David Potter assisting.

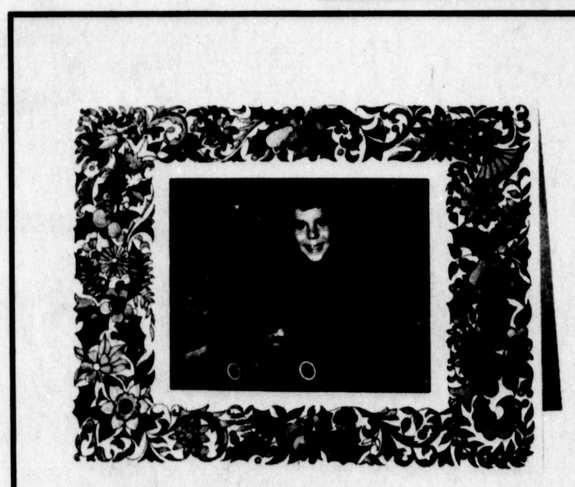

WHAT'S NEW FOR THE HOLIDAYS?

One thing that's new is this nativity set -- only one of the many items on display at the Woman's Club auditorium. With the theme, "An Old Fashioned Christmas," Warren's merchants have displayed their newest merchandise to help make early Christmas shopping easier. The affair is to be open again today from 12:30 to 9:30 p.m. Proceeds from the sale of tickets helps several Warren youth and church organizations. (Photo - Mansfield)

Dorothy Hook, formerly of Youngsville, has just completed a successful one-woman art show at the Hershey Community Center in Hershey, Pa. Shown were a select group of scenes of Warren and Annville, Pa. During the month of September, Mrs. Hook had a few large paintings hanging at Lebanon Valley College also. Dorothy, who paints at Penn State in the summer, has recently moved to the Annville area where her husband is assistant principal of the Annville-Cleona High School. She tells us the country is simply beautiful there, but she misses our local mountains and can't wait to return to Warren and Youngsville.

John Henry Weds Pamela Shearer In Westfield, New York Ceremony

Pamela Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shearer, Westfield, New York, was married to John W. Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delos Henry, 16 Parker st., Warren, at the Presbyterian Church in Westfield.

The Rev. Harold F. Potter, pastor of the Methodist Church in McKean, Pennsylvania, officiated at the double ring ceremony, held October 23, 1971. The Rev. Potter is father of the best man.

The church was decorated with assorted gold and white flowers.

As she was escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was dressed in a white A-line gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta. The gown featured a high neckline, empire waist, and long puff sleeves. Her elbow length veil was secured to a crown of white artificial roses.

She carried a bouquet of long stemmed white roses.

Mrs. Peter Best, Westfield, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a forest green crepe gown, and large brimmed hat covered in crepe. Both the dress and gown were trimmed in gold brocade ribbon. She carried one long stemmed yellow rose.

Sue and Laura Shearer, Westfield, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Sid Hoyt, Mayville, N.Y. a friend of the bride; and Mrs. William Ferguson, Buffalo, a friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in gold crepe gowns, and large brimmed hats trimmed in green brocade ribbon. They also carried one long stemmed yellow rose.

The best man was Harold E. Potter, McKean, Pennsylvania.

Ushers were Thomas Flood, Warren; Don Gebhardt, Warren; Sid Hoyt, Mayville, N.Y., and Dave Engberg, Buffalo.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Westfield YWCA. Aides were Joan Henry, Lois Guy, and Jean Smith, sisters of the bridegroom.

After a honeymoon to an undisclosed location, the couple is home at 96 S. Erie street, Mayville, New York.

W.O.M. Hold Christmas In October

The Warren Chapter 693, Women of the Moose, held their "Christmas in October" meeting recently.

This is an annual event in which all chapters of the Women of the Moose participate. It is held for the benefit of the children of Mooseheart and for the aged at Moosehaven. It helps to insure each person there a merry Christmas every year.

Highlight of the event was a gift march with each member placing a gift under the Christmas tree.

Games were played with each member receiving a gift.

A project was held to raise money for additional gifts.

Sarah Shene and her committee provided the luncheon for the occasion.

Russell Brownies To Hold Bike Hike

Girl Scout Brownie Troop 647 and the troop led by Mrs. Hoover are planning a bicycle hike Saturday, Nov. 6. They are to meet at the Russell Methodist Church parking lot at 10 a.m. and are to return by 2 p.m. The hike is a requirement of a Cyclist badge.

At this week's meeting, Jody Brecht, Amy Akeley, Janice Nelson, Kathy Kummer, Shannon Feeney, Anne Sumner and Wendy Durlin received the badges of Gypsy, Rambler, Troop Camper, and Water Fun.

Ackley Grange Members Attend State Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Way have just returned from Somerset, Pa. as delegates from Ackley Grange to the 99th annual session of Pennsylvania State Grange.

Mrs. Lyle Moore was awarded a green ribbon for Honorable Mention for her Lecturer's Scrapbook.

Ackley Grange was one of four Subordinate Granges in Warren County who contributed "Gifts of Love" to the people in Panama for the Community Development Programs.

Ida Grace Larson also attended the State Grange Sessions in Somerset as a guest.

The next regular meeting of Ackley Grange will be Friday, Nov. 5 in its hall at 8 p.m. A special program is to be presented by the Department of Forests and Waters, showing pictures of the C.P.L. Lumber Co. All members are urged to attend.

Blue Stocking Club Hears Biography Of Golda Meir

The life of Golda Meir was discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the Blue Stocking Club, held at the home of Mrs. James Miller, with Mrs. Earl Christensen as co-hostess.

Mrs. Albert Jackson presented the biography of Mrs. Meir, Israel's leader. Mrs. Jackson said that even if she were not one of only three women in the world to be the active heads of a national government, Mrs. Meir would be among the most remarkable personalities of the 20th century. With unswerving devotion, and at a great personal cost, she has dedicated her life to the founding and maintenance of the state of Israel.

Tea was served from a table centered with gold mums and fall leaves. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Arlen Dunham and Mrs. Carl Whipple.

Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Lavern Hull, Nov. 16.

U.N. Anniversary Inspires Recipes

BRAISED BEEF PROVENCAL
a favorite recipe from France

Have you noticed that the smaller the world grows, the wider our taste in food becomes? More and more, dishes of European, mid-Eastern, Oriental and even African origins are being adapted for American kitchens, adding interest and new flavors to our menus. And here, to add to your collection, are two recipes of French and Russian inspiration, in honor of the 26th anniversary of the United Nations.

Braised Beef Provencal, a savory beef stew boasts a rich gravy made with red wine and an envelope of onion gravy mix. Served with poppy seed-sprinkled noodles, it's a perfect cold weather all-in-one dish for family and company meals.

Another unusual and tasty meal-in-one, Savory Stroganoff Pie combines economical ground beef and a velvety smooth sour cream sauce easily made with an envelope of stroganoff sauce mix.

Serve either dish with a tray of crisp relishes and for dessert, a favorite cake and glasses of milk. This suggested menu is balanced to provide servings from each of the basic Four Food Groups that we all need daily to keep fit.

BRAISED BEEF PROVENCAL

1½ pounds stewing beef
2 tablespoons oil
1 envelope (1-oz.) Onion Gravy Mix
1 cup water
¼ cup Widmer's Burgundy or Claret
1 can (2 or 3-oz.) mushroom stems and pieces
1 package (10-oz.) frozen peas
Cooked noodles sprinkled with Poppy Seeds

Brown beef in oil in large skillet. Stir in contents of envelope of gravy mix, water, wine, and liquid from can of mushrooms; cover and simmer 45 to 50 minutes, until meat is tender. Add peas and mushrooms; cook 10 minutes longer. Serve with cooked noodles. 4 to 6 servings.

SAVORY STROGANOFF PIE

1 pound ground beef
1 envelope (1¾-oz. Stroganoff Sauce Mix
1 1/3 cups milk
1 package (10-oz.) frozen mixed vegetables
1 tablespoon Parsley Flakes
1 teaspoon Dill Seed, if desired
Pastry for 2-crust pie

Cook ground beef in large skillet until it loses red color. Stir in contents of envelope of sauce mix, milk, vegetables, parsley flakes, and dill seed. Cook, stirring occasionally, until vegetables thaw. Line 8 or 9-inch pie pan with pastry; spoon meat filling into pie. Cover with top crust; crimp edges to seal. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. 6 servings.

Breakfast Briefs

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Altho North and South bid their hands to the hilt, proper technique by the latter could have redeemed the ambitious bidding.

The first round of the auction was routine. North's jump to three clubs was a slight stretch. His suit is broken and the jack of spades is a questionable value. South temporized with three hearts and when this was raised to four, he was warranted in proceeding to slam. It might have been better strategy to cue bid the ace of spades and await partner's reaction. His ultimate decision to go all the way after all the aces were accounted for was based on the expectation of finding either a solid or readily establishable club suit in dummy.

West opened the four of spades, East covered dummy's eight with the ten and declarer won the trick with the ace. There seemed to be little more to the hand than developing North's club suit and there were apparently plenty of entries available to accomplish this purpose.

So reasoning, South led over to the jack of hearts and continued with the queen—drawing trumps when the suit divided two-two. The ace of clubs came next, on which West dropped the queen. A small club was ruffed with the seven of hearts—however, when West showed out, a serious complication had set in for declarer. With the clubs dividing five-one, the North hand no longer had enough entries to profitably develop the club suit.

Dummy was reentered with the king of diamonds to put the jack of clubs thru. East covered with the king and declarer ruffed with the eight of hearts. The ace of diamonds, North's last entry, enabled South to cash the ten of clubs—on which he discarded the nine of diamonds. When the eight of clubs was led, East covered with the nine and declarer was obliged to trump in his hand.

At trick 13, South conceded the ten of diamonds to West's jack for the setting trick.

The extremely adverse division in the club suit was admittedly an unlucky break for declarer, however, he could have taken measures to protect himself. When a heart is led to the jack at trick two and both opponents follow suit, South is assured of no worse than a three-one trump break. He should therefore temporarily shift his attentions to the development of clubs by cashing the ace and then ruffing a small club with the king of hearts, on which West shows out.

A second heart is led to the queen and when the remaining hearts fall, South is well on his way. The jack of clubs is put thru to ruff out East's king and North retains two entries in diamonds: one to cash the ten of clubs and ruff out East's nine and the other to lead the now established eight of clubs for the discard of declarer's ten of diamonds.

If West turns up with three hearts headed by the ten and only one club, the suggested line of play will not succeed. But in that instance, the grand slam cannot be made, no matter what course declarer takes.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1971

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)— Better than average influences, yet there is good reason to pull in the reins a bit, tighten control. Use your perspicacity. Clear expression and style needed.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)— Some things will be readily mastered, others not so yielding. Present position of Venus suggests avoidance of strain, anxiety and aggravation.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)— Leave no loose ends and don't start enterprises you may regret later. Look up past records, returns, in planning present procedures.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)— Practice a skill or hobby; either will release tension and better fit you for the day's activities. Remember, in all things, let quality supersede quantity.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)— If someone disappoints you, try to be especially nice to him (or her,as the case may be). In this way you can strengthen character, prevent hassles.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)— If all does not go as well as you'd like, take a "breather"—a bit of time in which to put the pieces in place and revive needed energy; also, inner quietude.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)— Your ability to reason dispassionately should be a bulwark against day's possibly knotty problems. Strengthen projects which are on the way to success.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)— Your Mars in highly favorable aspect. Make every moment a gem; project your pleasing personality to make others happier. Intuition should be strong now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)— Study propositions and the people behind them. Neither jump into agreements too quickly, nor dally till you lose chances.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)— Mixed planetary aspects, but those of you who will take the bull by the horns to get things done at appropriate moments will be many credits ahead.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)— Just being yourself and emphasizing your better instincts will be fine. Of course, you will have to put sturdy endeavor there or you will spoil the picture.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)— What you accomplish on this day will have great bearing on the morrows. If you go along in a steady constructive way, you will accelerate routine and find tasks simpler.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly competent individual, willing to work hard if the interest is there, but may drop a project if certain angles annoy. You combine the artistic and the practical more than most, and your ambition is boundless. You are a worker and a builder, and you want to (and usually do) reach the top —with its attendant acclaim. There are many fields from which you could choose what should be a brilliant career, but notably painting, literature, the law, medicine, real estate or the entertainment world. Birthdate of: Guido Reni, Ital, painter; Walter Cronkite, TV newscaster; Art Carney, Amer. actor.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

HEMINGWAY IN RETROSPECT

(c) By The Chicago Tribune

Ernest Hemingway committed suicide on July 2,1961. Dr. Irvin D. Yalom, Stanford psychiatrist, and his wife, Marilyn, a professor of literature, did a restrospective study of his life. They concluded that the brilliant author's inability to live up to his image ultimately generated the severe psychic conflicts responsible for his death. The Yaloms had reasons to believe that Hemingway was deeply troubled. Much of this information came from his friends and an analysis of the fictional heroes which emerged out of "lived experiences."

So powerful was his image, that it is beyond comprehension. Here was a man of vitality, strength and courage. He was the athlete, swimmer, brawler, boxer, "the hard drinker and hard lover." The soldier looking for a war, an intrepid hunter and fisherman, the lover of danger, bullfights, flying and the front lines. Above all, Hemingway counted among his friends heroes, fighters, hunters and matadors.

Despite living life to its fullest, he fell short of his idealized goals. In public and in private, Hemingway invested inordinate psychic energy into fulfilling his idealized self. The "image was so extreme that superhuman forces would have been required to satisfy it." Furthermore, counterforces limited his ability to adapt to life.

For many years, his restlessness and depressions were warded off with alcohol, writing and intense physical feats. As his health faltered, his age began to show. By 1960, Hemingway's mental health deteriorated sharply and he developed a severe paranoid depression. Oddly, he took his own life — an act no Hemingway hero ever committed.

NUMB SOLES

Mrs. M. writes: What makes my sister's feet develop numbness when she walks?

REPLY

You neglected to mention how old she is. However, some possible causes of the symptom are poor circulation, anemia, nerve disorders, and tight garters. Why not urge her to consult a physician?

SHE'S NO BABY

R. G. writes: Our 2-year-old wants no part of her crib. Should we tie her in, put a top on it, or let her cry it out?

REPLY

A youth bed with protective rails may solve the problem even though she is a bit young. The alternative is to be firm and let her cry it out.

OVULATION PAIN

D. S. writes: Can anything be done for ovulation pains?

REPLY

Aspirin and the application of a hot water bag or electric heating pad usually bring about relief. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on menstrual irregularities.

STAIRS AND THE HEART

Stairs and the Heart

S. G. writes: After a person recovers from a heart attack, is it safe for her to go up and down a flight of stairs daily?

REPLY

Yes. She should take her time and rest for a moment if distress develops.

Two Robberies Have Police On The Run

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two separate bank robberies in the downtown area within minutes of each other, had city police on the run Wednesday.

The first holdup was reported at the Western Pennsylvania National Bank at Penn Ave. and Stanwix St., where a lone robber made off with $3,240, police said.

Less than ten minutes later, a second robbery was reported at the Pittsburgh National Bank on Penn Ave.

Police said a suspect in the second holdup, was chased by a bank employe after taking $827. Two patrolmen passing by the area saw the chase, jumped from their cruiser and apprehended a man, police said $827 was recovered.

Tionesta Lions Induct Six New Members

Robert C. Simonton, governor of seven-county District 14-F of Lions International, inducted six members into Tionesta Lions Club during its meeting Monday evening in Tionesta Restaurant with President D.R. Amsler presiding.

Governor Simonton oversees 43 Lions Clubs in the district, covering Crawford, Erie, Forest, McKean, Mercer, Venango and Warren counties. He named four projects that Pennsylvania Lions Clubs are sponsoring, namely: participation of needy blind persons in the Leadership Dog School for the Blind at Rochester, Michigan; Beacon Lodge Camp for the Blind near Lewistown; Pennsylvania Eye Research; and CARE.

The invocation was given by Russell M. Smith. For a Lions information article, Milfred Smith read "The Function of Lions International."

Frank P. Kaputa, chairman of the attendance and membership committee, introduced the new members: Roy V. Barr, Albert E. Kingston, Howard E. Knight, Donald L. Kunselman, Paul H. Millin, and Mildred Smith. William Thompson, another new member was absent.

During the Board meeting held after the regular session, plans were made to start selling brooms and light bulbs on Thursday, Nov. 11. The Lions are to meet in the Fire Hall at 6:30 p.m. to plan the campaign and get brooms and bulbs.

A large evergreen is to be decorated at the Faulkner Plaza and 100 Christmas trees are being ordered for sale as another fund-raising effort for community betterment projects.

Used eyeglasses are being collected. Anyone having glasses to donate may leave them at the Kunselman Insurance Agency. This should be done before November 21.

The next meeting of Tionesta Lions will be Nov. 15 in Tionesta Restaurant when James L. Myers of Franklin will talk on conservation.

Justices Seek Legal System Reassessment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pennsylvania's two new state Supreme Court Justices Wednesday called for a reassessment of the entire legal system of Pennsylvania.

Robert N.C. Nix, 42, the first Negro ever elected to the Supreme Court, and Louis Manderino, 41, a Commonwealth Court judge, promised during the campaign to bring young attitudes and new ideas to the state's highest judicial body.

They defeated incumbent Justice Alexander F. Barbieri, 64, and Franklin County Judge George C. Eppinger, 50, for the two 10-year terms.

When Manderino and Nix take office the Republicans' present 6-1 advantage will drop to 4-3. The GOP has dominated the court since the Civil War.

"I think our court system is operating the way it did in the Middle Ages, and the Supreme Court has a new responsibility to re-examine every basic ingredient in this system of justice," Manderino said.

"There's a challenge to speed up justice and make it more efficient and far more economical," Manderino said. "I think the court has a specific responsibility in the direction and moral leadership to the legislature in regards to matters such as prison reform, bail reform and the rehabilitation of both men and women."

Nix said the first thing the court should do is to eliminate congestion in the large urban areas.

"It will take study, but changes can be made immediately if the court takes the right attitude," Nix said.

Nix also called for prison reform and a closer protection of the rights of people.

"The consumer protection laws in the past have primarily protected special interest groups. The rights of the consumer have been forgotten. The landlord is protected, but not the tenant," Nix said.

Manderino said he thought his victory and that of Nix is an indication of confidence in the Shapp Administration.

"They (Shapp's staff) know the serious problems facing the administration and know it has a concern from the people's point of view."

Nix, however, said he thought their victory was an indication that the people wanted a change in the judicial system.

"The people of Pennsylvania recognize the problems of the judicial system and the need for change. It is a clear mandate that the people think the judicial system needs a new approach more responsive and more representative."

He said that he thought the people voted along ethnic lines because, "we need the black and Italian representation."

Eppinger conceded the election about 1 a.m. and Barbieri followed almost an hour later.

Manderino, who worked in a steel mill during his college days at his native Monessen, Westmoreland County, is former dean of Duquesne University Law School.

In Philadelphia, where Shapp refused to back Democratic mayoral victor Frank Rizzo, the judges received about 20,000 votes more than Rizzo and had victory margins almost twice as big.

Nix, a Philadelphia Common Pleas judge, led the ticket in his hometown but trailed Manderino in the rest of the state.

The Democrats rolled up big pluralities in the urban areas and kept the rural and suburban GOP strongholds in check.

The two seats won by Manderino and Nix belong to Barbieri, who was temporarily appointed following the death of Justice Herbert B. Cohen, and Chief Justice John C. Bell Jr., a Republican who plans to retire in January. Justice Benjamin R. Jones, a Republican, is next in line in seniority for chief justice.

City Has GOP Mayor Despite Bribery Scandal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnstown still has a Republican mayor, despite a bribery and conspiracy scandal that rocked the previous GOP city administration.

GOP candidate Herbert Pfuhl defeated Democrat Paul Martin Tuesday, 8,875 to 7,103.

Pfuhl apparently was unharmed by the resignation Oct. 12 of Republican Mayor Kenneth O. Tompkins. Tompkins pleaded guilty on the bribery and conspiracy charges in connection with the award of a cable television franchise.

Pfuhl was not closely allied with Tompkins, and, in fact, defeated him in the GOP primary. However, with Martin attempting to connect Tompkins and Pfuhl in voters' minds, the GOP candidate had to convince city residents of his independence.

Statewide, Democrats wrested control of five city administrations from Republicans, while losing control in two areas.

The Democratic successes came in Coatesville, DuBois, Lower Burrell, Lock Haven and New Castle. Republicans regained control in Reading and Williamsport.

A 25-year-old Democrat, William Johns, beat out GOP incumbent J. Arlington Young in Lock Haven, 1,666 to 1,278.

In Coatesville, Mrs. Frances Regener, 54, became that city's first woman mayor. She polled 1,779 votes to 1,507 for incumbent Republican John Teti.

Democrat Kenneth Showers won in DuBois, topping Republican Samuel Richards, 1,647 to 1,442. Incumbent Republican J. D. Warren Jr. chose not to run again.

John Faldowski, a Democrat, won the Lower Burrell race, defeating incumbent Republican Earl Hill, 3,571 to 2,032.

Overcoming a 3-1 Democratic registration, former Reading mayor Eugene Shikr, a Republican, recaptured city hall. He defeated Democrat Joseph P. Kuzminski, 13,421 to 12,593. Democratic incumbent Victor Yarnell did not run again.

Republican John Coder won easily in Williamsport over incumbent Democrat Richard Carey. The vote was 5,795 to2,412. Carey won his party's nomination with a one-vote primary victory that was challenged, and decided finally in the State Supreme Court.

The New Castle race saw Democrat Francis Rogan, a Democrat, unseat Republican incumbent Carl Cialella. The tally was 7,124 to 6,221.

In Altoona, incumbent Andronic Pappas, a former Republican turned independent was soundly defeated in a three-way race. Republican William Stouffer was an easy winner over Democrat Eugene Duncan, 8,732 to 6,200. Pappas received 3,207 votes.

The story was different in Chester, where incumbent Republican John Narcelli won a landslide re-election triumph. He defeated Frank Brooks, a black Democrat, 11,074 to 3,975.

A State Crime Commission hearing, where witnesses said Chester police took kickbacks from bail bondsmen, apparently had no effect on the winner.

In other mayoral elections:

Lebanon—Walter Swanger, a Republican who captured his party's nomination in a primary fight, defeated Democrat E. Robert Worrall, 3,442 to 3,-204.

Easton—Voters re-elected incumbent Fred Ashton, who defeated Democratic challenger Jay Snyder, 4,171 to 3,158.

Carbondale — Incumbent Republican A.J. Kaufman defeated Democrat John Hart, 3,150 to 2,472.

Uniontown — GOP incumbent Eugene Fike topped Democrat Albert Kennedy, 2,6 3 to 2,088.

Oil City — Republican Wayne Blyler defeated Democrat George Sloan, 2,136 to 1,440.

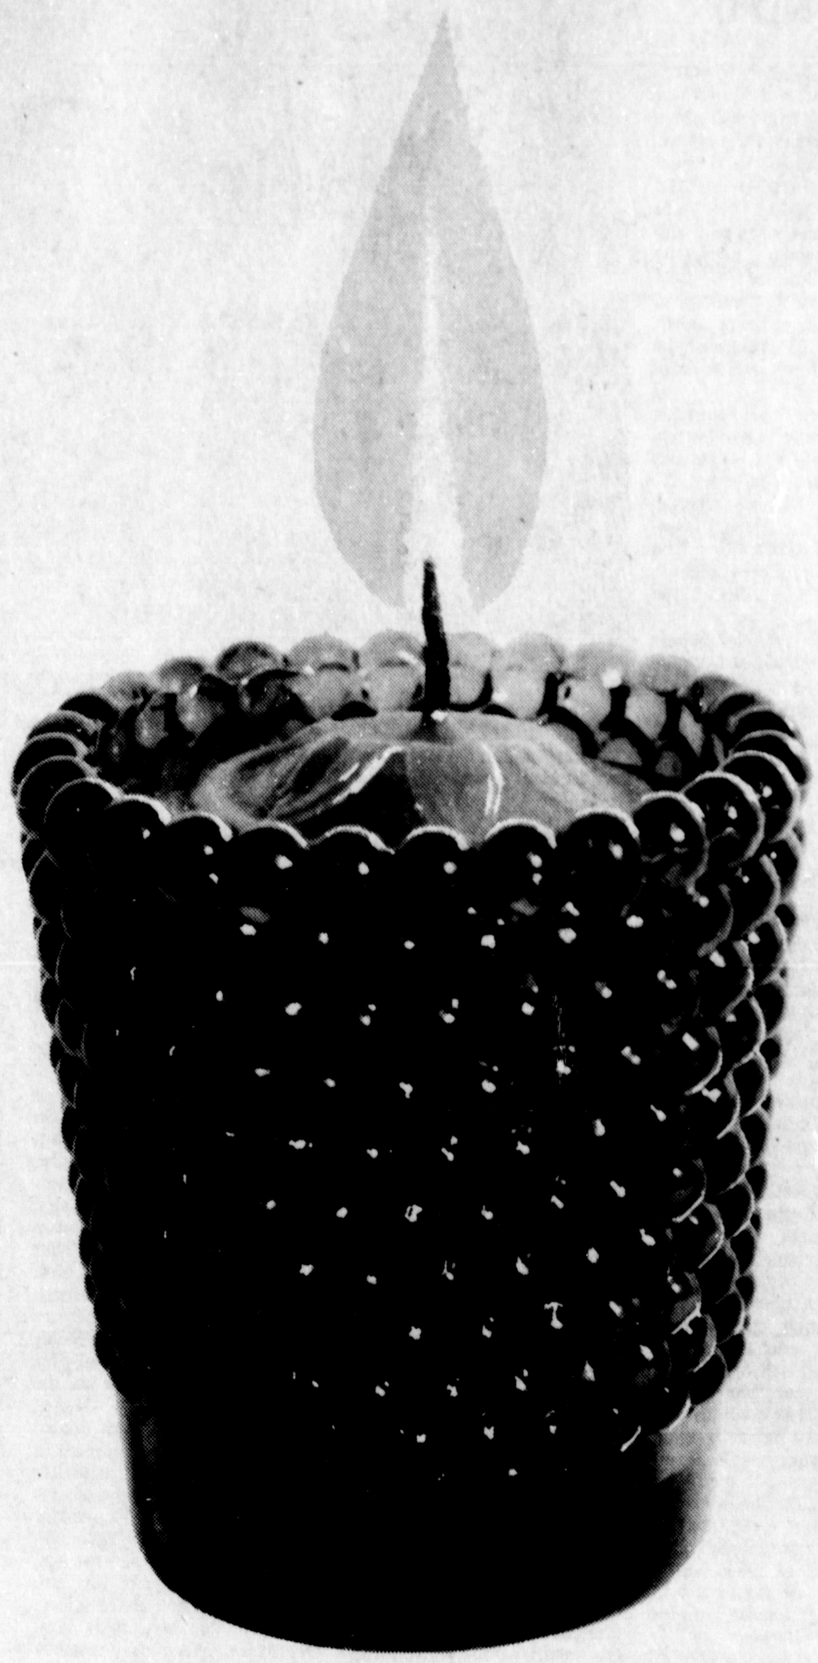

Washington — George Stewart, Republican, defeated Democrat Norton Wright, 3546 to 2,405.

Action Film Opens At Library Theatre

"North Country", an outdoor, color, action-adventure motion picture about the exploits of modern-day Alaskan trapper, Jeff Graham, opens Sunday, Nov. 7 at the Library Theatre.

This film follows woodsman Graham through one year of his life as he camps in the frozen wilds of the far north country trapping beaver, fox, and muskrat. In this true-to-life feature, Graham pans gold and serves as a backcountry guide over some of Alaska's roughest terrain to earn just enough to pay for what little he needs from civilization. Otherwise, he lives off the land, hunting only out of necessity.

None of the characters in "North Country" are actors. These are all real Alaskans portraying their real lives.

Ron Hayes filmed, directed, and appears in "North Country". He has captured on film this land's magnificent scenery, rare wildlife, and unique people.

"North Country,,' G-rated, is released by American National Enterprises, the company that made "Cougar Country".

Sign Of The Times

A modern truck stop under construction near Lamar, Pennsylvania by Boron Oil Company, a subsidiary of The Standard Oil Company (Ohio), will include shower facilities for women drivers of the big rigs.

John L. Bates, manager of Sohio-Boron truck stop operations, said more and more women are joining the ranks of the "knights of the road" and companies are recognizing this trend.

The new truck facility, costing an estimated $1.5 million and capable of accommodating up to 150 tractor trailers, will be situated on a 15-acre site at the Pennsylvania Route 64 intersection of Interstate 80.

The shower facilities for women drivers will be part of the 12-room motel accommodations for truckers at the new facility, called Stop 64.

'Fiddler On The Roof' Now On JCC Campus

Jamestown Community College's theatre department opened its 1971-72 season on Wednesday with an eight-performance run of the musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

The show will be presented at 8:30 p.m. in the College Theatre nightly through Saturday this week and Wednesday through Saturday, Nov. 10-13.

Renowned for its memorable music and poignant story, "Fiddler" this year surpassed such favorites as "Hello Dolly" and "South Pacific" as the longest running Broadway musical in American theatre history.

The JCC production, directed by Prof. Robert Lee Scharmann, features a student cast of 34. Accompaniment for the 14 singing and dancing numbers in the show will be provided by a 17-piece orchestra, directed by the college's new music instructor, Joseph Costick.

All performances will be open to the general public, and tickets will be available at the door.

College Gallery Named After Warren Woman

The Clarion State College Board of Trustees has announced that the art gallery in their new Murwick-Boyd Fine Arts Building will be named after Helen Sanford, a former Warren resident.

Miss Sanford, who lived at the Keystone Nursing Home until recently, is now a resident of the Lutheran Home in Kane. Until 1955 she was a member of the Clarion State Teachers' College art faculty; at one time heading that department.

She is a graduate of Cornell University with a degree in landscape architecture but spent her whole career in the field of art education. After teaching high school level art for several years she went to Clarion in 1927 where she remained until her retirement.

Dr. James Gemmell, president of the college, revealed that the trustees agreed to name the recently completed art gallery after Miss Sanford at their Oct. 14 meeting. He described her as "an untiring worker" during her years at Clarion.

Miss Sanford is still in good health and, according to Mrs. Eugene Cease, a close friend, operates a small studio at the Kane home. Although advanced in years, Miss Sanford continues to experiment in new artistic media.

SCENES FROM 'NORTH COUNTRY'

Glacial exploring, traveling by dog sled, spotting a grizzly and trekking alone in the wilderness -- these are scenes from "North Country," which opens Sunday, Nov. 7, at the Library Theatre.

Barnes Area News Notes

By LETITIA B. HOVER

The topic chosen by Rev. George Campbell, for his sermon in Barnes United Methodist Church Sunday morning was "Time's Awasting". The special music for the morning's worship service was a duet sung by the Misses Heidi Spicer and Wendy Blymiller. It was announced that the picture committee will meet Wednesday in the Sheffield Church at 1 p.m. Miss Kirsted Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Swanson, will attend the Youth Retreat to be held in Bradford, Friday.

The Adult Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday School will meet at the home of Mrs. Bertha Miller Thursday afternoon for its monthly business and social session.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hover visited at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Hover in Townville, Sunday and Monday. They attended the morning worship service in United Methodist Church on Sunday, when on account of the illness of the regular minister, Bert as layman, had charge of the services.

Mrs. Henry Anderson, nee Florence Keller, of Annville, Pa., was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hover Tuesday evening. In route to Fredonia, N. Y., she enjoyed a side trip down the new road to Henry's Mills. She also brought the news that her step-mother, Mrs. Dora Keller, formerly of Sheffield, is now a guest at the Barley Nursing Home in North Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Blain Mead of Warren were in town a short time, Monday morning, bringing the voters' supplies for Tuesday's election.

Mrs. Helen Fularz and son, Teddy, of New Bethlehem were guests at the home of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Verbosky, over the week end.

We were very happy to see so many of the names of our Barnes boys and girls on the Sheffield Township Honor Rolls. The Senior High School Class play will be presented in the high school auditorium Thursday evening, November 4 at 7:30 p.m. Titled, "Lavender And Old Lace". Barnes seniors to be members of the cast are, Kevin Weigel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Weigel; Heidi Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Spicer; James Rudolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rudolph and Skip Weiser, son of Mrs. Burdette Weiser.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bruce of Bradford and Mr. and Mrs. David Perry of Chardon, Ohio. have called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Conquer, during the past week.

Mrs. Dorothy Jenkins was admitted to the Warren General Hospital Friday.

Ronald Allen and sons, Mark and Kevin of Erie, were guests at the home of his mother, Mrs. Grace Allen over the week end. Mrs. Allen is spending several days of this week in Kane, where she is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robinson.

John Beck, son of Mrs. Lucille Beck, is now enrolled as a student at Pennsylvania State College. John had lived with his mother for several months, while finishing his senior year at Marienville High School. He was fortunate in having been awarded a scholarship from Vo-Tech and after working all summer entered State College as a freshman. He visited his mother here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hover were in Corry Wednesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Harold Armitage. Mr. Armitage had the misfortune to fracture the femur bone in his left leg a couple of months ago and Mrs. Armitage was in a car accident about two weeks ago, receiving multiple bruises and abrasions, which caused her to be hospitalized. Her car was demolished.

Hunters In Corry Area Provoke Land Postings

CORRY – The opening of small game season may be long awaited by the hunters, but many people would rather forget it as careless sportsmen cut fences, trample crops and shoot at anything that moves in an attempt to bag their limit.

Incidents of careless hunting are growing in the Corry area and steps are being taken to curb the problem.

Mike Kuzma, of RD 1, Columbus (Baker Hill rd), and several of his neighbors are posting their property as the result of recent incidents there.

Kuzma said Monday that a new barbed wire fence he put on his farm in May had been cut by someone who did not want to bother to crawl under it. He said he discovered the cut Sunday, the day after small game season opened. He has also had trouble with hunters driving their cars across his fields.

At the next farm down the road, John Burik has also had his share of hunting problems. Although Burik's land is posted, someone killed a doe deer on the property.

Last Saturday, when Burik told two hunters to leave his property, the hunters demanded to know what Burik intended to do about them hunting there. Because of his ill health, Burik could do little more than file a complaint with the game warden, but is working with Kuzma to urge their neighbors to post their lands.

In all, Kuzma said, about one and a half miles of Baker Hill rd. will be posted, cutting off about 1,500 acres of prime hunting land from the hunters. Kuzma is also offering a $50 reward for information leading to the apprehension of the individual who cut his fence.

HARDLY AN INCOME

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Research by the South African Institute of Race Relations says $90.20 is the minimum monthly income for a non-white family of five in the Johannesburg area.

This poverty line does not make allowances "for the purchase of furniture and household goods, doctors' and chemists' bills, education of children, or the purchase of books or stationery," the report said, but even at this level blacks are expected to pay tax.

A STARTING POINT

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The name of Du Plessis Avenue in suburban East Lynne has been officially changed to Ooievaar (stork) street. Many newly married couples live and start their families along the street.

Sierra Leone Topic Of WSCS Program

Missionary work in Sierra Leone, Africa, was described Tuesday night when Mr. and Mrs. John Mallery of Warren presented a slide and narration program at the November WSCS meeting held at First United Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallery returned this past summer from Africa where they had spent three and two years respectively as missionary teachers.

The Mallerys, garbed in native costumes, described the geography, climate, language, living conditions and customs of Sierra Leone and their work as teachers.

Circle One was in charge of the program and greetings were extended by WSCS president, Mrs. Elliott Lanning, to the Mallerys and members of the Presbyterian Women's Association. In introducing the Mallerys, she read an excerpt from an article in Response, the WSCS monthly magazine, concerning the Mallerys and their work in Sierra Leone.

Devotions, conducted by Mrs. Lenore McIntyre, included the hymn, "O Lord of Heaven and Earth and Seas," Psalm 100 and a Thanksgiving meditation based on the parable of the ten lepers as recorded in Luke 17. A "thank offering" was received, with each person placing in the collection plate a slip of paper on which was written an expression of thanks for some special blessing. The devotions were concluded with a Thanksgiving prayer.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and candies were served by Circle Three. The buffet table featured a cornucopia centerpiece and other appointments in keeping with the autumn theme.

Arson Charged In Oil City

OIL CITY— A North Side man was arrested early Tuesday for setting a fire at a local bar.

The blaze occurred at Sharkey's Tavern, 587 Seneca st., causing only minor damage.

Charged with arson was Harold D. McQuiston, 36, of 24 Spruce st. He was arraigned before District Justice Charles Thurau and was committed to Venango County Jail in default of $5,000 bond.

McQuiston was arrested at his home on a warrant issued by Thurau, about two hours after the fire broke out.

Firemen were called to the tavern at 4:13 a.m., when a fire alarm box on Union st. sounded. They said the blaze was confined to the corner of a basement door at the rear of the building.

Police said a cardboard box was found at the scene and that it was torn and parts of it used to start the flames.

According to police, McQuiston was seen at 4:10 a.m. by officers on routine patrol near McFetridge Second Hand Store at 575 N. Seneca st., just below the tavern.

The warrant for his arrest was served at 6:05 a.m.

Election Officials Start Tabulating All Returns

Election officials Tuesday started the task of tabulating the official vote count for all offices on the ballot for the Nov. 2 municipal election.

Until this is completed, only unofficial figures are available for those offices and candidates listed on the big tally board in the Warren County Court House calendar. Once the polls closed at 8 p.m. Tuesday, totals from the various precincts were telephoned to the court house to be recorded. Appearing on the board were candidates for the Supreme Court bench, county commissioners, county treasurer, register and recorder, sheriff, two school board districts and borough assessor.

Election officials from the 43 precincts in the county then bring their complete reports to the court house election night and the official count begins at 9 a.m. the following morning.

Official totals for all candidates, such as county auditors, jury commissioners and supervisors will be published at the earliest possible date.

Open House To Observe 50th Anniversary

In observance of the Tidioute Library Association's fiftieth anniversary, the Tidioute Fortnightly Club will hold an open house reception at the library on Sunday, Nov. 21 from 3 to 5 p.m. Through the years, the club has been a staunch supporter of the library, conducting membership drives and volunteering many hours of labor when the new system of cataloguing was initiated.

Mrs. Mary Robinson and her community affairs committee will be in charge of arrangements for the event.

Tidioute Garden Club will provide floral arrangements with Mrs. James King and Mrs. Guy Courson in charge. The Garden Club also has been a library benefactor, its special project being beautification of the grounds. Last year the club planted new shrubbery which it also maintains.

Mrs. Karl Nieman entertained Fortnightly Club at her home Monday night. Mrs. Ruth Campisano was welcomed as a new member.

The program, presented by the American Home committee, featured floral arrangements and decorations for Christmas and other occasions, demonstrated by Girton's Flowers and Gifts of Warren.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fred Lang and Mrs. Carl Rosequist.

The next meeting of the club will be Nov. 15 at the home of Mrs. John Christy when reviews of E. B. White's books will be presented by Chase Putnam of Warren.

Tidioute Lions See Movie On Ecology

Tidioute Lions enjoyed a Swiss steak dinner at the school cafeteria for their Tuesday evening meeting. There was a good turnout of twenty members, including three recent new ones, Charles Craft Sr., Alfred Mannella and Al Emery, and a guest, John Benner.

After dinner, the men retired to the library suite to view a Ford Motor Company movie on "Ecology," showing the efforts of the automobile industry to improve auto combustion and emissions.

The board meeting was postponed due to absence of some officers and the next meeting will be in the cafeteria on Nov. 16, a zone meeting with representatives of all Lions clubs in the district.

Good Halloween

Halloween was observed in Tidioute Saturday night with little more commotion than the usual trick-or-treating and pranks that were good-naturedly mischievous rather than destructive.

About three hundred youngsters marched in the traditional parade and received treats and prizes from the VFW. Tidioute firemen assisted with the parade.

Pittsfield PTA Bazaar Friday

The Pittsfield elementary school PTA will hold its annual bazaar on Friday, November 5, from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m., at the school. Useful and novel handmade items, including jewelry, will be available, as well as tiny-priced things for students to buy. There will also be canned goods and baked goods—a traditional highlight of the affair. The PTA cookbooks will be available at the special price of $1.25, for the one day only.

Mrs. Martin Sedlak and Mrs. Walter Ward are chairmen of the organizing committee. All proceeds will go to the PTA, for school needs.

BIG MEDICINE EXPORT

Holiday Lighting Plan Being Put Into Effect

Mrs. George Tipton, chairman of the Holiday Lighting Committee, called Tidioute area residents together last week to plan the annual community holiday lighting, decorations and displays. It was decided to festoon the light strings with greens again this year, a practice that was abandoned last year with the result that many comments of disappointment were heard.

The greens will be gathered by John Christy, Joe Thomas, George Morrison and Steve Yeager and anyone desiring to help tie should meet at Schwab's garage on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. The light strings and displays will be placed Sunday, Nov. 21 and the lights turned on Thanksgiving night for the duration of the holiday season on New Year's night. Tidioute firemen will be in charge of hanging the lights and committee members will put in place other decorations and displays.

A solicitation campaign will be conducted this year in hopes that a fund may be built up to purchase new equipment and displays next year. Cards will be sent out to all area residents and the door-to-door canvass will be conducted Nov. 15.

This is a community project in which everyone may have a part. You can help with the work involved and you can make a financial contribution to the committee.

Controversial School Prayer Amendment Up For House Vote

By ELDER WITT
Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—The Baptists call it a boobytrap and the Masons say it's a boomerang, but Ohio Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie says that 80 per cent of the American people want it.

The explosive proposal fitting these descriptions is expected to arrive on the floor of the House of Representatives Nov. 8. It is a constitutional amendment designed to override Supreme Court decisions which outlawed officially required or supported prayer in the public schools.

Introduced by Wylie, the amendment states that the Constitution allows persons lawfully assembled in a public building to participate in nondenominational prayer.

Freedom Restored?

Wylie and his allies say the amendment would restore freedom of religious expression as guaranteed by the First Amendment—until the Supreme Court distorted it.

Opponents, who include most major churches and religious organizations, say that it tampers unnecessarily—and for the first time—with the Bill of Rights, and that it would whittle down the existing protection of religion and breach the wall dividing church and state.

Competition for votes on the measure is fierce. Wylie and his chief ally, Ohio housewife Mrs. Ben Ruhlin, head of the Prayer Campaign Committee, are working to line up the votes of two-thirds of the members present Nov. 8. Opponents of the amendment need the votes of one-third of the members present plus one to defeat it.

First Amendment

The wall separating church and state in America is built on the First Amendment. "Congress," that amendment states, "shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." This, the Supreme Court has held, is also binding on the states.

In 1962 the Court held that New York school officials violated this amendment when they required a certain prayer be used daily in public school classrooms—even if the prayer was a nondenominational one and participation was voluntary.

A year later the Court ruled that Maryland and Pennsylvania school officials violated the First Amendment when they required schools to begin the day with Bible reading or recitation of the Lord's Prayer. The Court said the First Amendment commands the government to be strictly neutral, neither aiding nor opposing religion.

Wylie takes issue with this opinion. He says the First Amendment means that the government should not prefer one sect over another—not, however, that it should not prefer religion over atheism or agnosticism. "This is where the Supreme Court got off the track," he has said.

A Prayer Amendment?

Mail advocating a constitutional amendment overriding the Supreme Court poured into congressional offices in 1963 and 1964. Reluctantly, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler of New York called hearings on the proposed amendments in 1964. After six weeks of hearings, the committee took no further action on the matter.

In 1966 the Senate voted on a school prayer amendment proposed by Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen; the resolution fell nine votes short of the two-thirds needed for approval.

Hundreds of similar amendments were introduced each year, but Dirksen's death in 1969 and Celler's adamant opposition appeared to block further action.

New Momentum

But in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, Mrs. Ruhlin was mobilizing a grassroots movement supporting a prayer amendment. Throughout the spring and summer of 1971 her group and allied committees—the Back to God movement, Project Prayer, Citizens for Public Prayer — buttonholed Representatives to urge them to sign a petition discharging the Judiciary Committee from consideration of the Wylie amendment.

In late September the final signatures needed were placed on the petition, bringing the total number to 218. The school prayer amendment had been pried out of Celler's grasp.

Belated Opposition

It was mid-summer before opponents of a school prayer amendment realized that a vote was likely in 1971. The first effort by Celler, the National Council of Churches and the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs was to persuade members not to sign the discharge petition. They were too late.

After the petition was completed, the uphill battle began in earnest, led in the House by Celler, James C. Corman, a California Democrat, and Fred Schwengel, an Iowa Republican. Through colleague-to-colleague persuasion and pressure from constituents mobilized by the churches opposing the amendment, they hoped to convince Representatives to take a second look at the amendment and its implications—and to convince them that a vote against school prayer was not political suicide.

"Almost everybody on careful reflection opposes the amendment, but it's a wonderful demagogy issue. 'Godless' is one of the worst labels anyone can pin on an opponent," Corman said.

An increasing number of Representatives appeared to be taking a second look and deciding to take that risk. Sixty-seven formed a Congressional Committee to Preserve Religious Freedom—including some signers of the discharge petition and the only Catholic priest who is also a Representative, Robert F. Drinan of Massachusetts.

Text Of Amendment

Here is the text of the proposed school prayer amendment:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each House concurring therein), That the following article is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the Constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States:

"Nothing contained in this Constitution shall abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled, in any public building which is supported in whole or in part through the expenditure of public funds, to participate in non-denominational prayer.

"This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission to the States by the Congress."

UNICEF CHAMPS

Rodney Ishman, 11, and Quinton Ishman, 8, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ishman, Telik Run Road, near Youngsville, far outshone any other students of Irvine elementary school in their "trick-or-treat-for-UNICEF" efforts last week. They brought in more than $12, according to Mrs. Steve Urbanik, who organized the drive, sponsored by the Irvine PTA. Rodney has also been an outstanding salesman of candy and oven mitts, in behalf, of the Sixth Grade summer trip. The UNICEF collection, conducted in the rural neighborhoods where the Irvine students live, realized more than $100.

JCC Sponsors Blood Bank Day

Jamestown Community College students will sponsor an American Red Cross Blood Bank from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday (Nov. 8) in the college gymnasium.

Student Chairman Robert Rappole said students and faculty or other residents of the community may register in advance at a table set up each day at noon this week in the central Collegiate Center lobby. Walk-in donors will also be accepted on the day of the Blood Bank.

The student chairman noted that JCC was recently awarded a certificate of appreciation from the American Red Cross for the 278 pints of blood donated at the college last year. The college placed third in Chautauqua County for the highest number of pints collected during an institutional Blood Bank visit.

He also noted that the continued success of the Blood Bank in our area assures all residents that they will be eligible for free blood anywhere in the United States should they ever need it because of accident or illness.

FASTER CAR WASHES MEAN BIGGER PROFITS

BERNARDI WASHES UP TO 125 AN HOUR

Bernardi has a car wash designed to meet the investors physical requirements as well as his pocketbook. Two of these are the:

TURBO TUNNEL. It's the newest, and a fully automatic high volume car wash—washing up to 125 cars an hour automatically, of compact design, low cost installation, it is dependable and with stainless steel hardware throughout is easily maintained.

TURBO BRUSH has been a long time favorite and work horse of the car wash industry. It has the enviable reputation of being the finest engineered car wash equipment on the market. Turbo-Brush automatically soaps, scrubs, rinses and waxes a car every 1½ minutes. It's pre-wired, pre-plumbed and factory assembled. It earned its reputation because dependability performance and low maintenance are built into every unit.

Let a Bernardi representative advise you which unit is best for your location and suggest financing methods.

Portrait Greeting Cards Carry Holiday Greetings

Creating highly personalized greetings cards carrying the message of love from the whole family is something your professional portrait photographer can work out for you, in the manner pictured above and as described in the accompanyling article. These are cards that will be saved for years by relatives and intimate friends.

Christmas is a time for love — a time for friends — a time for giving. This year send a little holiday love by using a professionally made portrait in the exciting new portrait greeting card.

Unlike ordinary greeting cards, a portrait card will last as a memory over the years rather than be thrown out with the last pieces of discarded wrapping paper and tinsel from the tree.

Small prints of your family portrait photograph — and the portrait greeting card folders now on the market — are all you need to create this unique Christmas greeting.

Make Appointment

If you don't have an up-to-date family portrait, here's a good reason to make that oft-postponed appointment with your professional photographer.

Or, if your photographer already has your family portrait negative on file, prints can easily be made for these special greeting cards.

Portrait greeting will be enjoyed by friends and loved ones alike — especially by those special people who don't get to see the family very often. Since Christmas greetings are a way of keeping in touch with old college roommates and family who live far away, a colorful portrait greeting can say more and mean more than the usual greeting card.

While small prints of your family portrait can be used for holiday greetings, the original portrait can also serve as a thoughtful present for grandparents and other loved ones.

Pros Solve Problem

Large prints of the family portrait, framed and ready to be hung, make extra special gifts. And, a print as a remembrance for your own home will always be cherished.

If the thought of getting the family to the local professional photographer's studio is holding you back, relax! Professionals are used to handling even the most rambunctious kids and know all the tips that will make your family "picture perfect."

The photographer can tell you what types of clothes will photograph best and which colors will be most attractive. And, he can add other little secret hints designed to put you at your ease and make your holiday portrait come out just right.

To add an exciting difference to your family's portrait, you might want to have the picture taken outside the studio. If the family is fond of ice skating or skiing, perhaps a portrait outdoors with everyone dressed up for the winter sports might be appropriate.

Or, consider a picture in your home with the family grouped about the fireplace. Whatever type of portrait your family wants, do make an appointment with your professional photographer soon so that prints will be ready in plenty of time for Christmas mailing!

Once the portrait is in hand, you can pick one of a specially prepared selection of greeting card folders available in a variety of styles and in both horizontal and vertical formats at your local photographer's studio.

To People You Love

These new greeting card folders were designed specifically to complement your family portrait and heighten its effectiveness.

Greeting cards as well as gifts go to the people you love. Both must therefore be picked with attention to the enjoyment they will give.

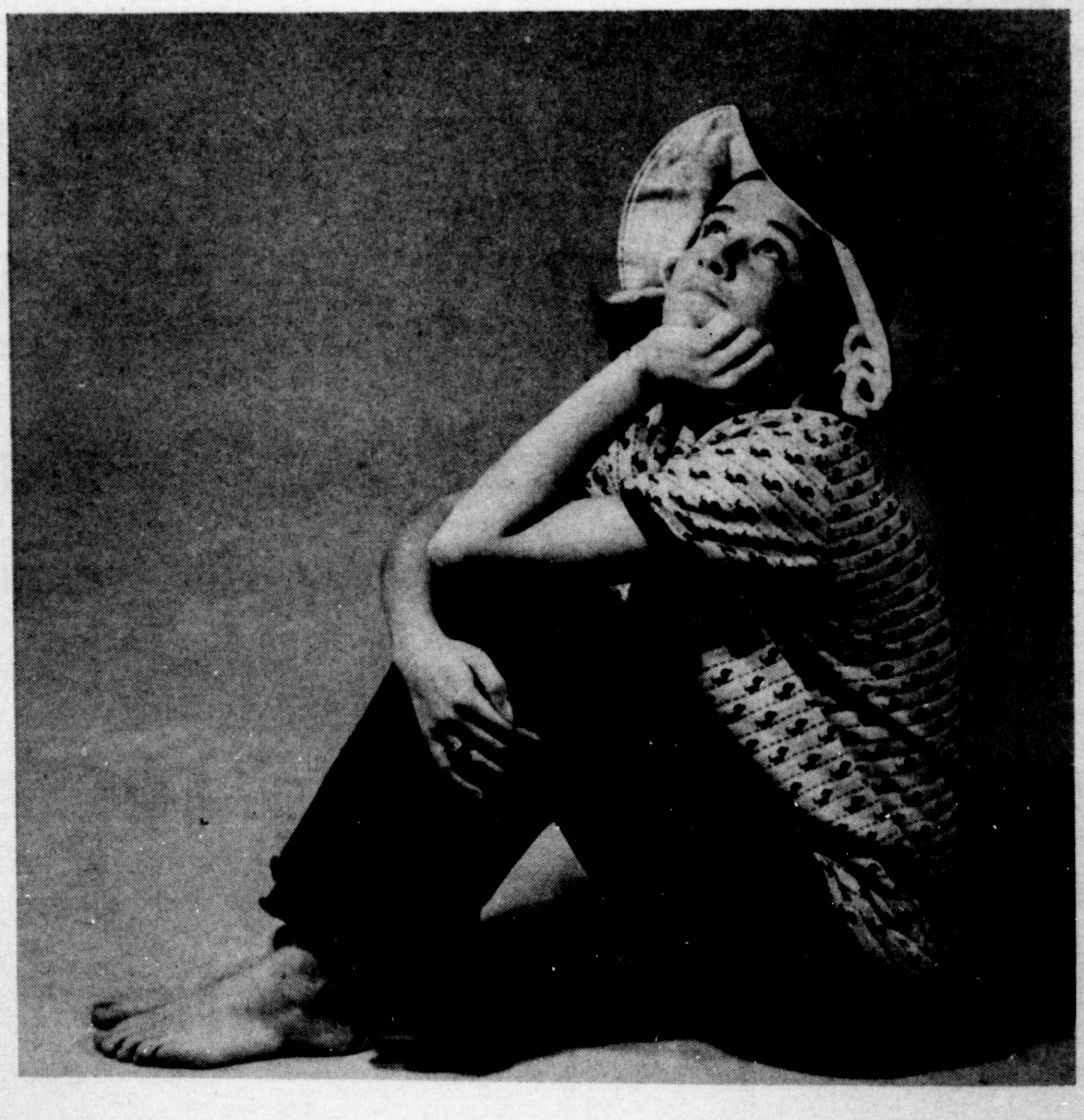

This year, try sending along your holiday wishes and love in the form of portrait greeting cards to the special people on your list.

Fashions Offer A Wide Choice Of Gifts

Fashion has elevated leather to a leadership position this year among materials preferred by designers of wearing apparel and accessories for men as well as women.

Popular acceptance of the trend bathes things made of leathers in the colorful rays of a Christmas Gift Giving Spotlight.

When Mrs. Christine Wallach, fashion coordinator for the Leather Industries of America, was asked to supply a list of things made of leather for Christmas gifting, she said, "Santa's pack is poppin' with great gifts made of American leathers in at least half a dozen different areas.

LEATHER APPAREL

"There's a super-star in Santa's galaxy of gifts, and it's lush leather apparel. Leather coats, jackets and separates for both women and men are more popular than ever, and come elegant or casual in appearance.

"Many ladies on your list may need a new coat or jacket — at knee-length, maxi, pantscoat length. You'll find supple suede and grained leather styles in these lengths.

Most are shaped, some belted and some unbelted; single and double-breasted. Details include hardware, fur trim, stitching, novelty buttons and zip-out linings.

MEN LIKE LEATHER

"Most men like their leather best in sportswear. So if he's high on your list, give him a leather jacket, sportcoat or set of separates in suede, grained, antiqued or split cowhide leather.

"Among leather jackets rating the biggest fanfare have been norfolks and safaris with their neat pocket treatment, self-leather belts and stitching. Traditional sports jackets also make a hit in lambskin suede or grained leather.

"For a different look, there are muscular shearling-lined aviator's jackets and greatcoats in suede, grained and antiqued leathers.

LEATHER SWINGS

"A leather handbag for Christmas holds the key to a happy holiday, says Leather Industries of America. Big bag or small, satchel or envelope, black, brown or a burst of color — you can give it to her in leather that will hold up under heaviest wear.

"Textures include grained, smooth, waxy, suede, brushed, embossed and patent leathers. Be sure you're giving her real leather; look for the black-and-gold 'Genuine American Leather' tag.

"The leather shoulder-strap bag is a swinger which fits handily into most women's lives. Among fashion details to note are adjustable straps, deep vertical shapes, leather combinations, stitching.

LEATHER SLIPPERS

"A Christmas gift everyone finds easy to take is leather slippers, year-round tranquilizers for the feet. In soft American leathers and many styles, slippers are ready to provide the family with good-looking footgear for relaxation.

"Women's slippers can double with loungewear as well as sleepwear. To team with at-home costumes, there are stunning leather mules, sandals or wedgies.

How suede it is, this Christmas gift of a charming snap-front coat, comments Leather Industries of America. Crafted in soft orange suede leather, the coat features smart contrast stitching at waist and on flap pockets. Coat by Golet.

Brilliant Store Displays Unveiled, Reveal Most Versatile Gifting Choices

With a jingle of bells and a jolly "Ho-ho," Santa Claus has arrived early this year to open the Christmas shopping season.

He's beaming broadly because stores are ready for his arrival — windows bedecked and counters agleam with the brightest selection of holiday gifts assembled in many a year.

But he also brings a fatherly warning, gleaned from his years of experience as the best-known gift-giver of all: "Take a look at the calendar. Wrap up your shopping early."

There are only 25 shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas and Santa's early arrival has one important purpose.

He's here to remind Christmas shoppers that careful planning and early action will make their holiday errands more fun and gift-giving more successful.

The very abundance of gift selections demands considered choice. Early shoppers also avoid the chance of disappointment that comes with depleted stock or late deliveries.

Santa recommends browsing first — inspecting the dazzling array of gifts before making out your list. Big gifts, especially, need some thoughtful consideration. Jewelry and furs, for instance, should be chosen with loving care. Major appliances, TV sets, furniture, and automobiles involve delivery problems.

Stores are prepared to make special efforts for Christmas deliveries, but you can help Santa — and yourself — by getting your orders in early.

Tomorrow is none too soon to begin. Shoppers can get a good head start by looking over the ideas suggested in this special gift section. In addition to the pictures and stores, ads from leading local stores present the highlights of their holiday gift collections.

Toy Tour

Touring Toyland with the kids is a happy, traditional way to kick off the gift shopping season. It seems to put the whole family in the mood for Christmas planning, and the children, of course, get lots of ideas for holiday hints to Santa.

Many new toys are geared to help youngsters express themselves creatively, whether they lean toward arts and crafts, homemaking or building skills. Dolls are more varied and active than ever — the newest fashion mannequins have life-like suntans and can dance!

Another good family shopping project is the careful selection of major gifts for the home. These should be chosen early. Often they are inspected by the family in full force. Included in this category are furniture, appliances for the laundry and kitchen, and various types of electronic entertainment equipment.

Some gifts, of course, involve private errands — the secret surprises from person to person. An early shopping start helps provide time for slipping away to choose those special gifts. And there are so many special precious items to choose from!

Fresh Fashions

Holiday fashions for men and women are now at their freshest and best. Don't forget the youngsters, either — growing children always need clothes.

Accessories, accents, aids to good grooming are always appreciated. Some are so attractively packaged, they'll decorate the bureau or dressing room all year long.

And what about fine jewelry, sports and hobby equipment, tools, bicycles and books? Gifts for personal pleasure were never so varied nor so attractive. The early shopper is sure to find something uniquely suitable for every name on his list.

Let's Wrap Up Christmas Early--Here's How

It's time now to plan ahead, make lists and set up shopping schedules. The ideal way to enjoy the season is to have all shopping done, with gifts wrapped and mailed, two weeks before Christmas. It's possible — with organization.

Resolve this year to shop early. Don't wait until the last minute. Better selections, thinner crowds, money-saving specials, and salespeople with time to advise you can make your visits to local stores a pleasure instead of a chore.

Here are some other pointers to help you:

1. START WITH A LIST. First, write down the names of all the people for whom gifts must be bought. Then make a further list of those to whom you plan to send gift certificates.

One way to save time and footwork is to break down your lists into categories — children's clothing, toys, menswear, jewelry, books and so forth. This way you can accomplish more on each shopping excursion.

2. PLAN AHEAD. Shopping trips should be scheduled for quiet times of day — early in the morning, during the supper hour — and organized with an eye toward saving time and energy.

3. KEEP EYES AND EARS OPEN. You may want to alter your lists. Try to find out what family and friends would really like as gifts. Hints aren't hard to come by, but if you're uncertain, ask. Shopping early gives you leeway for a bit of detective work.

4. SEEK INSPIRATION. Gift ideas will come from suggestions offered in this Christmas gift section. Check the pages carefully and st ads from local stores.

5. BE PRACTICAL. Whe er the gift is simple or l ish, it should have a purp and meet the recipien needs.

6. PLAN GIFT BUDGE It's important to spend wi ly and get the most for yo money. Credit cards, char accounts and installme paying plans all help budget the cost of givi

Electric Magic Furnishes Aids She'll Welcome

Mirror, mirror on the wall, what's the perfect gift for the fairest Mom of all? Beauty aid gifts, of course!

And, if there's a special lady on your list who enjoys pampering herself, there's a big selection of ideas for her vanity and boudoir.

Tip-to-toe electric beauty wizards give Mom the comfort and luxury of professional salon care right in the privacy of her own bedroom.

A ten minute set is all it takes to hold even the fanciest hairdos.

Just watch Mom glow when she unwraps her electric facial sauna! Even the busiest homemakers find time in a hectic schedule for a weekly treatment that purifies the skin with a soft mist for a complete facial cleansing.

Lighted mirrors help Mom master the art of making herself up for day, evening or office.

Various lighting effects show exactly how to achieve the right look from dim candle light to fluorescent overhead lights.

For a professional manicure or pedicure, Mom can clip and shape with an electric set complete with different attachments for cuticle and nail care.

Shavers with special shaping are another grooming idea. Many come with settings to adjust for legs and underarms.

Hair dryers come in the miniest tote-abouts to hooded models that fit over large rollers.

The heat is evenly circulated for uniform, fast drying time.

Small blower dryers are ideal for Moms with short, wispy curls since they make styling easy while the hair is drying.

And to top off her beauty plan, every Mom deserves a balanced diet of wigs!

Besides being a gal's best friend in hard-to-hold hair weather, easy-care mod-acrylic wigs give Mom a chance to be a quick-change artist for last-minute social engagements.

Wigs are also fun ways to step out of the ordinary with different hair colors.

Santa's Tasty Reindeer

Call him Rudolph or call him Blitzen, here's a reindeer centerpiece the children can make as quick as a Twink!

All they need are five creme filled vanilla snack cakes for body and legs, a donut for the head, pretzels for antlers, a marshmallow tail and a cherry nose. Bamboo skewers and toothpicks keep the parts together.

The baked goods will be too fresh to work with right from the Hostess package. Heating in the oven will make them firmer.

You'll need:

- 2½ packages (5 cakes) Hostess Creme Filled Twinkies
- 1 large Hostess Donut
- Long bamboo skewers
- Toothpicks
- 1 Maraschino cherry
- 2 curled pretzels
- 1 large marshmallow
- Powdered sugar, optional

Bake Twinkies and donut for 20 minutes in a 250° oven, bottom down on a baking sheet or foil. Twenty minutes more on their sides and Twinkies will be firm enough, but allow another 20 for the donut.

Cut a small diagonal slice from the ends of four Twinkies so they can stand. These will be the legs. Skewer through the complete length, allowing one-inch of the skewer to come out at the top. Lean two Twinkies together for front legs and toothpick to hold. Do the same for the rear legs.

Cut a ¼ inch slice from rim to center of donut. Insert curled pretzels for antlers and hold together with toothpicks. Attach cherry nose with half a toothpick. Attach donut head to the fifth Twinkie (the body) with toothpicks and attach on to the skewered legs. Marshmallow is toothpicked on as the tail. Sprinkle with powdered sugar for a snowy effect. 1 reindeer.

SOMETHING TO GROW ON

Brand new savings account makes a good stocking stuffer for Baby. Special accounts can be opened for very small deposits. On birthdays or other special occasions, the giver can add new deposits. After several years, this becomes a substantial gift.

PARTY TIME

Having a Christmas party for the children? Try baking cookies with little gum drops in them. A sure fire way to start any party.

JEWEL YULE

Any piece of jewelry — rings, bracelets, earrings, charms, pendants — are sure to bring smiles to that special girl on your gifts list.

Baked Holiday Party Desserts Right from Freezer to Oven

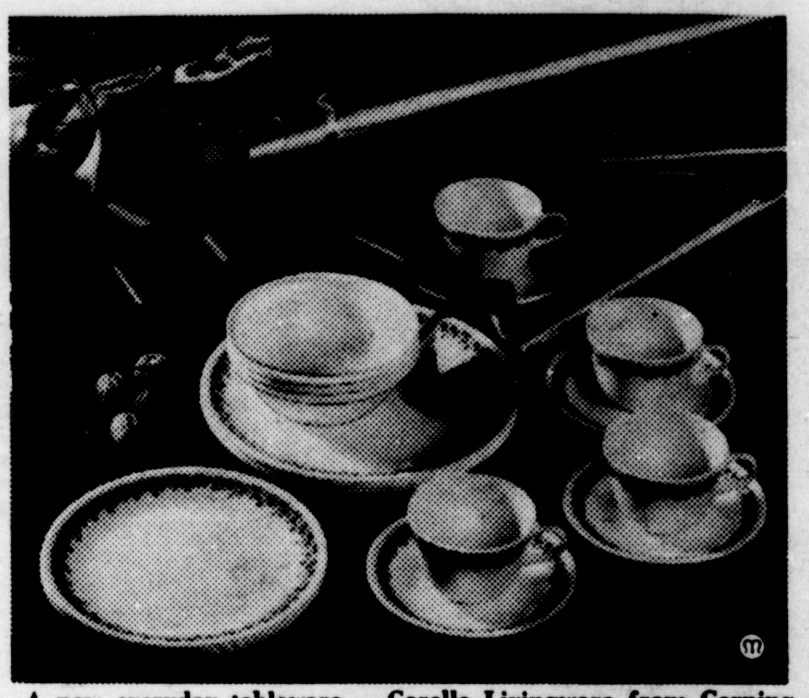

Holiday parties — planned or impromptu — have a way of happening in any home. It may be a teenage record-spinning session, a tree-trimming party or just a holiday get-together. Occasions vary but the need for foods — desserts in particular—never varies.

To satisfy the holiday sweet tooth, home economists at Corning Glass Works have created a make-it-yourself cake sundae. This delicious dessert is baked in individual heat-resistant bowls, which is a handy—and easy—answer to sudden demands for desserts.

The idea for baking the cakes in individual bowls rose from the fact that the new Corelle Livingware tableware can go safely from a freezer directly to a preheated oven — and then to the table without further ado.

Prepare any cake mix according to package directions, pour the batter into greased and floured nine-ounce bowls. Since the bowls are made of glass, bake at 25 degrees lower than the recommended temperature at timing suggested for cupcakes (15 to 20 minutes). Freeze the cakes for future use or, if time is a factor right now but won't be later, prepare the batter, pour into the bowls, freezer wrap and freeze until ready to bake.

A one-layer cake mix makes six cakes; a two-layer cake mix makes 12 cakes in the nine-ounce bowls, which

The topping is equally simple and appropriate — an egg nog sauce. It is made by beating one egg in a small bowl until foamy. Beat into this a third of a cup of melted butter, 1½ cups sifted powdered sugar, one teaspoon of vanilla and a quarter teaspoon of nutmeg. Lightly fold in one cup of heavy whipped cream. Chill. Stir before serving on cooled cakes. This recipe makes about three cups of topping.

At parties people often prefer informal serve-yourself snacks and tableware that is worry-free. Priced for everyday use, Corelle Livingware is made of scientifically strengthened glass that resists breaking, chipping, cracking and staining. It has the look and feel of fine china.

In a 20-piece starter set, Corelle Livingware also makes an ideal Christmas gift, packaged for easy mailing. It is available in four patterns — Spring Blossom Green (shown), Snow Flake Blue, Butterfly Gold and Winter Frost White. The set retails at $19.95.

COOKIES FOR YULE SYMBOLIZE GIFTS OF WISE MEN

Things To Make Or Bake For The Holidays

Christmas cookies, gaily wrapped as gifts, owe their origin to the ancient Roman Empire where it was the custom to give confections to Roman senators as part of the new year celebrations.

During the early years of Christianity, cookies baked at yule time contained a mixture of many spices. It was said that these spices were symbolic of the offerings brought to the Infant Jesus by the Wise Men. As the custom of giving sweets spread around the world, homemakers developed their own special recipes using native spices and ingredients.

Delectable cookies, along with fruit and toys, soon became traditional gifts for children. With the advent of the decorated Christmas tree, baked confections appeared as taste-tantalizing tree ornaments which youngsters munched on.

Today, it is the grownups who delight in receiving gifts of delicious Christmas cookies. A beautiful box, delicate glass jar or decorated basket of home-baked sweets is one of the most warmly appreciated gifts you can give to family or friends.

The thought and effort involved in the giving of something you have made conveys a very personal message of friendship and holiday cheer.

Home economists for Tootsie Roll have developed some tempting new recipe ideas to please the most discriminating cookie lovers. When packed in an unusual container that has been trimmed with bits of ribbon and holly, Crispy Holiday Fruit Bars and Vanilla Sugar Stars become a special gift you'll be proud to give.

CRISPY HOLIDAY FRUIT BARS

½ stick (¼ cup) butter
4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup Tootsie Rolls cut in ½-inch pieces
1 cup mixed candied fruits
8 cups crisp rice cereal
½ cup candied cherries
1 cup candied pineapple pieces

Melt butter and Tootsie Roll pieces in 3-quart sauce pan, stirring constantly. Add marshmallows and continue stirring until melted and syrupy. Stir in crisp rice cereal and the one cup mixed candied fruits. Toss until thoroughly coated. Press mixture into a well-buttered 13 x 11 inch pan. Chill until firm.

Cut into squares. Lift out of pan with spatula. Decorate each square with a poinsettia design using candied cherry for the flower center and candied pineapple pieces as petals. Yield: 24 to 30 bars.

JEWELED ORNAMENTS

Old jewelry such as gold chains, earrings, pins are ideal decorations for make-it-yourself Christmas ornaments. Plastic foam balls, covered with paper or material can be decorated with the jewelry.

VANILLA SUGAR STARS

1 standard recipe for rolled vanilla sugar cookies OR 1 package of refrigerated dough sugar cookies
⅓ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
3 large Tootsie Rolls (1¾-ounce size cut in ½-inch pieces
3 to 3½ cups confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Prepare cookie dough and cut with star cutters. Bake according to your recipe or package directions. Let cool on baking sheet, then remove to wire rack to cool thoroughly.

In a two-quart sauce pan, melt Tootsie Rolls with milk and butter until smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and gradually beat in confectioners' sugar until icing is stiff enough to be forced through a pastry bag and hold its shape.

Use only enough sugar to get a stiff consistency. Using a pastry bag with icing points, decorate cookies with rosettes. Yield: 1½ cups frosting, enough to decorate 4 dozen Vanilla Sugar Stars.

Girls Want Dolls; Boys Want Wheels

Christmas evokes memories of sugar plums, Christmas carols, toys around the tree, little girls and dolls and little boys wheeling cars and trucks about the floor.

But little girls and dolls go farther than Christmas. A favorite doll becomes part of a little girl's world.

New dolls this year are sure to become a little girl's favorite. For the little girl who wants to play mommy, new Living Baby Tender Love has soft skin that looks and feels real, and her moveable arms and legs make her sit and pose like a real baby. She can kick, wave her arms, be bathed and taught to sit by herself just like a real baby.

Doll That Teaches

Timey Tell, a timely new doll, can help her little mistress learn to tell time. When her string is pulled Timey Tell says, "it's four o'clock — let's have a tea party." It's a delightful way to learn telling time, and also helps associate time with good habits and manners. The doll says 12 phrases that match the hours on her moveable watch. There's also a matching watch for her little mistress.

To keep summer around all year long, Malibu Barbie has a sun tan. Members of the Sun Set—including Ken and P. J. — come with sun glasses, beach towels, and lovely year-round tans. To perpetuate summer fun, Barbie has a new completely equipped Camper and a Sun 'N Fun buggy for dune buggy fun.

For boys who love the excitement of Hot Wheels racing, Mattel has added excitement with a new multiple-lane track called Fat Track.

Several years ago Mattel introduced Sizzler power, a self contained power source that made miniature racing cars go faster and faster. Now the new Fat Track will contain that power with more excitement than ever before. Cars can take the high banked curves, pass each other and jockey for position on the new track that allows a scramble start with a four-car starting grid that turns the motors on and moves the cars out together.

They Run on Tracks

Motorcycles are fast becoming more and more popular with the American public and this year's Christmas could bring small, exact-scale, minutely detailed mini-motorcycles, called RRRumblers, to the playroom. These small cycles run on Hot Wheels track and provide all the fun and excitement of a real motorcycle race.

Sizzler power moves another exciting new product, the Hot Line Rail system. This unique power-charged electric train has a futuristic design and provides engineering fun without the use of complicated transformers. Plus there's no need for a permanent layout.

Youngsters Are Attracted To 'Make Up' Model

A Beauty Parlor by Horsman features a finely sculptured mannequin of a teenage girl, with long rooted hair and removable eyelashes, and includes a variety of non-toxic cosmetics and hairdressing accessories with which youngsters can learn and experiment with the art of good grooming and tasteful, attractive makeup.

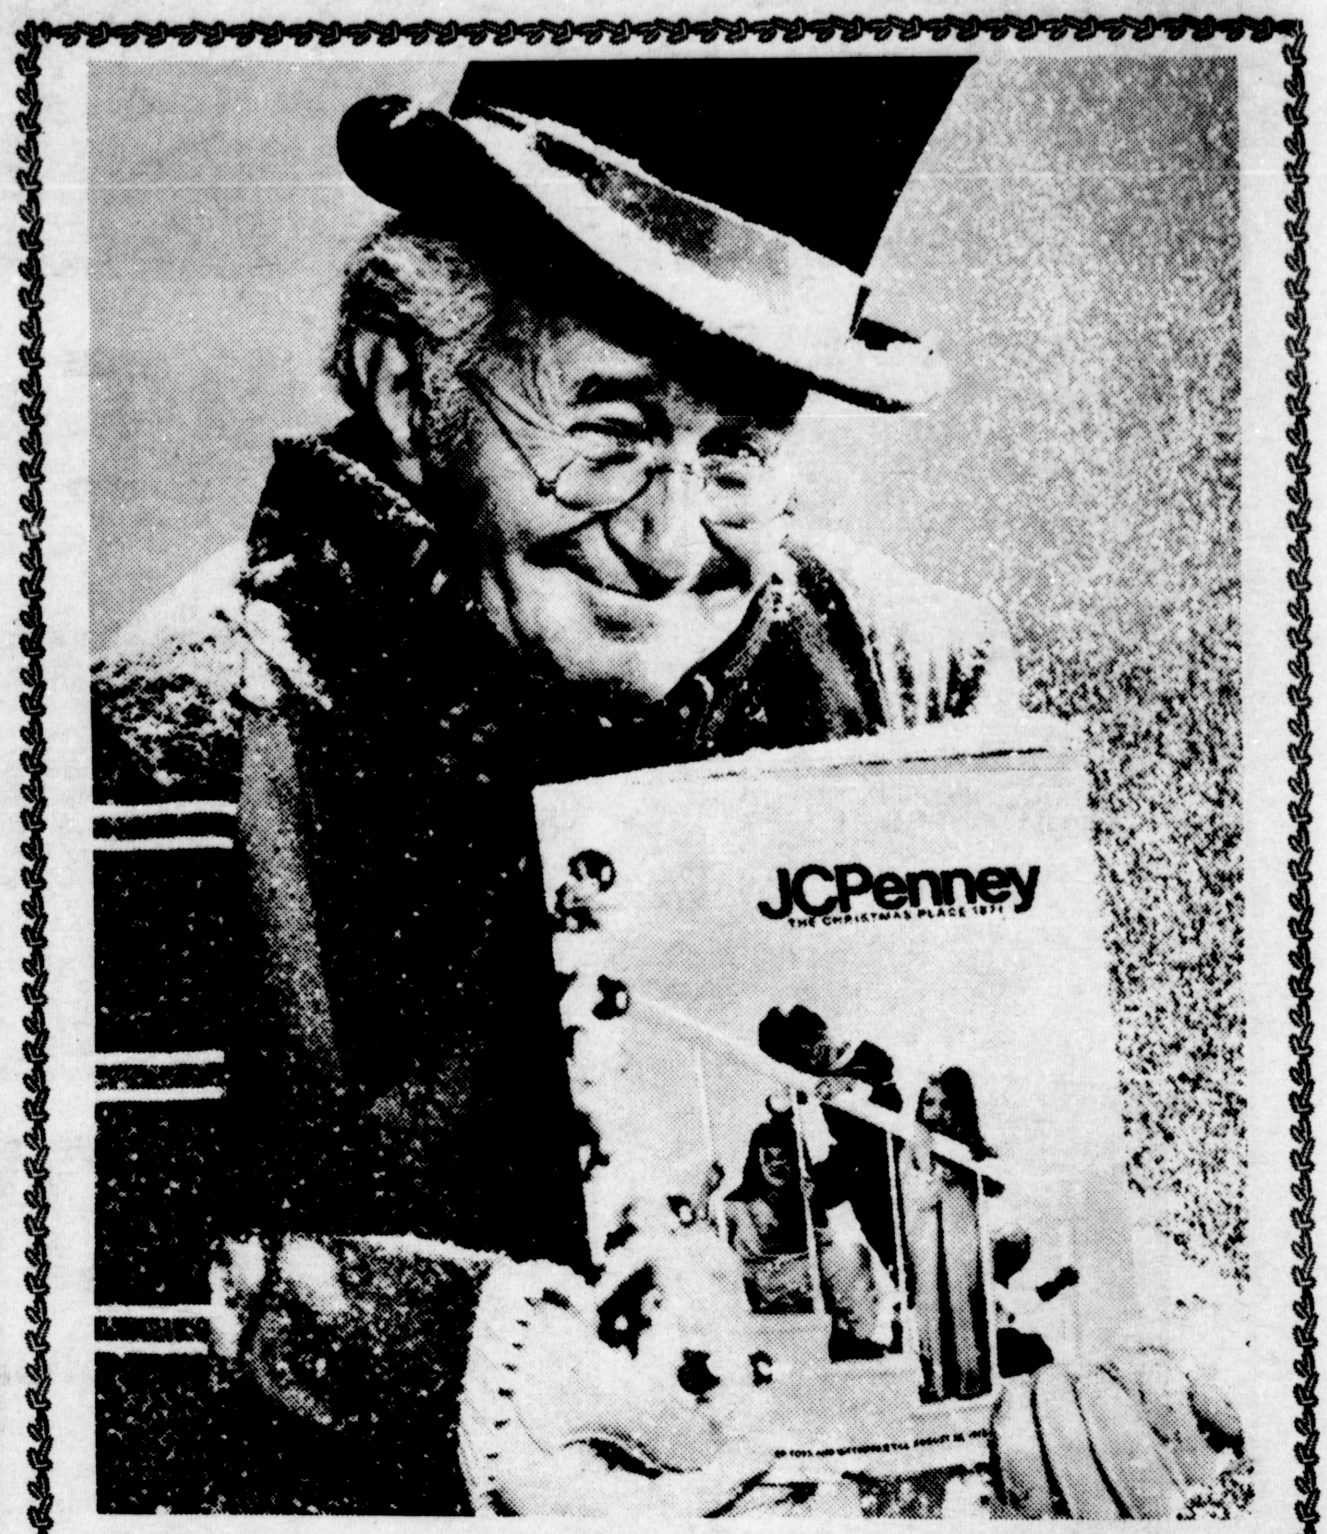

Fashion conscious youngsters will be attracted to such new doll entries as Penelope (Call me Penny), a long-legged cloth doll in fringed suedette jumper with matching boots and headband; and Teenie Boppers, whose wardrobes include such "now" creations as patchprint frocks, Indian style vests and slacks and knitted ponchos.

Old favorite character dolls like Raggedy Ann, Raggedy Andy and Bozo, the Clown, have been made into child-sized sleeping bags with full zipper closures and unique infant toys that attach to cribs and playpens, and which jump and squeak entertainingly when children tug at their pull-strings, as well as educational doll versions that help teach younger children how to lace, buckle, snap and zipper their clothing.

Shop Early! Lay-away a Gift each day.

Dolldom's newsmakers for Christmas include (l to r) Teach 'N Play Raggedy Ann, who helps pre-schoolers learn to handle laces, buttons, snaps, buckles and zippers; black Sunny Tot, with "Afro" styled hairdo; fashionable Teenie Bopper, wearing a long patch print peasant outfit; and Tender Loving Care, the drink and wet doll whose soft, resilient skin feels as lifelike as a real baby's.

Even Scrooge would smile at the merry, merry prices in Penneys Christmas Catalog.

When the Christmas shopping panic sets in, anyone can become a bit of a grouch. Let Penneys Christmas Catalog come to the rescue. With its jolly good selection and merry, merry prices it could make Christmas painless even for old Ebenezer! Key To A Merrier Christmas

If you're seeking a key to a Merry Christmas, you might just find one — literally.

A key can be an excellent gimmick for adding fun and suspense to Christmas festivities.

The locked closet game is a good example:

Select a convenient closet that can be locked with a key. Pile inside a collection of gaily-wrapped small gifts, the all-purpose kind that are suited to all ages and sexes — a deck of cards, perhaps, or a colorful poster, or desk accessories.

When family and friends are assembled, have them draw lots to determine who gets the first chance to use the key and choose a gift — blindfolded!

Allow only 30 seconds after the blindfold is on for the player to open the closet and grab a gift. If he muffs it, move on to another.

The game gains momentum and gaiety as successful players open the packages they have selected. Those who fail get a chance to choose from remaining gifts at the end.

Remember, Gifts Can Say Thanks

At Christmas it is customary to gift people who have been of service throughout the year — the mailman, garbageman, milkman, newspaperboy, building superintendent, cleaning lady and delivery boy.

Cigarettes, cigars, tobaccos for the smokers could eliminate the "what to get" for some of these persons.

Gloves and mufflers are appreciated gifts by the out-of-doors working man. And, thermos jugs and insulated food keepers can make the routes early in the morning a little more comfortable.

Housekeepers appreciate gifts of toiletries, clothing and accessories like gloves and scarves.

Gift certificates are always perfect for the "not sure what to get anybody." It does away with the burden of more holiday shopping.

The all-new KitchenAid dishwashers and disposers for people who believe in old-fashioned quality.

KitchenAid dishwashers and disposers are built with good, old-fashioned quality . . . the kind of quality that means years of dependable performance, day in and day out. Every KitchenAid is built better to work better and last longer. There are many types, many models . . . one just right for your needs.

KitchenAid built-in dishwashers

For utmost convenience, choose a KitchenAid built-in. Your choice of three series. The Superba model has such features as: 7 push button cycles, including SaniCycle for extra family health protection; and a Plate Warm cycle. Powerful wash/rinse system, with new Constant Rinse, that eliminates hand-rinsing. Gentle yet thorough Flo-Thru drying that's safe for fine china and good plasticware. For loading convenience, upper rack is easily adjusted to 9 positions. Spacemaker racks hold everything, even deep bowls, roasters. And only KitchenAid dishwashers have a wash chamber protected by TriDura®, a 3-coat, premium porcelain enamel.

KitchenAid food waste disposers

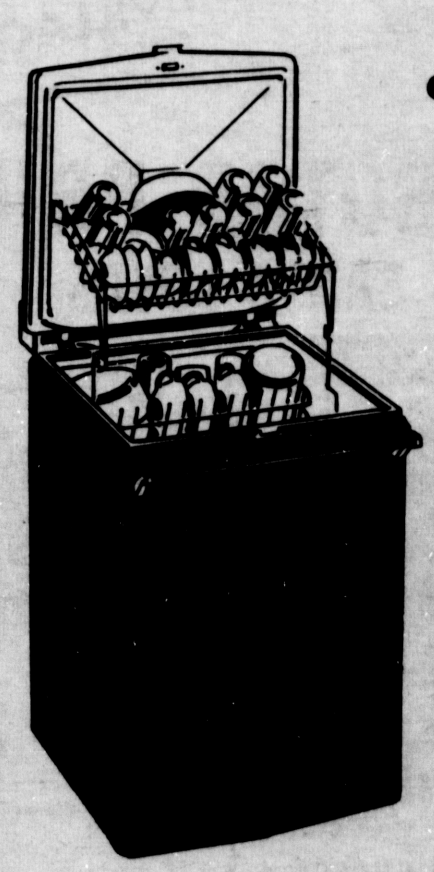

And now from KitchenAid . . . disposers with the kind of old-fashioned quality for which KitchenAid dishwashers are famous. They dispose of all garbage quietly and quickly. Even things like chicken bones and stringy vegetables. Jams are cleared electrically. KitchenAid disposers come in 4 models, batch feed and continuous feed types.

Come see the newest KitchenAid dishwashers and KitchenAid disposers.

We don't think quality is old-fashioned.

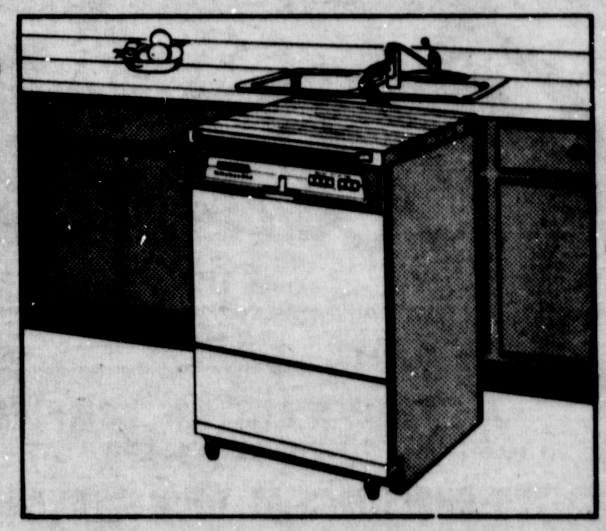

KitchenAid portable dishwashers

No room for a built-in? Buy a KitchenAid top-loading portable today, use it tonight. No installation cost. Beautiful new styling enhances any kitchen decor. Handsome hard maple or laminate top provides extra work surface. Features effective Hydro Sweep wash system and exclusive Flo-Thru drying, too. And it has premium porcelain enamel, inside and out. Your choice of many models.

KitchenAid convertible dishwashers

If you want the convenience of a portable dishwasher today—with a built-in future, a KitchenAid convertible is for you. Use it as a portable now, and build it in any time you wish. It loads from the front, like a built-in. And comes in three series, many beautiful colors. All with the famous washing and drying features of the KitchenAid built-ins.

Students Can Help Others Realize The Joys Of Season

Getting into the Christmas spirit can also be a way to arouse school spirit in a worthy plan to make other people happy.

It starts with a trim-the-tree party which can be folowed by a dance in the high school gymnasium.

Then, the drive starts. Gifts are placed under the tree, for delivery to children's hospital wards, nursing homes, private families in need or servicemen stationed overseas.

Canned food, toys, dolls, games, paperback books and candy are carefully wrapped and labeled for distribution.

Sometimes there are special sections for the different grade levels, but most often gifts are just spread about randomly.

Student government leaders rally round the tree before school, during study periods and after school to encourage students to contribute.

Volunteers are recruited to play school Santas and help deliver the bundles of presents.

Members of the school's chorus group usually accompany the Santas and sing carols as the gifts are given out.

Festive Punch Refreshing Change For Guests

Christmas is a fun-filled round of parties and get-togethers for all ages. To have something different and not-too-sweet to serve can be a problem.

Here is an elegant Champagne Tea Punch — a refreshing Constant Comment tea-based sipper with just enough spirits and bubbles to make the occasion lighthearted and fun! To go with it, offer tea sandwiches filled with watercress and thin slices of cucumber.

This glowing amber punch has a base of the Bigelow time-honored favorite tea flavored with the rind of orange and sweet spice. It is enhanced with just the right combination of brandy and champagne to make a memorable Christmas refreshment.

CHAMPAGNE TEA PUNCH

(Makes about 2 quarts)

1 quart water
3 Constant Comment tea bags
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup brandy, chilled
1 bottle champagne, chilled

Bring water to boil in large saucepan; add tea bags, cover pan and steep 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Add sugar to tea and stir until dissolved; chill. Add brandy and champagne to tea; stir and serve in tall crystal pitcher with ice.

Stocking Idea Lets Everyone Play Santa

Make this Christmas a "sock it to 'em" good time.

Yule time stockings and Christmas are practically synonymous. The tradition of filling stockings during this most festive time of year is really only three centuries younger than Christmas itself.

Over the 16 or so centuries which have passed since Saint Nicholas began the practice for all the good little boys and girls who lived in Asia Minor, filling stockings — hung by the chimney with care — has evolved into a world-wide Christmas Eve ritual.

In many families, each member, in addition to larger gifts that are piled under the tree, also selects a smaller "stocking gift" for the others. Sometimes, all the names are written on paper, individually folded and "secretly" drawn and each family member has a chance to play Santa for another member of the family.

One advantage of stocking filling is that small, inexpensive gifts can be exchanged. Many stores provide ready-filled versions for Santas who have extra-rushed gift lists.

Another advantage of the Christmas stocking is that everyone can get one. Mom, Dad, Sis, Junior and even the family pet can share in the fun. Many pet stores and departments have special stockings containing toys, treats and other "gifts."

Anti-Pollution Drive Reaches Younger Set

Citizen involvement may be the key to the success of the ecology movement, but no one has yet aimed at quite the population segment that the Pollution Test Kit is expected to reach.

The consumers who will use the new scientific "toy" to be marketed this fall are 8 to 14 years old. And a large part of the idea behind the Pollution Test Kit is to encourage these junior ecologists to report the violations they find to government officials.

"It's easy to pass legislation," writes William J. Beecher, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, in the kit's instruction booklet. "Our nation has anti-pollution laws; so does almost every state, city and village.

"At this moment in history, however, these laws are basically ineffective because there are far more violators than there are people to stop them. In addition to strict laws and strict enforcement, vigilant citizens are needed to help seek out the offenders —the polluters of our air and water and soil."

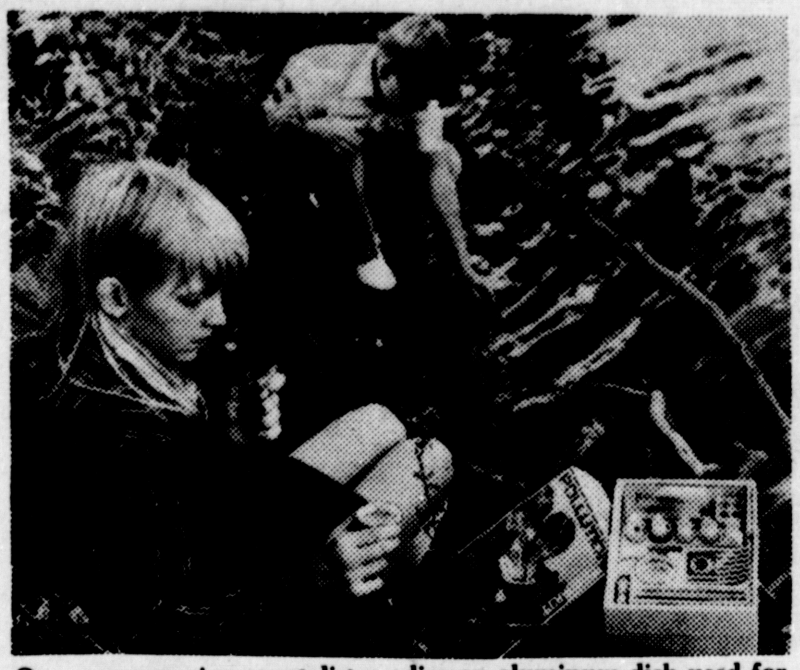

The kit contains dilute chemicals that must be mixed and labeled by the user, test tubes, corks, straws, magnifying glass, funnel, water-soluble paper, smoke chart, universal indicator (for checking acidity of water) and several special utensils.

Detailed instructions are provided for more than 100 hours of experiments, including testing air for particles, dust, aldehydes, sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide and ozone; testing water for phosphates and to determine acidity and alkalinity; and testing soil for acidity, alkalinity and organisms.

The kit, which is available through the Sears Christmas Catalog, was tested in the Sears Merchandise Development and Testing Laboratory and in a private laboratory.

Youngsters are encouraged to take their results to school and to consult their parents for suggestions of testing areas. They are urged to help improve their homes and communities—to take an interest in things familiar to them.

"It is important that the new generation be aware of the natural environment as a part of general education, as a part of the way we live," Dr. Beecher writes. "It is from people that the pressure will come which will influence civic and industrial leaders to give us a world in which we can live happily in good health."

One young environmentalist readies an aluminum dish used for detecting particulates in polluted water as her partner collects a water sample in a test tube. The Pollution Test Kit, available through the Sears Christmas Catalog and many Sears stores, aids youngsters in testing soil, water and air.

Toy Maker Acts To Bridge Generation Gap

With the holiday season approaching, gift-buying has precedence in everyone's thoughts. This year there is help at hand with gifts for friends and family of all ages.

No longer just a toy company, Mattel produces a wide variety of products for the world of the young at heart. For kids of all ages, Mattel has introduced a whole new line of creative art, called Imaginings. These new art forms were designed by art experts, initially for children, but everyone wants to get into the act.

Six new mediums are packaged individually, with everything for each creative project in one of the packages. The line includes Clear Cuts, simulated stained glass; Color Streaks and Drip Drops, both psychedelic paints; and Super Shapes, paper mache sculpting.

(For some pre-Christmas fun, the whole family will enjoy using Imaginings to make unique fanciful Christmas decorations.)

Keep Family Together

To keep the family together, there are some new games that bridge the generation gap. When choosing a game, try for one that will stimulate the adults, but that children can enjoy, too. Guaranteed to please both adults and children, Blarney is a new vocabulary game using little-known words. Knowledge isn't the important thing, but the ability to bluff.

Everyone has a good time and there won't be a glunch in the room — glunch is a typical Blarney word, and means "a sullen look."

A sports spectacular for the whole family is a tabletop game called Magnetel. Eleven shooting, scoring games can be played with a magnetic action. Consider some of the possibilities — Skid Pool, Rotation Pool and Skid-Tac-Toe.

While we're bridging the generation gap, consider some father-son gifts. Monogram models provide hours of fun for a boy and his Dad, plus a great "I did it myself satisfaction" for both. A scale model of a Lunar Module or a Huey Phantom Helicopter would be a good project.

Snap-Tite model kits by Mattel are for the small model-building enthusiast.

Battery Powered

Two of the most popular kits are Snoopy in his Bugatti race car or on his World War I motorcycle with his bird friend Woodstock in the side car. To add extra fun, both the Bugatti and motorcycle will scoot across the floor with battery-powered motors.

New Mattel craft items make lovely gifts — given as a kit or the finished item. Plush Point is simple to do, yet a detailed handcrafted picture when finished. Plush wire is inserted into a specially designed, burlap covered, plastic foam board. Eight different pictures are available — four 11" x 14" designs and four less complicated 8" x 10" versions for children.

With new Tissue Tones, the results are like oil paintings, but the doing is easier and not messy. Many shades of tissue and a special Glue Glaze produce the shades and tone that previously was accomplished only by oil. Tissue Tones are also available in eight versions — four 8" x 10" pictures for children and four 11" x 14" more detailed designs.

Slightly More Complex

For a slightly more complicated craft idea, try Bottle People. These handsome decanters are colorful and waterproof. All the necessary materials are assembled into a kit and the result is a welcome addition to any home.

Newspaper Can Help Plan Activities

With a little inventiveness and a watchful eye on the newspapers, parents can plan a variety of family activities geared to the youngsters for the holidays.

Schedules of Christmas plays, movies and community parties are listed routinely in newspapers, church bulletins and PTA newsletters.

Some civic organizations and service clubs sponsor grab-bag parties, Christmas pageants and carol groups.

Visits to a favorite department store's Toyland can be fun outings. The kids have a chance to sit on Santa's lap, and browse through a wonderland of games and toys.

Neighborhoods frequently organize activities according to age group.

While the tots have a session with Santa, the older children might be making hand puppets and staging a puppet show. Teens often visit children's hospital wards to sing carols and distribute homemade cookies.

And, to get all the age groups together, a snowman contest can be arranged. The children can be given a certain time period in which to build and decorate a prize-winning Frosty.

LET'S MAKE IT A
GRAVELY CHRISTMAS
THIS YEAR!

AN IDEAL GIFT
FOR DAD . . .
FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

You'll love it in December as you did in May.

When winter comes. Gravely attachments really get snow out of the way. Quickly, efficiently, effortlessly.

The two-stage Gravely Snowblower eats up drifts . . . blows snow from one to fifty feet away, with full directional control from the operator's position. The 48" Gravely SnowDozer clears sidewalks and driveways fast with a special arched blade that keeps the snow rolling smoothly to either side.

Back up one of these snow movers with a powerful Gravely Tractor and you'll cut the work right down to size. Choice of rider or convertible models, 7.6 to the new 16.5 HP, all-gear drive, and built-better-than-it-has-to-be quality mean performance and reliability you'll cherish through the years.

Handy Moms help stretch family budget with do-it-yourself gifts. This creative homemaker uses terry cloth towels with patterns and instructions from the booklet, "Fun and Easy Terry Ideas." By WestPoint Pepperell.

Being Thrifty--Create Gifts From Terry Cloth

These days when Christmas gift giving strains the budgets of most, it pays to be thrifty and "do your own thing" at home. For what we have in mind, you don't need to use a sewing machine, just a minimum of dexterity with a needle.

And, guess what, you'll be using terry cloth towels in bright colors and prints, already hemmed and sometimes fringed.

The patterns and instructions for the gift items illustrated in a booklet, "Fun and Easy Terry Ideas" are deliberately easy to follow, and patterns clearly sketched. In many cases, you don't even need scissors because all you do is fold.

WestPoint Pepperell have gathered together some gift ideas for all ages and for all occasions. These happy toys, glamorous decorative accessories and high fashion items are useful for all happy holidays.

Chances are you couldn't buy terry cloth by the yard in these prints, and that's why we are suggesting that you use our great looking Martex® and Lady Pepperell® brands for these gift items. Many stores carry one or the other.

All designs in the pages of the booklet were done exclusively for WestPoint Pepperell by Annie Hayum. Sewing supply stores can sell you whatever trimmings are suggested. To obtain the booklet free of charge, just write to: Corporate Product News & Information Department, WestPoint Pepperell, 111 W. 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Young Set Starts Bicycling Boom;

If all the bicycles Santa Claus is expected to deliver this Christmas were laid end to end, they would stretch out almost 2,000 miles, or roughly, from White River Junction, Vermont, to the outskirts of Amarillo, Texas. And if Santa expects to get them all delivered in one sled, he'd better add a few more reindeer power than he's already got on hand, for this Christmas' bike load will weigh in at a hefty 40,000 tons.

In simpler terms, American families are expected to buy nearly two million bikes this Christmas, more than in any other Christmas buying season in history. Recession or not, America is experiencing a bicycle boom of supersonic proportions, and total 1971 sales are expected to approach 8.5 million units.

Explain Popularity

Good health and physical fitness, economical means of transportation, a near-perfect vehicle for family recreation, an absolutely non-polluting vehicle ... all these adjectives apply to the bicycle, and, taken collectively, they help explain the bike's growing popularity, not only with millions of kids, but with growing numbers of not-so-youngsters over 30.

Additionally, the bike has almost universal appeal. Tall or short, thin or fat, black or white, rich or poor .... anybody can ride one. Bike riding requires no special skills, nor a high degree of athletic prowess. And American manufacturers are producing a wider variety of styles, sizes, colors, models, optional equipment and price ranges than ever before. Literally, there is an American-made bike to fit every taste, need and pocketbook. This year's Christmas bikes can cost as little as $30 and as much as $350, with the average price running somewhere between $50 and $150, depending on quality and optional equipment.

A big contributing factor to the current bike boom is the fact that there are more places to ride a bike — more interesting, pleasant places—than ever have been .... and more are on the way. For just as the federal highway building program has helped stimulate auto sales, so too, the recent growth of federal, state and local Bikeways development has made bicycle riding a more popular

Nearly 10,000 miles of specially marked Bikeways, paths and trails have been developed across America in the last seven years, with the Bicycle Institute of America cooperating with the U.S. Departments of Interior, Agriculture and Commerce, as well as with many state and private agencies in the development of the scenic, historic and recreational trails.

Winter fitness — bundled warmly, bicyclists are discovering that even in blustery weather when street conditions are dry, cycling can be fun, especially on those newly-delivered Christmas wheels. The Bicycle Institute has some ideas, too, for winter bike fun. While stores are featuring festive windows and whole neighborhoods are out-doing each other with Christmas decorations, a Christmas bike tour can be great fun for the family crowd.

Leads Way

Recently, the state of Oregon passed historic legislation, decreeing that a minimum 1% of all state highway funds be spent on bike and foot trail development. In 1972, this will amount to nearly $2.5 million in Oregon. In Washington, Congressman Ed Koch (D-N.Y.) and Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney (D-Cal.) introduced identical versions of the Bicycle Transportation Act of 1971 into their Houses.

This bill would provide matching funds from the federal highway trust fund to states and communities for bike path construction. To those who have been struggling for bike trails over the years, this means that the good times are a'comin.

How To Make Colorful Yule

Handmade fruits of bright-colored yarn are never out-of-season. Let a Christmas Fruit Bowl bring sunshine to your holiday table.

The Norcross Design Studio created the fruits in the photograph from their Designer Yarn and plastic foam balls. Instructions for making them are given below and in a booklet called "Decorate with Gift Wraps, Vol. 2."

The booklet, filled with dozens of inexpensive ideas for Christmas decorations and gifts, is available wherever gift wraps are sold, or send 50 cents to "Decorate with Gift Wraps," 14 Main Street, Park Ridge, Illinois 60068.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT BOWL

Materials: Foam balls in various sizes, pipe cleaners, Norcross gold Lustre-Cord, white glue. Norcross Designer Yarns: one card each of orange for (A) Orange, yellow for two (B) Lemons, red for (C) Apple, yellow for (D) Pear, pink for several (E) Cherries, pink for four (F) Strawberries. Small piece of black Lustre-Tie. Two cards yellow Designer Yarn for (G) Pineapple. One spool gold Lustre-Cord. Pins. One card green Designer Yarn for Leaves on (A) and (G).

DIRECTIONS

For fruits that require other than a round ball, shape the foam by rolling it, while pressing very hard against it with your hand on a flat, firm surface. To flatten one side of a ball, press and rub it on such a surface. Pear shape is made by flattening the end of two balls (one slightly smaller than the other) and glue flattened ends together as shown. All fruits are covered with a continuous spiral of Designer Yarn fastened to foam with white glue. Always wind yarn from bottom to top.

Fruit Bowl For Your Table

To Make Stems: Remove inner string from Lustre-Cord and insert pipe cleaners. Use 3" lengths of each for Orange, Lemon, Pear and Apple. Use 2" lengths for Strawberries. Push one end of stem into fruit and glue in place. Bend back ½" at top. For Cherries, remove string from 7" length of gold Lustre-Cord. Fold in half. Tie ½" down from fold with thread. Glue ends to Cherries.

To Make Leaves: For Orange, Lemon, Pear, Apple and Cherries, cut 3" length of green yarn. Form loop. Twist and glue ends together. Glue one to base of Orange, Lemon and Pear stems. Glue one to top of Cherry stem. Glue two loops together to base of Apple stem. For Strawberries, instead of a leaf, make a flat fluff of green yarn by tying two 1" lengths of yarn together in the center and fluffing the yarn with a pin. Cut tiny squares of black Lustre-Tie. Glue to Strawberry as illustrated.

Pineapple: Shape and cover with yellow yarn as previously described. Pin gold Lustre-Cord around fruit in diagonal pattern as illustrated.

To Make Leaves for Pineapple: Wind green yarn around 12 pipe cleaners. Bend each one in half and tie ends together. Insert ends into top of fruit. Bend leaves to realistic shapes.

Postal Authorities Say: Mail Packages On Time

There's one rule to follow in mailing Christmas cards, letters and packages — the sooner you do it, the better. Observing post office deadlines helps avoid the disappointment of having your greetings and gifts arrive late.

Postal authorities recommend that you have all packages and out-of-state letters and cards in the mail by December 10th. Local greeting cards should be out by December 15th.

October 15th was the deadline for mailing packages to Viet Nam, but you can still send them there by air mail until December 10th. These recommended dates apply also to areas in the Far East.

For Canada and Mexico, regular mail should be in the post office by December 4th. Deadline for air mail to these countries is December 15th.

Other out-of-country deadlines for surface and air mail are as follows: Europe and South and Central America, November 15th and December 13th; Africa and the Near East, November 1st and December 10th.

Wrap all packages securely in sturdy boxes and heavy paper. Tie them with strong twine. Be sure to pad fragile items. Put the mailing address in the right central portion and the return address in the upper left hand corner ON ONLY ONE SIDE OF THE PACKAGE. For speediest delivery, be sure to use zip code numbers.

Key To Gifting Man Is Knowing His Habits

With the growing interest in leisure-time activities, the most rewarding gifts for the man in your life are those he can use for his non-working hours.

Is he the outdoor type? Does he fish, horseback ride, hunt or canoe? How about a new spinning rod or a riding crop? If you're going big, buy him a new tent, sleeping bag or air mattress.

Or a new cooler, a lantern or fancy flashlight. Stocking stuffers—flashlight batteries, spinning reel, casting flies, pocket knife.

Is he a do-it-himselfer — adding a new wing to the house, building a pool or a patio? An electric drill, bricks or fancy tile to build the barbeque—gifts like these could get him started on the renovating you want, too.

For Less Money

Is your man a sports buff? Tickets to the "big game" of his choice—basketball, baseball, football, soccer or indoor polo — can't miss pleasing him.

Or a new cushion to sit on — a hip flask and cigars to keep him satisfied as well as comfortable.

For the fashion-conscious man—a tie is no longer considered a tired, unimaginative gift. What about some of the great-looking neck chains with a handsome medallion, the wildest argyle socks to go with his new suit, or a velvet smoking jacket for lounging in comfort after work.

For the man of leisure around the house — a lava lamp for his den. A sheepskin rug for the floor. Make an extra comfortable corner for him to relax in — if you want to go for the works — a new lounge recliner, that shelving he's been wanting, a big stand-up ashtray for cigars and a new humidor to keep his gift cigars fresh.

For the man concerned with his weight and physical fitness, there is a whole array of exercise equipment running from simple hand grippers to a built-in sauna. If he's into health foods—stuff his stocking with a jar of sunflower seeds or sesame nuggets.

How to really pamper him at Christmas. Give him a whole selection of cigars. Try an assortment of different sizes and shapes in a box of 25 or 50.

Add a Humidor

The perfect companion is a humidor. It need not be exotic and fancy-made of rosewood or teak, but any humidor that closes tightly and provides an inside source of moisture is appropriate.

Christmas gift suggestions for the man who does everything — especially if he's a cigar smoker. Pictured above are a variety of gifts, each of which will please your personal Santa; including a humidor chock-full of his favorite cigars; a cigar cutter; a lighter; deep ash-tray; and a silver cigar holder.
